Crime declines sharply here during 1972

by LYNN ASINOF

Comparative year-end figures released by the Wheeling Police Department show that the number of police calls increased 11 per cent last year, but the number of reported criminal offenses decreased 28 per cent.

As of the end of last December, 1,748 criminal offenses were reported to the police, while there were 2,438 reported in 1971. The increased number of police calls resulted primarily from a 42 per cent rise in the number of reported traffic-related incidents.

There were, however, significant increases of reported offenses in several criminal categories. The largest increase was in the number of reported weapons offenses, which went from one in 1971 to 19 in 1972. Seven of these cases were attributed to juveniles, and no arrests were recorded in this category.

The number of reported aggravated assaults increased 350 per cent, from eight in 1971 to 36 in 1972. Half of these reported assaults resulted in arrests.

THREE CRIMINAL categories showed a decrease in reported offenses. The largest decrease was in disorderly conduct, where 398 cases were reported last year compared with 814 in 1971. The reported number of rapes decreased from three in 1971 to two in 1972.

The number of reported larceny cases involving less than $50 decreased 38 per cent from 433 in 1971 to 280 last year. However, the number of reported larcenies involving more than $50 increased 44 per cent, with 194 cases last year compared with 133 in 1971.

Correspondingly, the number of arrests for larceny over $50 went up 71 per cent, with 12 arrests last year. Arrests for the other larceny category went up only slightly.

Of the total number of criminal incidents reported last year, the police have arrested suspects in 9.6 per cent of the cases. This is an increase for the police department compared to 1971, when police made arrests in 7.5 per cent of the cases.

In serious criminal offenses generally considered felonies, the police department average was even better, with arrests in 10.3 per cent of the reported cases. In 1971, arrests were made in 8.6 per cent of the cases.

Enforcement for the less serious criminal cases remained about the same, with arrests in approximately 7.4 per cent of the reported cases in both years.

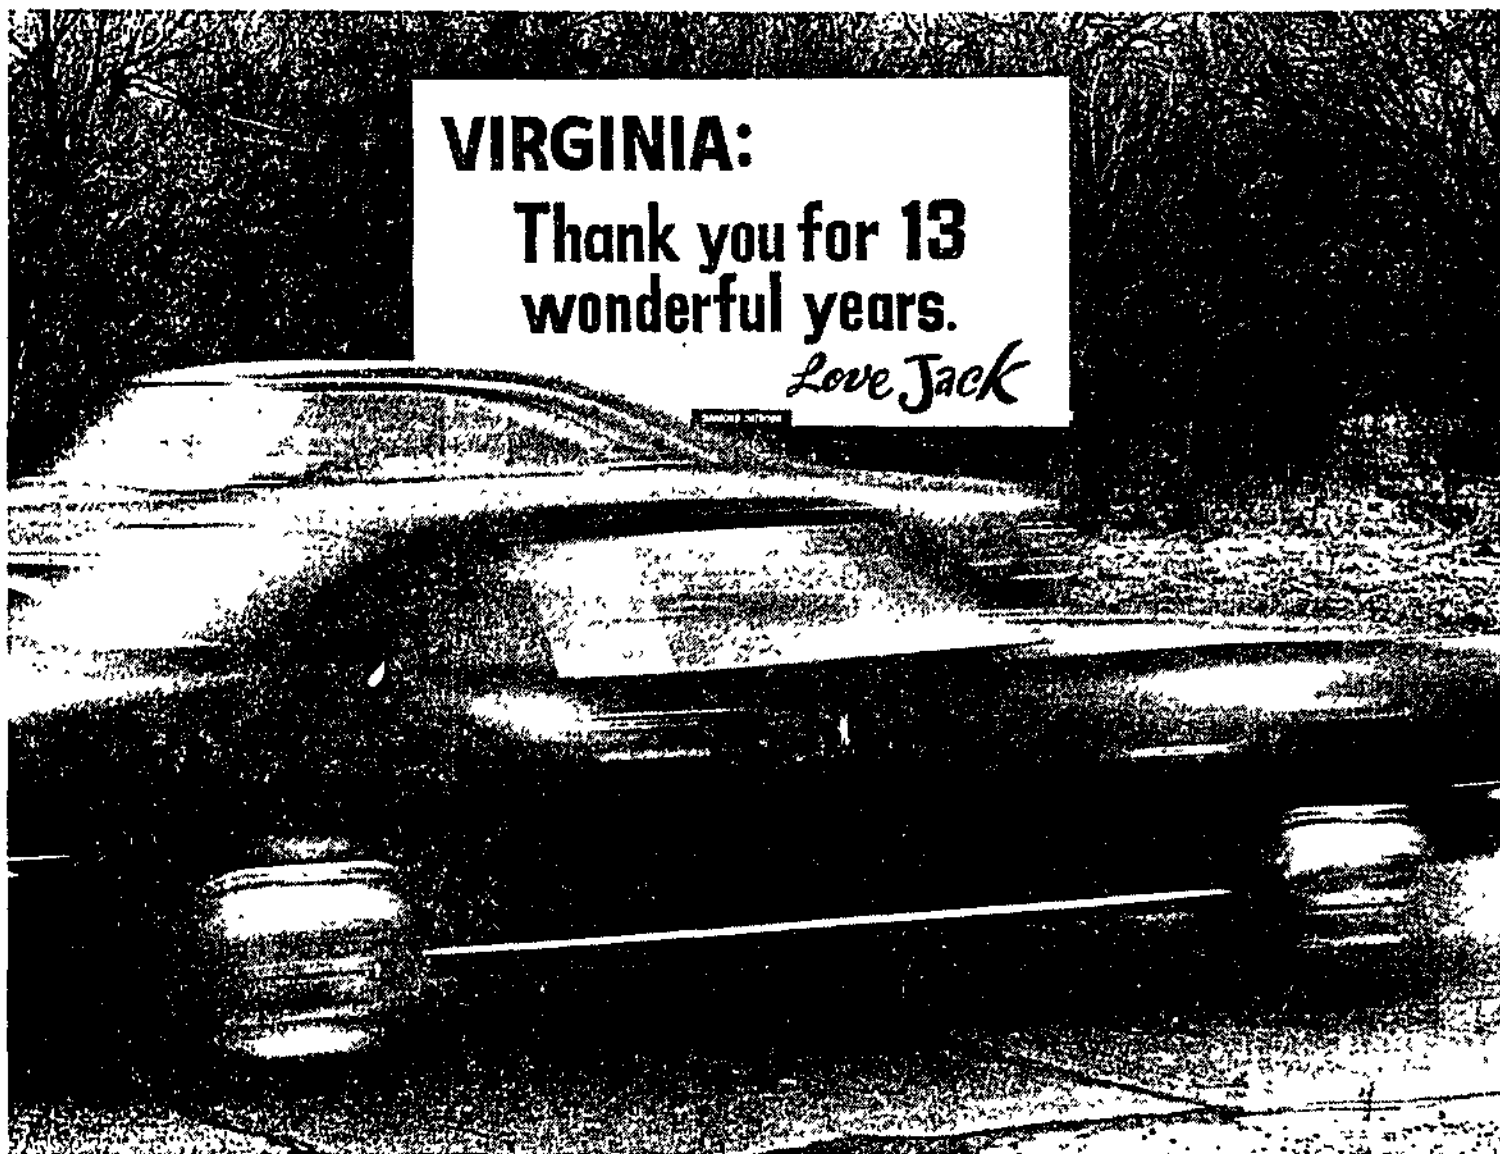

The total number of reported juvenile offenses increased last year by 51 per cent, with 356 cases reported last year compared with 235 in 1971. Only 64 of these cases were felonies while 292 were in less serious criminal categories.

THE MOST COMMON juvenile offenses include runaways, disorderly conduct, larceny involving less than $50 and criminal damage. Drug offenses for juveniles decreased 63 per cent, from eight in 1971 to three last year.

Police figures show reported traffic accidents increased 32 per cent, with a corresponding increase of 39 per cent in the number of citations issued for traffic violations.

The number of accidents involving pedestrians decreased, while all other types of accidents increased in number. Accidents involving property damage increased 48 per cent and those resulting in personal injury increased 25 per cent.

Most traffic citations were issued for parking violations. The police issued 1,405 parking tickets last year, representing a 92 per cent increase over the 1971 figure of 733. Speeding tickets, however, ran a close second, with 1,119 issued last year compared with 647 in 1971.

Students overrule computers, schedule classes

Insight out

KENNETH GILL, superintendent of Dist. 21, has taken a lot of kidding about his new title. There have been some remarks that he should begin wearing a white coat and stethoscope, but he isn't that kind of doctor. Gill recently completed work on his PhD degree from Northern Illinois University, but takes credit for only 90 per cent of the effort. He credits the office staff with the other 10 per cent, since they helped him with the crucial thesis that clinched his PhD in education. Incidentally, he prefers NOT to be called Dr. Gill.

BILL BIEBEN, director of building and zoning for Wheeling, refuses to let a hospital slow down his work. He is in traction after an auto accident last month, but is reportedly keeping the switchboard busy at Lutheran General Hospital as he does his job by phone. He is doing his work with such vigor that callers often have to wait for a line.

No longer will the students of Wheeling High School be just numbers thrown out of a computer when it comes time to schedule classes. The students will do the work themselves next year.

Wheeling High School will be just one of the schools in High School Dist. 214 that will be going to the "Student Self-Scheduling Program." The program is fashioned after college-type scheduling.

It is designed to give the student the freedom of saying when he'd like to take a class and who he would like to teach it.

"We can't always promise that the student will get the teacher and the time he prefers," said WHS principal Tom Shirley. "We will guarantee that he will always get the classes he wants."

SHIRLEY AND his new assistant, Steve Berry, both said the variables are too great to promise everyone getting the times and teachers they select. They said classes can only be filled to the limit, and then must be closed.

"We feel the students will try to get the time element before the other two choices," said Berry. "I don't feel the selection of a teacher will mean all that much to the students."

Shirley explained that the teacher selection was one of the major concerns thought out by officials before going to the new program. He said officials were worried that the students would all try to select the "easy" teachers, and not select some teachers at all.

"I must give the students in this school, and for that matter, any school, more credit than that. They are all young adults and 99 per cent are here to get a good education. I don't think we will see those problems in Wheeling," said the smiling principal.

THE TWO MEN explained that the time factor is important because so many students have part-time jobs. They also said that although it is not widely known, Dist. 214 offers a contract so students may leave school early or arrive later than the normal times.

For example, if a student scheduled all his classes for the afternoon, he could get a contract from the school. It would be signed by student and parent and the student would not come to school until noon. The same holds true for students who select all their classes in the morning. Their afternoons are free.

Shirley said he foresees more of this being done under the new system.

Both men also agreed that the new system will make a student feel more like a person than a number.

Berry said that under the computer system, neither student nor staff could say anything about who went where. This new way, the student picks his own way.

THE SCHEDULING for Wheeling High School will take place during the week of Aug. 20. On each of the first four days a different class will come to the school and students will make their choices. On the fifth day anyone with a conflict or who missed the previous days of registration can seek help.

"We don't encourage the students to miss their assigned day because by Friday of that week the choices won't be too good. We also are encouraging the parents to schedule their summer vacations around the registration week so their children get the best selections," said Berry.

The new system will be hardest on the incoming freshman class, but the school officials have scheduled orientation dates for parents of those students. The dates are Feb. 20 and 21.

On the 20th, the parents of students at Holmes and MacArthur junior high schools, as well as those from St. Mary's, St. Joseph the Worker and St. Alphonsus schools will be asked to come to the high school.

The next night is reserved for parents of London Junior High School eighth graders and the few students from St. Peter's school. London will supply more than half the freshman class for Wheeling High School next year.

Current Wheeling students will start an orientation program during their physical education periods next week. The orientation will be in the school theater.

BOTH ADMINISTRATORS said they see no problem in the new program and think it will better the students and the school district.

Shirley said the parents need not worry about students making poor choices because they will be helped and guided throughout the process by counselors and teachers.

The only school in Dist. 214 that has tried the new program is Forest View, and officials there say it is a success. Four more district schools will join the program with a June registration week, and Wheeling and two others will join in August.

Only Buffalo Grove High School will keep the traditional scheduling until 1974 because it is new. BGHS will join the program the following September.

The nation

Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., has proposed legislation to require registration and licensing of all handguns.

The United States has received a Communist list of seven American POWs held in Laos. (Turn to page 10.)

Survivors of a United Air Lines jet which crashed in Chicago on Dec. 3, killing 43 persons, said the plane began to "shake and shudder" before it struck the ground, Washington safety experts said.

Amtrak officials reported an increasing number of passengers riding the trains . . . but said deteriorating track conditions threaten high-speed rail service.

Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi was improving but still in critical condition following a holdup outside his Washington home.

The state

The widow of Illinois Harness Racing Commissioner James Hayes has testified that her husband told her former Gov. Otto Kerner asked him in 1965 to change racing dates. (For other testimony see Page 2.)

Rep. Robert Mann, D-Chicago, will ask Gov. Daniel Walker to release $10 million in U.S. funds to help bail out the financially troubled CTA.

Gov. Daniel Walker contends he can hold the line on taxes in the state for the next four years despite predictions that education costs will push taxes higher.

The president of the 1,600-member Illinois Police Federation has strongly criticized David Fogel, and Jerome Miller as Governor Walker's nominations for top positions in the state penal system.

Government tries to prove Kerner perjured himself

Transcripts read in court yesterday showed that former Gov. Otto Kerner told a federal grand jury in 1971 he never interfered with the awarding of racing dates.

Government attorneys, seeking to prove that Kerner perjured himself before the grand jury, introduced the transcripts as evidence in the racetrack stock bribery trial of Kerner and former state Revenue Director Theodore J. Isaacs.

Parts of the transcripts read in court showed that Kerner, who was under investigation when he appeared voluntarily before the grand jury, told the panel: "I tell you now, I told you before, and I will tell you again I never dictated anyone to do anything with racing dates . . . and I tell you that unequivocally."

THE GOVERNMENT contends that Kerner in the early 1960s did interfere with the awarding of racing dates by ordering Illinois Harness Commission Chairman Thomas Bradley to take dates away from Maywood Park and give them to Washington Park and Sportsman Park.

Prosecutors also contend that Kerner discussed racing dates with several racetrack executives. Kerner denied doing that in his grand jury testimony.

The government is expected to present only four more witnesses, including Bradley before resting its case.

The government has already presented 30 witnesses to the seven women-five man jury in an effort to prove Kerner and Isaacs accepted racetrack stock at bargain rates while Kerner was governor.

In return, the government says, Kerner and Isaacs used their influence to do favors for the track owners.

Otto Kerner

IN TESTIMONY Wednesday, however, one witness gave Kerner a character plug.

Attorney Isidore Brown testified he has known Kerner for 40 years and thinks "favorably" of him.

"What is his (Kerner's) reputation for truth and veracity," defense lawyer Paul Connolly asked.

"As far as I'm concerned, it's the best," Brown replied.

Brown was called as a government witness as part of an effort to prove that Kerner lied to federal agents about his ownership of racetrack stock.

On his 1967 income tax return Kerner had said he owned 14,000 shares of stock in a firm called the Chicago Co.

WHEN INTERNAL Revenue Service agents questioned him about the stock in 1970, he told them the firm was a financial institution and that his old friend Isidore Brown was on the board of directors.

Two IRS agents testified Tuesday that in fact, the "Chicago Co." listed on the tax return was Chicago Harness Racing

The Illinois Racing Board yesterday moved to strip racing associations controlled by William Miller of 1973 racing dates and set new hearings on the controversial racing schedule.

The action could eventually result in a change of racing dates for Arlington Park Race Track. But so far the track here will open April 19 and close July 24.

Atty. Gen. William Scott told the racing board yesterday that he will ask the Illinois Supreme Court to hear an emergency appeal on his suit to revoke the dates awarded to Miller's associations.

In addition to Scott's appeal, the racing board voted to withhold licenses from Miller's Balmoral Jockey Club and Balmoral Trot Corp. and to hold new hearings Feb. 13 on the dates questions.

RACING BOARD Chairman Anthony Scariano said the board's withholding of licenses for the two associations is based on Miller's testimony before the Illinois Legislative Investigating Committee and in the race track conspiracy trial of former Gov. Otto Kerner.

"Miller's testimony, it seems to me, has him admitting to every high crime, excluding treason, and we are justified to hold hearings on why his dates should not be revoked," Scariano said.

Circuit Court Judge Robert J. Downing Wednesday upheld the 1973 racing schedule as announced last November by the old racing board.

Scott said yesterday that his suit was filed with Downing before Miller had testified in the Kerner trial. The attorney general said he would ask the supreme court to consider all of Miller's testimony, including admissions of lying and misrepresentation before the racing board.

If the racing board succeeds in revoking Miller's dates, Arlington Park could get some of the racing days now assigned to Balmoral Jockey Club added to the end of its racing schedule.

Or, as track officials hope, the board could draw up a completely new dates schedule.

SCARIANO YESTERDAY criticized Judge Downing's ruling and congratulated Scott on his decision to file an emergency appeal.

"I view the ruling as meaning that any board, no matter how irresponsible or how depraved, can award racing dates that are not going to be looked into by a court," he said.

"I for one cannot live with that kind of opinion."

Scott said he will ask the supreme court to hear the case immediately because the racing dates question involves a minimum of $48 million in state revenue. By his testimony, Miller has shown himself unable to meet the quality of good moral character required of racing license holders, Scott said.

"I would be very surprised if Mr. Miller gets a license," he said.

SCARIANO SAID the Feb. 13 hearing will begin with an examination of Miller's racing applications but he said he would not hesitate to go into applications from other associations "if there is evidence of any other hanky-panky."

Until the racing dates controversy is settled, Arlington Park officials say they can only sit and wait.

Yesterday's action seemed to bring them a little closer to the longer, choicer racing season they are seeking. But any change in the racing schedule is still at least several weeks off and the April 19 opening is moving up fast.

Other cities support systems

More transit aid needed for area?

by BARRY SIGALE

Chicago and suburban mass transit systems are being virtually ignored when it comes to getting financial aid to keep running as compared with other major metropolitan areas throughout the country.

This was the recurrent theme at Wednesday's all-day conference entitled, "What's Ahead for Public Transportation?" sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry and held at the Pick-Congress Hotel.

Several speakers echoed one another when they claimed that mass transit problems received higher priority in Boston, Atlanta, Seattle, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, Oakland, New York, Los Angeles and Philadelphia. And the difference, it was pointed out, is not even close.

The conclusion: mass transit in the Chicago area is in a state of crisis.

According to Alan Boyd, president of Illinois Central Gulf Railroad and keynote speaker, "the threat of bankruptcy has become so commonplace in the affairs of urban bus systems that, nowadays, even the cessation of operations hardly rates a headline."

"DEFICITS ARE so common for municipal transportation systems," he said, "that only in Illinois is there any serious debate anymore about operating subsidies. Chicago and Cleveland are the only two major metropolitan areas in the U.S. that do not inject massive operating subsidies into their public transportation systems."

Boyd listed other major metropolitan transit systems which have received a large subsidy of public funds from the cities they serve and compared this with Chicago.

Boston gives its transportation system 60 per cent of its operating costs, he said. Atlanta, which reduced its fares from 40 to 15 cents, gives its mass transportation system 55 per cent of its operating costs. Other cities and the percentage they give for operating costs include:

Seattle, 53 per cent; San Francisco, 50 per cent; Pittsburgh, 38 per cent; Oakland, 36 per cent; Los Angeles, 34 per cent; and Philadelphia, 34 per cent.

Chicago, he said, gives slightly more than two per cent of its public funds for operating costs.

Boyd said Chicago has the "very best mix of transportation available to any major metropolitan area. Chicago's CTA, the bus system, the commuter railroads and the web of expressways that converge upon the center of town are little short of magnificent."

BUT, HE SAID, "demographic trends, the rate of U.S. urbanization, the increasing concern for resource allocation, environment and questioning of conventional attitudes regarding our automobile civilization all add up to some potent, underlying possibilities that await the defensible social and financial arrangements for public transportation in metropolitan areas."

The life or death situation facing the Chicago area transit systems is the same situation affecting other metropolitan transit systems several years ago, according to most of the experts. And the answer to Chicago area problems is a single operating agency to coordinate all transit systems, they said.

William Ronan, chairman of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA) of the State of New York, compared the MTA's history to the present state of this area's transit problems.

"In going through the summary of (former Gov. Ogilvie's Transportation Task Force) report, I found an almost perfect description of the New York Metropolitan Region in the period prior to the establishment of the MTA," Ronan said.

"Let me list a few of them:
• "a crisis of major proportions;
• "a serious danger of financial collapse;

• "operational deterioration to the point of unacceptable levels of service;

• "an intolerable situation for one of the most dynamic regions in the world."

"CHANGE THE NAMES of the places and some of the statistics in your report, those related to area, population and the like, and you have identified the problems which started to become evident in our area in the late 1950s and the early 1960s."

Ronan explained that the physical facilities of the metropolitan area's public transportation system were outmoded, suffered from years of deferred maintenance and lacked adequate capacity for present day and future traffic demands.

Additionally, he said, receipts from fares was insufficient to meet the costs of maintaining an urban transportation system under today's economic conditions. The vicious circle of service curtailments, decline in operational reliability and fare increases had set in. The problem was clearly of regional scope and only strong state action could be expected to solve it.

Ronan added that the legislature provided the necessary funds for public transportation improvements and other programs and created the MTA. It gave the MTA broad policy-making responsibilities for planning, constructing and operating public transportation services within a 12 county area, as well as the financial means of accomplishing the tasks assigned to it.

It is just such a system that has been proposed by various transit systems. The major difference remaining, however, is what to do with the Chicago Transit Authority (CTA), that is, should it be included along with suburban systems under the auspices of an operating agency or left to fend for itself.

Last-minute gifts bring Center tally to $5,905

A rush of last-minute contributions yesterday brought the Herald Center Fund total to $5,905 with more donations still being received.

The community-wide appeal in behalf of The Salvation Army Community Counseling Center has been sponsored by the Herald and directed at helping the family service agency meet its 1972 financial deficit.

The fund appeal officially ended Wednesday. A complete financial report on the drive as well as a final list of donors will be published in Monday's Herald.

All money donated to the fund has been deposited in The Salvation Army Community Counseling Center account at The Bank & Trust Co., of Arlington Heights. The account is administered by Charles E. Hayes, Herald editor and publisher and chairman of the center's Advisory Council; Dr. Albert E. Smedley, Advisory Council finance chairman; and Brig. Helen McClellan, director of Salvation Army Family Division.

Plan conflict unresolved

The conflict created by three developers who plan projects that do not agree with the proposed village master plan was not resolved Monday and Tuesday in public hearings on the plan conducted by the village board.

The trustees agreed to consider each project later on an individual basis, and perhaps make exceptions to the land use guide then, rather than changing the plan now.

Part of a 40-acre multi-family development proposed by Arthur Swanson & Associates and Donald Scholz Co., at the southeast corner of Arlington Heights and Checker roads, lies in an area designated as public open space on the plan.

Because the Buffalo Creek runs through the middle of the Swanson project, four members of the plan commission think the area should be designated as public open space.

THE GROUP, composed of Clarice Reeh, Evan Fader, Howard Mendenhall and Lawrence Gamm, expressed their opinions in a written report to the village board.

"The Swanson property is a natural extension of open space, public use land, from the golf course to the proposed retention park facility on the west side of

Lake County seeks fire protection

A group of about 50 Lake County Buffalo Grove residents is reportedly trying to muster support for a referendum to gain local fire protection.

Buffalo Grove Fire Chief Wayne Winter told the plan commission Wednesday that the group plans to discuss the action with the village trustees at the Feb. 19 village board meeting.

Lake County currently is served by the volunteer Long Grove Rural Fire Protection District.

There would be several advantages to bringing the Lake County portion of the village into the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District, Winter said. Besides allowing more efficient service, residents would realize a benefit on their insurance rates.

"It seems to me that it would be worth it to Lake county residents to come into the district just so they could use your tremendous paramedic program," Comr. Clarice Reeh told Winter.

The department is credited with saving the lives of eight persons since the paramedic program went into effect Dec. 1, 1972.

Arlington Heights Road," the report said. "The apparent attitude in the plan is to project streams and floodplains, indicated as green belts, on all parcels through which they run. Why is the Swanson parcel different?"

The group also recommended that the trustees indicate the area surrounding the Buffalo Grove Golf Course as low density single-family use. The board followed that suggestion, expressing the intent to strictly control the multi-family developments proposed in that area by Harold Friedman and the Phoenix Construction Co.

Also planned for land designated mainly as open space in the plan are two developments proposed by Levitt & Sons, Inc. The two projects, north of Mundelein Road and east of Arlington Heights Road, will include some single-family and some multi-family units. The plan commission group did not comment on the Levitt plans.

Hamilton Mint told to stop making inaugural plates

A circuit court order has been issued forbidding the Hamilton Mint of Arlington Heights from producing presidential inaugural picture plates.

U. D. District Court Judge Frank J. McGarr issued the temporary restraining order after a suit filed by the Inaugural Committee 1973 of Washington D.C. and the Franklin Mint Co. of Pennsylvania.

A spokesman for Hamilton Mint's attorney said the federal suit charges the Arlington Heights firm with misrepresentation in advertising. The Hamilton Mint allegedly boasts its plates are "the biggest ever made."

The plates contain portraits of President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and the official presidential seal.

The restraining order has been continued until Feb. 7.

Sound, video supplies believed stolen

Wheeling police are looking for leads into the suspected burglary of $890 worth of sound and video equipment from Ekco Products, Inc.

The firm, at 777 Wheeling Rd., reported that the equipment has been missing since Jan. 3. However, company officials thought an employee had been using it at home.

Police said the items were last seen on a secretary's desk in the advertising department of the company. Investigation is continuing.

Bob Rayunas, vice president of Hamilton Mint, said yesterday the firm has temporarily stopped producing the presidential commemoratives but other production continues at the plant, 40 E. University Dr.

"We are fighting this with our legal people," Rayunas said. "We're not claiming to have anything official."

The Franklin Mint is the nation's largest privately owned mint and according to Rayunas is in competition with the Hamilton Mint.

The Hamilton Mint opened in Arlington Heights less than a year ago. The plant produces medallions, ingots, plates and other art forms in limited numbers, usually in gold and silver.

Cocktails will begin at 7 p.m. followed by dinner at 8 p.m. A show featuring magician-comic Tony Marks will begin at 9 p.m.

Tickets for the dinner, show and dancing are $20 per couple. For just the show and dancing, tickets are $12 per couple. For more information call project chairman Tom Talbot at 259-2623.

The dance is one of the Lions Club's fund-raising projects. Recently the club appropriated $3,500 toward the purchase of a new ambulance for the Prospect Heights Fire Department. Also, the club recently bought several Civil Defense radios for Prospect Heights schools at a total cost of $450.

INTRODUCING A COIN PHONE YOU CAN USE WHEN YOU DON'T HAVE ANY COIN.

Have you ever tried to make a call from a coin phone and not had the right change? Or deposited your money only to find the phone wasn't working?

You won't have these problems with Dial Tone First service now being introduced at Wheeling coin phones.

Because Dial Tone First means just what it says.

When you pick up the receiver, you get a dial tone first—before you deposit your dime or nickels. And that means two things.

1. When you hear the dial tone, you know the phone is working. Then you can deposit your money and make your call.

2. If you don't have change, you can dial the Operator, who will place a local call for you. The Operator will dial the number and make the call "collect." Or you can arrange to charge the call to your home phone or credit card. (The charge for the call will be more, however, because the call was placed for you.)

And if you're caught in an emergency without change, the Operator will dial the police or fire department number for you—without charge.

With Dial Tone First you still place your Long Distance calls as usual. But now, you won't need a dime to reach the Operator.

Look for the Dial Tone First coin phones now being introduced in Wheeling. You can identify them by a blue and white sticker.

Dial Tone First. Money will never stand between you and an important phone call again.

Junior chefs whip up delicacies

by KAREN BLECHIA

If you peek in the foods lab at MacArthur Junior High School in Prospect Heights and find boys whipping up a cheesecake, don't be surprised. They're learning how to survive — in the kitchen.

Spaghetti, garlic bread, baked beans, hot dog specials, tuna-noodle casserole, muffins and fudge are also on the young chefs' menus. The food has to be good; the boys must eat whatever they make.

"Some of the boys — and most of them are 'all boy' — knew how to cook. But with the others I really had to teach the basics; they didn't know a paring knife from a teaspoon," said Joan Golins, teacher of the class entitled survival cooking.

SURVIVAL COOKING, which meets twice a week, is only one of many non-graded, extracurricular courses students at MacArthur can choose from. Under a program called Mini Unit Experience (MUE for short), students are also learning how to play bridge, make candles and build model homes.

For 40 minutes each day, MacArthur students get away from the usual academic routine. They can choose from up to 70 mini-unit courses, designed by teachers and Principal Gerald McGovern. John Muir School, another Dist. 23 school, has a similar elective program where students get a change once a week.

"MUE is not just to give us a break during the day, but to broaden our horizons and get new experiences," said McGovern. "It gets us away from the books."

One of the most popular mini-units is "Night Gallery," where students read and write mystery stories and tales of the supernatural. Other popular units are "What's So Funny?" where students study humorous writing, including cartoons; "Sports Trivia," modern dance, and interior decorating. Students can test their strategy at war games and try out their chemistry skills in "Mad Scientists."

"WE'RE ALLOWING students and teachers to be mutually happy, and it's not costing the district an extra ticket," McGovern said. According to McGovern, teachers decide what courses they want to teach. Often they choose their hobbies. Time for the mini-units has been made by taking part of the school day and combining it with a part of the lunch hour.

Some of the teachers are learning new hobbies along with their students. Dan Hansen, who teaches the photography unit, is one of them.

"I always wanted to learn so I figured this was a great time to do it," Hansen said. "It's not my favorite hobby, but I am interested in it."

In Hansen's mini-unit, which often resumes after-school, students learn how to shoot, develop, print and enlarge pictures with the school's equipment. Once qualified, students can take pictures for the yearbook or newspaper. They also make prints for other students who can have a photo for 25 cents.

AT MUIR SCHOOL, the custodian and secretary also get into the act. Mr. John, the custodian, teaches a course on how to use basic tools. Rosemary Roth, secretary, teaches "Bozo's Circus," a creative dramatics unit including pantomime.

Fourth and fifth graders have had an elective program at Muir for 2½ years; kindergarten through third graders began taking part in the program last month.

"The primary grades enjoyed it. After the first session, they were asking, 'When will we do it again?'" said James Finke, principal. "It's not all fun and games, the kids are actually learning from the activities."

Primary electives, which are held once a week like the fourth and fifth grades, included basic French, Spanish, learning how to play games, working with creative drama.

Fourth and fifth graders can select from courses including cartooning, painting, chemistry, sewing, paper dolls and hor d'oeuvres preparation.

"We decided to try electives when futurists said people would have a lot more free time in the future," Finke said. "We wanted to show kids how to use their time well."

Regner to chair property tax relief hearing Feb. 14

Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, will act as chairman at a Feb. 14 hearing on property tax relief, to be held at 9 a.m. at Harper College in Palatine.

Simultaneous hearings are scheduled at three other locations in the state by the Illinois Economic and Fiscal Commission, of which Regner is a member. Another hearing will be held by Sen. William C. Harris, R-Pontiac, chairman of the commission at the Metropolitan Sanitary District Building, 100 E. Erie, Chicago.

Testimony will be heard on eight different areas, in the following order:

1. Alternative means of providing relief to property taxpayers.
2. Practical and legal problems of tax reform.

State Rep. David J. Regner

Rep. Philip Crane

3. Alternative revenue sources, their adequacy and equity.
4. The role of the state and the General Assembly.

5. Incidence of the tax — who pays and is it fair?
6. Administration and assessment practices — variances between and within classes of property.

7. Municipal services supported by property taxes.

8. Effects of the tax on commercial, industrial and residential development.

Those wishing to testify are asked to write to the Economic and Fiscal Commission at 610 State Office Building, Springfield, 62704, by Feb. 8. Dr. Mark L. Chadwin, director of the commission, said letters should specify which hearing the witnesses wish to attend and on which agenda items they wish to testify.

Witnesses are also asked to provide written copies of their testimony. Oral testimony will be limited to 10 minutes per person, but longer written statements will be accepted for the record.

REGNER RECENTLY pointed out four advantages to a proposal he has introduced for other relief, on the state sales and income taxes.

He proposed sales tax credits on the state income tax equal to $20 for each exemption claimed on the state income tax, and reduction of the state income tax by one-half of 1 per cent.

Regner said the sales tax credit was superior to the exemption of food and drugs from the tax because it would mean no loss of revenue for local governments, and because the term "food" is difficult to define.

He also said exemption of food and drugs would provide an advantage to higher income earners, where more money is spent on luxury items; and he added that the credit would be much easier to administer.

The senator estimated the cost of both tax relief plans at $465 million. He said that Gov. Daniel Walker said in his campaign that he could cut $500 million from waste in the state budget. Legislative fiscal experts, however, said they were unable to find this "waste." Regner at the time was chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

ILLINOIS CONGRESSMEN Philip M. Crane, R-12th, and Samuel H. Young, R-10th, are among a bipartisan group of 68 signers of a recent letter to Communist Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev of the U.S.S.R. protesting the imprisonment of a Jewish citizen.

The subject of the protest is Lazar Lubarsky, formerly chief engineer of the Institute of Rostov-on-Don, who was imprisoned after indicating a desire to emigrate to Israel.

The congressmen protested the seizure of Lubarsky after a search of his apartment and his denial of legal counsel, a right guaranteed by the Soviet Code of Criminal Procedure.

Charges against Lubarsky include "divulgence of a state secret," which requires a secret trial and a penalty of five to eight years in prison.

Crane was among 90 signers of a congressional protest to Brezhnev last August over harassment and arrest of Soviet Jews attempting to emigrate to Israel.

Judge upholds firings of 2 Harper teachers

A federal court judge has ruled that officials of Harper College were within their rights when they fired two teachers in 1968.

District Court Judge Philip Tonn ruled that college officials had not violated the free speech rights of faculty members Edward Kalish and Betty Enbysk when their teaching contracts were not renewed at the end of the 1968-69 school year.

The two teachers had sued the college, charging they were fired because they had been active in the Harper faculty senate and had been critical of the school's administration.

IN THE RULING handed down Wednesday, Tonn said the reasons the school officials did not rehire the two teachers were not related to their exercise of free speech.

Instead, he said the recommendation not to rehire Mrs. Enbysk, a geology teacher, made by her acting Science Department chairman John Thompson was based on his belief that she "had not measured up to his standards for a teacher."

The decision on Kalish, made by John Birkholz, who was then English Department chairman, was based on Birkholz' belief that "Kalish's personality and behavior patterns made him unsuited for teaching at Harper," according to the judge.

In both cases the judge said it did not matter whether the opinions of the two department heads were correct, only that they were arrived at in good faith.

ELLIS ROSENZWEIG, attorney for Kalish and Mrs. Enbysk, said yesterday he was disappointed with the decision, but had not yet made a decision on whether to appeal the ruling.

"We still believe that it (the firing) was an attempt to silence Betty Enbysk and Ed Kalish, but we couldn't convince the judge," Rosenzweig said.

An appeal can be filed within 30 days with the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Kalish recently won reinstatement to a job with the Illinois Education Association in an unrelated case. He had gone to work for the IEA following his dismissal from Harper.

Edward M. Kalish

Mrs. Enbysk, a resident of Schaumburg, has been unemployed since the dismissal.

Many elderly now eligible for grants up to $500

Are you over age 63 or physically or mentally disabled?

Do you accrue property taxes on your home or pay rent?

Was your total household income last year less than $10,000?

If you can answer "yes" to those three questions, you are eligible for a cash grant of up to $500 a year from the state under the new real estate tax refund program.

The grants, administered by the Illinois Department of Revenue, are made in addition to the Homestead Exemption, to qualified persons.

Persons receiving public aid, however, are not eligible for the months in which aid was received if that aid included allowance for rent or property taxes. Also ineligible are persons who reside in housing or institutions which are exempt from property tax.

The amount of the grant is computed through a rather complex formula, according to Marshall Theroux, Wheeling Township assessor, based on total income and the amount of taxes paid in 1972. Generally, Theroux said, "The lower one's income, the more grant."

FOR PERSONS who pay rent, 25 per cent of the rent payment, excluding charges for utilities, services or furnishings, will be counted as "taxes" paid.

The amount of the grant, based on taxes after deducting the Homestead Exemption, involves three factors:

- total income. Includes all income from social security, pensions, dividends, interest, wages, salaries, rents received.
- maximum grant. The maximum allowable grant is found by subtracting 5 per cent of total income from $500.
- individual allowance. The individual allowance is found by adding 6 per cent of the first $3,000 income to 7 per cent of the balance of income, and then subtracting that sum from the tax paid or rental credit.

If the individual allowance exceeds the maximum tax, however, the actual grant made will be in the amount of the maximum grant.

Applications for the grant are not yet available, but "registration" forms are available through the offices of the township assessors.

Theroux said he will help anyone prepare the application to receive the grant. "There's no need to hurry," he said, "The closing date is next September."

A $50 billion question

How do you test the school system?

by RALPH NOVAK
NEW YORK — It is easy to tell whether or not the money you paid for your new car was well spent — either the car runs well or it doesn't.

It is easy to tell whether or not the money you paid for pork chops was well spent — either they tasted good or they didn't.

It is not so easy to tell whether or not the money you are paying to educate America's children is well spent — nobody is quite sure just what it is we expect our schools to accomplish, let alone being sure of how well they're doing.

Everybody will probably agree that schools should teach children to read and write. But read what and write how well? Children should learn arithmetic and math but to what level? They should know science and social studies but what does it mean to "know" them?

These uncertainties add up to an enigmatic $50 billion question: are we getting our money's worth from our schools.

THE MOST ambitious attempt to answer that question — at least in measurable terms — is the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP). NAEP is a $3 million-a-year operation funded by the federal government and operated by an arm of the Denver-based Education Commission of the States, a cooperative that includes representatives of 44 states and territories.

After five years of planning under a Carnegie Corporation grant, actual testing began in 1969. A changing nationwide sample of about 100,000 people — groups aged 9, 13, 17 and 26-to-35 — is tested each year. And one test is given every five years in each of 10 areas:

Art, career and occupational development, citizenship literature, math, music, reading, science, social studies and writing.

NAEP officials meeting here recently to explain their project to representatives of the Association of American Publishers continually stressed two points:

NAEP is only just emerging from a period of "staggering associated with early indecision about the directions it should take.

IT WILL BE years before a comprehensive body of information will be available, since measuring changes over time in test performance is a vital part of the program.

The whole NAEP approach in fact seems to be one of treading superlightly in the controversial area of assessment.

It is controversial in a lot of ways. Local school officials often fear that national assessment is part of some kind of murky plot to create a federally-dictated curriculum, which ranks somewhere just above a return to the Ice Age on their list of unthinkable eventualities.

TEACHERS ARE leery about any kind of assessment, since it is often linked with "accountability" — the idea that teachers' performance should be rated on a tangible but simplistic scale more or less akin to a batting average.

(Such is the teachers' distaste for assessment that a statewide testing program in New Jersey last year caused a bitterly emotional protest by teachers' groups. The New Jersey Education Association Review called the testing "a straitjacket procedure that can only curb imagination and innovation among children and teachers in our classrooms."

The furor contributed to the ouster of the state commissioner of education. And the three local teacher groups are part of a suit filed to prevent the state from releasing the test results, charging that to do so would be an "invasion of constitutional and statutory rights, as well as the right of privacy.")

And educators in general have raised increasing doubts in recent years about the validity of standardized tests in general.

THESE FACTORS have no doubt influenced NAEP to take the gingerly approach it has adopted.

The results and analysis published thus far — in five of the 10 subject areas — have supplied no great surprises. Those who have done worst on the tests are people who are black, whose parents have the least education, who live in the Southeast, who live in the inner city.

But the NAEP officials stress that the value of their project lies in something more than reconfirming educational truths.

They have even refused to break down the results into any narrower group than region of the country (Northeast, Southeast, Central or West) to avoid the inevitable furor that would follow school-by-school or pupil-by-pupil ratings and thus help quiet opposition from local school districts and teachers.

A key aspect of the project, NAEP director of exercise development H. A. Wilson says, is the use of "objectives." These are lists of detailed goals for all the subject areas, drawn up by committees of educators, consultants, scholars and "interested laymen."

THE READING committee, for example, decided a successful reader should be able to: Comprehend what is read, analyze what is read, use what is read, reason logically from what is read, make judgments concerning what is read and have attitudes about and an interest in reading.

Those objectives were subdivided and used as a basis for creating the reading test, which was designed to measure how well American schools are meeting those objectives.

The reading test itself is far from a rehash of the traditional "apple: radish as orange: carrot" questions. Among its 500 exercises was a section on reading a television program guide, and one on understanding street signs and billboards.

The results are phrased in an accentuate — the — positive framework. (The usual standardized test, employs a national median score and then rates a student either above or below that median, which means that by definition half the students finish in the "lower 50 per cent.") er question, of course. But not very many deny the need for that data.

"It's easy to tell how well a learn-to-swim program is going," said Paul G. Campbell, director of the Educational Testing Service's center for statewide educational assessment. "You have a kid who's in the program jump in a pool and you'll know if he falls because he'll start to drown."

"That's the kind of measuring device we need in the rest of our educational system."

Illinois plans to urge vets to enter university

The University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign is making a special effort to enroll qualified veterans as undergraduate students, Chancellor J. W. Peltason said.

In an open letter to all Illinois veterans, Peltason said UIUC has increased its undergraduate enrollment by 50 per cent during the past three years, and "We hope to do better."

Veterans do not have to compete with nonveterans for the limited space available for undergraduates at UIUC, the chancellor said.

"What we have done is to reserve space for veterans," he said. "This means that although veterans have to qualify for admission, they do not have to meet the same competitive standards of the other applicants."

THE CHANCELLOR told the veterans the university is just as interested in their success as students as in their success in being admitted.

"Since we are concerned not only about your enrolling at the University of Illinois but also your graduating from it, qualifications for veterans have been set to make both of these steps possible," he said.

"Therefore, if your high school record and college entrance test scores combined can give you a 50 per cent chance of obtaining a "C" average or better during your first term, the university will be happy to give you an opportunity to pursue your education here.

"If you need financial assistance, I strongly suggest that you apply to the Illinois State Scholarship Commission, which has an excellent financial aid program," Peltason said.

At UIUC this winter, one of every 22 undergraduate men and women is a veteran, while the proportion of graduate students who are veterans is one out of seven. The ratio is one out of five among all students enrolled in professional curricula.

In his letter to veterans, the chancellor said:

"Standing ready to help you fulfill your educational ambitions are two of the best state services in the nation: the Illinois State Scholarship Commission for financial help and the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign for a sound education. Putting the two together could launch you very well towards your career goal.

"I urge you to consider seriously how the University of Illinois can serve you."

The breakdown:

CLASS	VETERANS	TOTAL
Undergraduates	1,100	21,695
Low students	189	711
Veterinary medicine students	25	302
Basic medical sciences students	2	32
Graduate students	1,100	8,117
TOTALS	2,506	33,857

'Welcome back, soldier!'

9-year POW coming home—it's gone

by TOM TIEDE
WASHINGTON — It was Aug. 5, 1964. Americans were reading news accounts of man's first (Ranger 7) soft-landing on the moon. Casey Stengel was leading his New York Mets to their third consecutive 10th-place finish in the National League. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee, was declining the support of the Ku Klux Klan but urging other followers to become "Freedom's Missionaries."

And somewhere over North Vietnam, a nation secret to most of the world, a 26-year-old naval lieutenant, Everett Alvarez Jr., became the first known U.S. prisoner in a war that few knew about, fewer cared about and virtually no one comprehended.

Aug. 5, 1964. Almost nine years ago. ALVAREZ WAS the victim of what the New York Times then denounced as a "mad adventure by the North Vietnamese Communists." That nation had allegedly sent one of its PT boats to attack and strike a U.S. destroyer, the Maddox, in the Gulf of Tonkin. The American military retaliated with a then unprecedented wave of air-strikes over the enemy heartland. Lt. Alvarez, unluckily, was in one of the first waves. "I WAS always good at geography," says the pilot's mother, Soledad Alvarez of Santa Clara, Calif., "but I didn't know where he was shot down. I knew about Indochina, but I didn't know Hanoi. In our family, we had to look at a map to tell where he was."

In the more than 100 months since his family first went to the maps, Alvarez, now a lieutenant commander, and middle-aged 35, has become the longest confirmed POW in the nation's history. (Another Vietnam pilot, Air Force Capt. Floyd Thompson, was shot down before Alvarez, in March of 1964, but his fate is not publicly known; Thompson's next of kin have asked Pentagon authorities not to release information on his status.)

Now, with the American involvement in the war apparently ended, and agreements signed which may bring POWs home before the end of March, the nation, the Alvarez family and surely Alvarez himself must be concerned with a question: To what is he coming home?

IN ONE obvious sense the prisoner Alvarez is still living in August of 1964, a time far different from today. U.S. military officers believe he has been allowed some information on the changed society by his captors, yet feel it would "still be hard for the guy to imagine hippies, women's liberation and three-inch heels on men's shoes."

One U.S. soldier who has already gone through the cultural shock of returning to the United States after long months of war captivity is Army Maj. James Rowe. He, a former Green Beret, was held by the Viet Cong for 62 months. He escaped. Upon returning to the United States he commented on attending his first X-rated movie: "Well, it really blew my mind."

INDEED, THERE were no X-rated movies in August, 1964. Not at the neighborhood theater anyway. It was a time, if memory serves, of relative innocence. Lyndon Johnson was the president, Robert Kennedy the attorney general, Adlai Stevenson the U.S. Ambassador, Martin Luther King the Nobel winner for peace. All, now, are dead. Charles DeGaulle was reigning in France. Nikita Khrushchev had not yet been forced out of office in Moscow. Winston Churchill, 89, was taking his seat in Great Britain's House of Commons for the last time. All, now, are dead.

It was the era before Watts and Kent State. Spiro Agnew was teaching law school at night. Richard Nixon was getting practical experience in the same subject in New York. Americans tuned their TV's to Wagon Train, the Steve Allen Show, and, gad, Petticoat Junction. Mary Poppins was big at the movies.

Vassar-educated housewives were moaning over a novel called "The Group." THERE WAS to be sure, some portent of things to come: Authorities were investigating the murder of three Civil Rights workers in Mississippi; late-summer race riots were taking place in some cities. But Vietnam? Yawn. Fewer than 16,000 Americans were there. The world was more interested in the wars in Africa. Remember Leopoldville?

Now, early 1973, Cmdr. Everett Alvarez apparently will return to what his mother calls "a whole new world." The sky isn't blue, the rivers are dirtier and you can't buy a soft drink for a dime. Free sex, abortion on demand, legalize marijuana. Men have been to the moon so often the trips have been canceled for lack of interest. Heart transplants, police strikes, women generals. A cheap fraud named Charles Manson murders seven people and becomes a counterculture hero. Eighteen-year-old voters, airline hijackings, end of the draft. Even Santa Clara is different, says Mrs. Alvarez. "It used to be all fruit orchards; now it's all development houses."

MRS. ALVAREZ, too, has changed. "I'm nine years older, for one thing." And she believes nine years wiser. "I used to believe in the government. I was quiet and took things as they were. Like so many people. Now I know different. I never did like the Vietnam war; now I'm not afraid to stand up and say so. I was all wrong."

And so Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez comes back to a nation that will be for him almost alien. "Just wait," says a Pentagon officer, "till he sees the bra-less look." And jumbo jets. And Afro haircuts. "The one thing we hope," adds the Pentagon official, "is that the freaks don't get him. A lot of people in this country won't look at him as a hero, but as a mad bomber. That's another thing that's changed since he was here."

And there is one more thing that has changed. In August of 1964, Everett Alvarez, a citizen in the service of his nation, went to war and left behind a wife of four months. Last year his sweetheart asked for and was granted a divorce. Welcome home, soldier.

7 names added to POW list

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States today received a Communist list of seven U.S. prisoners of war in Laos, raising to 562 the number of American servicemen identified as alive and expected to be released by the end of March.

The new list — unlike previous lists provided of POWs in North and South Vietnam — did not indicate whether any other men might have died in captivity.

Defense Department officials said they understood a separate list of civilian captives in Laos was being turned over to the State Department. A State Department spokesman said he had no immediate information on this.

THE NUMBER of men identified on the new list falls far below what Defense officials had hoped for. Before the list was received, Pentagon sources said there were hopes it might contain the names of up to 60 men, who had been captured in Laos.

The men identified — four of whom were previously carried as missing in action — were listed as:

- Air Force Lt. Col. Walter M. Staehle, previously listed as a POW.
- Air Force Capt. Stephen G. Long, previously listed as a POW.
- Navy Lt. Henry J. Bedinger, previously listed as a POW.
- Air Force Maj. Edward W. Leonard Jr., previously listed as missing in action.
- Air Force Maj. Norbert A. Gotner, previously listed as missing in action.
- Air Force Capt. Jack M. Butcher, previously listed as missing in action.
- Air Force Capt. Charles F. Riess, previously listed as missing in action.

The Pentagon said the families of all seven men had been notified. Hometowns were not identified because the men are still in prison and are not required under the Geneva Convention to give this information.

Mr. Anderson, of 920 W. Palatine Rd., was a retired construction worker. He was born March 30, 1886, in Sweden.

Visitation will be after 7 p.m. today at J. L. Poole Funeral Home, 25 W. Palatine Rd. Services will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at the funeral home, with Rev. Robert E. Murphey officiating.

Mr. Anderson is survived by sons Pete and John, a daughter, Ila Smith, and six grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his wife, Ila.

Minor crime up in sections of Cook County

Minor crime in unincorporated areas of suburban Cook County in 1972 increased 65.2 per cent over 1971, Sheriff Richard J. Elrod said.

But major crimes are up only 1.3 per cent, the sheriff said.

The year end statistics show a 29 per cent increase in crimes that are cleared by the sheriff's police as well as the over-all crime increase, Elrod noted.

The figures reported by the sheriff reveal there were 4,740 major crimes last year as compared to 4,683 during 1971.

There were, 7,916 minor offenses including the crimes of gambling, forgery, counterfeiting, disorderly conduct and others as compared to 4,785 minor crimes in 1971.

Edmund Dobbs, chief of the sheriff's police, pointed to specific increases in some types of crimes. For example, Dobbs said, robberies went from 57 to 72 for a 26.1 per cent increase.

Manslaughter cases resulting from auto accidents increased 37.1 per cent from 24 to 33, Dobbs said.

He noted, however, there was a 13 per cent decrease in the number of rapes last year. Elrod said the statistics "demonstrate effective patrol services by sheriff's policemen have kept down major crimes such as armed robbery and rape."

Dobbs also reported sheriff's policemen assisted other police agencies 2,573 times during the year. The newly formed sheriff's narcotics unit has made 165 arrests to date, and has conducted 144 investigations, Dobbs said. The unit has confiscated $143,410 in estimated street value of heroin, cocaine, marijuana, dangerous drugs and hallucinatory substances.

Salary talks need audience

The Wheeling Faculty Council has taken a step backwards with its recently announced decision to reverse its policy of open its salary negotiating sessions.

Last March we gladly noted that the WFC and the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 school board had agreed to allow the public into previously closed negotiating sessions.

Dist. 23 and High School Dist. 211 followed suit and allowed the press and public in. The Herald dutifully dispatched reporters to cover the proceedings; the poorly-attended sessions were covered in depth by this newspaper.

Now, in the district which took the lead, the teachers have gone back to their old ways. For the public's sake, we'd like to take it back to March, 1972.

Margo Richter, chairman of WFC, summed up her group's argument for closed sessions: "While they were open, both teams seemed to play to the audience. This wasted a lot of time and this year we don't want to waste time in getting a settlement."

Miss Richter's concern with speed is, of course, commendable. If Dist. 21 can reverse the pattern of longer and longer salary negotiations, that will be a small but noteworthy step towards sanity in teacher salary negotiations.

But "playing to the audience" is not the problem. All public bodies play to the audience, in one way or another, whether the public is present. To anyone who's attended a closed-door negotiating session, gamesmanship is an important part of the talks, and it is one of the reasons salary negotiations now drag on and on and on.

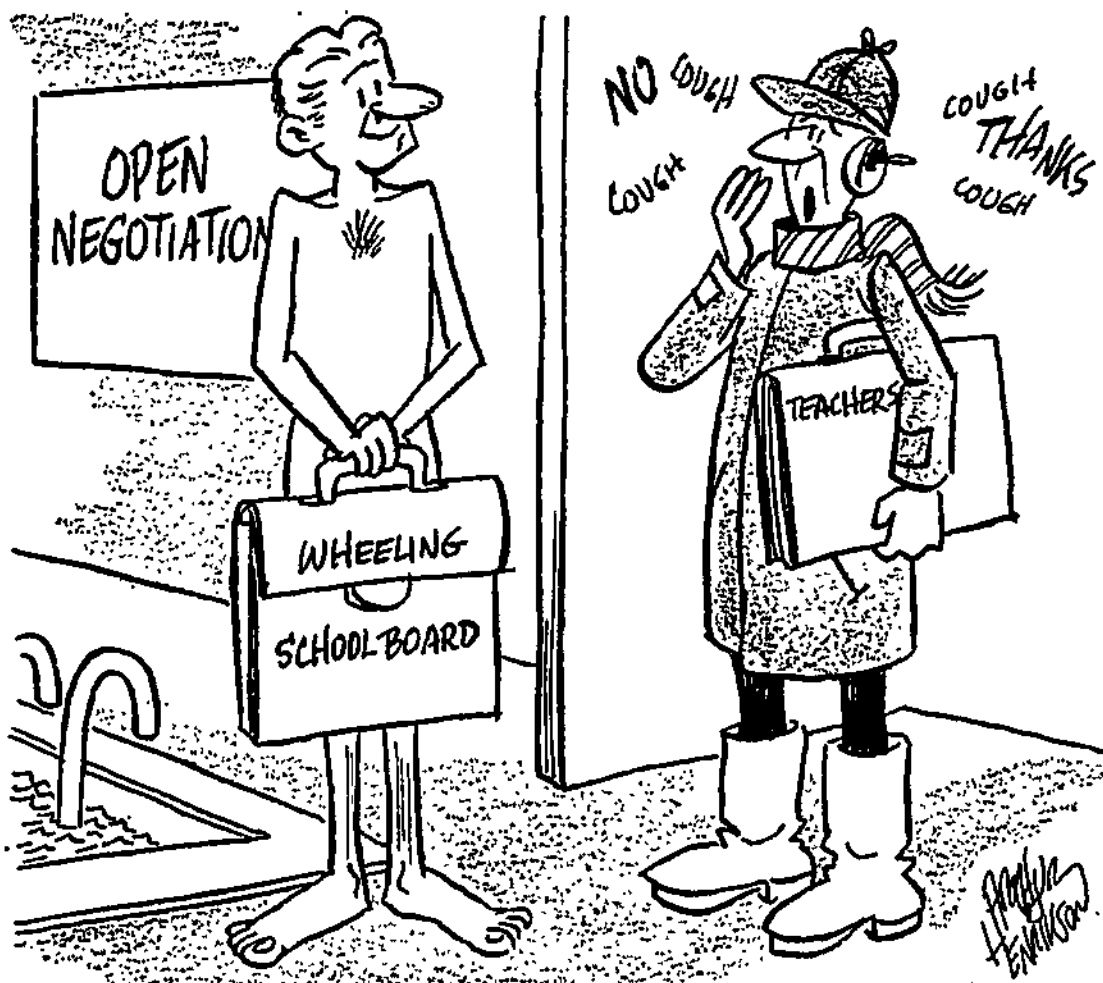

There's no justification for the Herald to question the legality of closed-door negotiations. The Illinois Open Meeting Law exempts "collective negotiating matters" from the list of topics which must be kept open to the public.

But the story's always told more accurately if we, the public, can get up close and examine the actual negotiating process, to see what is being said and who is saying it.

The teachers and the Dist. 21 board which accepted the teacher's verdict have vowed to issue press releases at the end of each negotiating session. But the public still won't get it first hand; we'll be watching the negotiations through the eyes of not-so-impartial participants.

It's public money that's being spent, and a great deal of it. The public deserves the right to know, as much as legally possible, how the decisions are made about that money.

'Keep Hillcrest Lake private'

To Mr. Lesniak, Prospect Heights Park District:

We are in receipt of your letter dated December 14, in which you offer to purchase approximately 13 acres, known as Hillcrest Lake, for the sum of $20,000 from the Hillcrest Lake Home Owners Association.

May we reply as follows:
A meeting was held by the Hillcrest Lake Home Owners Association on January 11 and we reviewed the "whys" of the original purchase of this property. A group of citizens purchased this property to keep it from being developed and to be left in its natural state as a wild life center and park-like area. As a group, we had no restrictions from other people of the community using this property, with the exception of a few who abused it, such as motor bikes on the ice or boats with motors, or boats not having the proper safety equipment.

At this meeting the members of the Hillcrest Lake Home Owners Association still wish to retain this property and keep it as it is not only for their enjoyment but for the enjoyment of the community as a whole. The citizens of the community should be aware that we have been paying real estate taxes on this property since our acquisition. If the Prospect Heights Park District acquires it, this is another piece of property being removed from the tax rolls which will be a double cost to the property owners in that they will have the expense of purchasing the property and at the same time lose the taxes that are now being paid on it.

The Hillcrest Lake Home Owners Association was unanimous at this meeting and agreed that if the Prospect Heights Park District insists on purchasing this property we have no alternative but to let them know our appraisal of the property, to-wit:

—If this property becomes a public park, properties surrounding the Lake area will greatly depreciate in value and we will suffer a considerable loss in our property value.

—A great deal of moneys have been spent for taxes, maintenance, landfill, rental of equipment, and other expenses too numerous to list in this letter. This does not count the great deal of personal effort and labor put out by all members of the Hillcrest Lake Home Owners Association in keeping the area clean.

—Since the Prospect Heights Park District offered approximately $10,000 for the Blauw property, which is an acre of similar property adjacent to the 13 acres owned by Hillcrest Lake Home Owners Association, we think the Prospect Heights Park District offer of $20,000 is inconsistent.

The Hillcrest Lake Home Owners Association has set a price of $130,000 on this property. However, we feel that this will only cover a partial of the cost and value this property has to us.

An organization, we hope you will consider our first proposal and do not pursue the purchase of this property. Leave it in the hands of the present owners, the Hillcrest Lake Home Owners Association.

Louis Marn, President
Hillcrest Lake
Home Owners Assn.

'Don't reopen border fight'

I read with dismay the article on the front page of the Mount Prospect Herald, Wed. Jan. 24, regarding High School Dist. 214 boundaries. After many open meetings, well attended by all concerned parties, the school board acted in a responsible manner by setting the new boundaries to the best of their ability. The members of the board stated that any decision made would not satisfy 100 per cent of the community. I certainly would not like to see the entire matter again up for debate. I believe it is only right that the board be allowed to progress in the necessary adjustments per the boundaries as set forth, and not be burdened by pressure to reopen a matter already acted upon.

Reader hits Nader on timber industry

Your article, "Nader Report Blasts Timber Industry," in the January 19 issue is quite misleading in respect to the management of the National Forests by the U.S. Forest Service. The article refers to the Multiple Use-Sustained Yield Act of 1960, but fails to mention the original legislation of 1897 which resulted in the establishment of the National Forests — to protect watersheds and to assure a continuous supply of timber.

Management of these forests, however, is complicated by millions of acres in the west which are over-mature and in decay, and which consist of tree species which will not grow in shade. The clear-cutting harvest practices necessary are used universally in the Scandinavian countries and the famous managed forests of central Europe because those tree species likewise will not grow in shade.

Over the past ten years, Congress has approved only 40 per cent of the funds requested by the Forest Service for activities related to timber growing.

Our country presently imports 25 per cent of its wood requirements, largely from Canada. At the same time, growing of trees (and harvest) on the National Forests could be doubled using the same knowledge of science which has been applied in growing food crops. Fortunately, a forest, unlike a cornfield, can be used for many uses — including recreation. Who would say the managed forests of Europe are not used for recreation?

Products are needed to support the economy. We also must consider the environmental impact of industries which supply those products. The effect on the environment of any industry is directly related to the energy required in the manufacture of its product. Steel requires six times more energy than wood! Aluminum requires 40 times more energy than wood!

Grade school sexism?

This thing about "sexism" in the schools works two ways.

It may be true that teacher expectations, peer-group pressure and textbooks extolling male achievements force little girls into "inferior" feminine roles they would not otherwise have chosen.

But the dice aren't entirely loaded in favor of boys.

Grade school teachers reprimand boys more frequently than girls, charges child psychologist Bruno Bettelheim.

"One can imagine how a boy feels about himself, the school and the teacher," he writes in Ladies' Home Journal, "when he observes that boys are reprimanded nine times as frequently as girls."

"If he is at all observant, he must come to the conclusion that while the school highly approves of behavior that comes naturally to girls, it rejects what comes equally naturally to boys. Thus, many boys are made academic failures by the very institution which should teach academics to them."

Lib types can object, of course, that sweetness, obedience and decorum are no more natural to girls than boisterousness is natural to boys. According to them, such behavioral differences are learned and artificial.

Perhaps they will admit, though, that at times it can be pretty tough practicing to be a male chauvinist.

Is Herald really 'nay-saying'?

by ROGER CAPETTINI
Metropolitan Editor

It seems to be high fashion these days to criticize the press and other news media for everything they say, don't say, should've said, analyzed, didn't analyze, shouldn't have analyzed, and so on, ad infinitum.

The vogue appears to have been set by the arbiters of truth, fairness and morality in residence at the Executive branch in Washington.

As soon as the trend became clear it started filtering down through the entire society so that today every person who is "somebody," every one who thinks he's "somebody," and everyone who wishes he was "somebody" jumps at every opportunity to criticize the media.

The critics point an accusing finger at newspapers most frequently for what they call inaccuracies and for being critical, skeptical, "nay-sayers" who are against everything.

A typical example of that kind of criticism came this week from a member of the Arlington Heights board of trustees, Frank Palmatier.

Palmatier expressed his views Tuesday night during a meeting of the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding, of which Palmatier is chairman. The committee decided at that time to aim for a $7 million to $10 million flood control referendum for Arlington Heights in April.

During a discussion of the referendum and its scheduling, Palmatier told everyone within earshot, "Every referendum faces a number of automatic negative votes — people who will vote 'No' on any referendum." Included in that group, he said, is Paddock Publications. "Nay-sayers," he called this newspaper.

Now, Frank Palmatier oughta know better than that.

He's been around these parts a good, long time. Moreover, he's been involved in the government of Arlington Heights for many years and hasn't had to rely on hearsay evidence.

Presumably, Trustee Palmatier was expressing his displeasure over a recent Herald editorial addressing the possibility of a village flood-control referendum. "They've already prejudged it," he said.

Actually, that editorial, which appeared Jan. 9, neither supported nor opposed the proposed referendum. If anyone took the time to read it, they would have read:

"We believe the voters should not be asked to support or reject sale of bonds for this project.

"Village government has a greater responsibility to budget, year after year, just so it can afford such projects. "... plans and financing should have proceeded for such a project.

"We encourage the Arlington Heights administration to seek other approaches."

The Herald did not oppose passage of the referendum, but questioned the referendum approach to long-standing village problems.

As far as being included in the group that "will vote 'No' on any referendum," we offer the following in the way of jogging memories.

In the past four years the Herald has commented, editorially, on about 10 referenda facing the voters of Arlington Heights, concerning the village government, parks and schools.

In 1968 the Herald endorsed a $2.8 million park district referendum and another for School Dist. 25.

In 1969 the Herald endorsed another referendum for Dist. 25, this one for almost $2.4 million, and another for the library district. The same year, an $8.7 million referendum was supported for the then new Rolling Meadows High School, Dist. 214.

Still another Dist. 25 referendum was endorsed in 1971 and Dist. 214 got Herald support for a $10.5 million referendum for the new Buffalo Grove High School.

This past year, the Herald endorsed two questions on a referendum, supporting the expansion of the village board and the appointive clerk.

Of the 10 questions, the Herald opposed only one — the latest question on the park district.

The pattern holds true in other Northwest suburban communities. In the past year the Herald has endorsed library district and park district referenda in Wheeling; a park district referendum for Palatine; and one in Rolling Meadows.

Seeking engineers

Speaking of the future, the U.S. Department of Labor estimates that at least 48,000 new engineering graduates will be needed each year during the remainder of the decade.

Only 43,000 bachelor's degrees in engineering were awarded in 1972, and whether due to "the backlash of disillusionment of young people with technology," as the Wall Street Journal calls it, or poor guidance counseling in high schools or exaggerated publicity about pockets of unemployment in engineering, there has been a 21.5 per cent drop in engineering enrollment since 1967.

As one engineer, Dr. Vincent S. Haneman, dean of Auburn University's School of Engineering, emphasizes, it is man — individuals, societies and governments — who determine technological priorities.

The goals of improving the quality of the environment, safer and more efficient transportation, better housing and more food for the hungry will all require engineers for their realization.

Business Today

by LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Although Carl Klekhaefer is exhibiting powerful in-board racing engines at the New York Boat Show this week, he is getting tired of the racing image.

Klekhaefer used racing triumphs to build his Mercury outboard engine company which he sold to Brunswick Corp. some years ago. "But actually racing engines were a small part of our business," he explains. "We revolutionized the outboard motor business for everybody."

Klekhaefer left Brunswick at a personal sacrifice of $700,000 because he didn't have enough to do to occupy his energies after selling control of the business.

He now runs Klekhaefer Aeromarine Motors, Inc., of Fond du Lac, Wis., and has been making waves in the international racing world. Dr. Bob Magoon, the Miami eye surgeon, who now is seeking his fifth American Powerboat Association offshore championship, uses Klekhaefer engines.

BUT THE TRIUMPHS of Dr. Magoon and other racing drivers with his engines are not fulfilling Carl Klekhaefer's dream of building a solid new engine company and leaving it to his son to manage.

"You learn a lot from racing, but you can't build a really worthwhile business out of it," says the one-time farm boy who sold $2 billion worth of outboard and stern-drive engines in the 30 years he ran Mercury.

So he intends to build a whole family of engines for workaday use. The first is on display at the boat show, a 400 hp. job for fast runabouts, sea skiffs and sports fishermen. But it is an expensive engine, and Klekhaefer wants to get back into making engines for everybody.

His first step will be a two-cycle water-cooled snowmobile engine adaptable to small automobiles.

A water cooled snowmobile engine? Who needs that with all the freezing air available on the snow trails?

"IT'S NEEDED because water cooling is the best way to make an engine quiet," Klekhaefer told United Press International.

"The biggest rap on snowmobiles is the unearthly noise their air cooled two-cycle engines make. Snowmobiles are banned in many areas simply because of this horrible racket."

ALTHOUGH KLEKHAEFER won't reveal his immediate plans beyond the water-cooled snowmobile engine, he says his long-range plan involves a line of reasonably priced gas turbines for boats. That will include both high-speed turbines burning jet fuel and slower motors for cruising craft using safer diesel fuel.

He is convinced the gas turbine is the ultimate engine rather than a steam or vapor engine or the Wankel rotary combustion engine.

He said he has tested a number of Wankels.

"I consider them wasteful on fuel and essentially dirty because they don't hold their compression well," he said. "That also can make them hard to start in cold weather."

Nixon-Congress fight looms

by STEVEN ELLIS

NEW YORK — The "battle of the budget" between President Nixon and Congress will have a lot of rhetoric connected with it — but behind it is grimly serious business: The need to pull Federal spending into line and put brakes on what could become a dangerous, runaway inflation.

As between Congress and the President, the fundamental issues have to do with priorities. The President has concluded that public opinion is solidly with him as he moves to dismantle the "Great Society" programs built under Lyndon Johnson. He's probably right, but there undoubtedly will come complicated compromises before it's over.

Business, meanwhile, will continue to stew over how much control the Federal Reserve intends to keep on the inflationary surge — and whether interest rates will go up.

Edison posts record operating revenues in '72

Commonwealth Edison Co. posted record operating revenues of $1,140,164,000 for 1972. The utility is seeking a rate increase for this year, however, to meet the demand for construction financing.

Aided by slightly higher rates and kilowatt-hour sales growth, the revenue increase of 15.2 per cent over 1971 enabled the company to reverse a two-year decline in common stock earnings and post its first gain of any substance since 1967.

Edison Chairman J. Harris Ward said net income increased to $173,634,000 from $144,787,000 in 1971 — equal, after preferred dividends, to $3.13 a common share in 1972, compared with $2.86 in 1971.

"WITHOUT THE rate increase received in late 1971, our common stock earnings would have continued to fall," said Ward. "This would have jeopardized our ability to carry on the building and financing of new facilities needed to maintain reliability of service to customers and to meet environmental obligations."

Edison's kilowatt-hour sales to ultimate consumers in 1972 increased 7.3 per cent over 1971 to a new high of just over 51 billion kilowatt-hours. While the overall sales gain was slightly below the company's average for the past 10 years, rising industrial activity in the last half of the year resulted in a 12.7 per cent gain in kilowatt-hours sold to large commercial and industrial customers. During 1972, Ward also noted, Commonwealth Edison added 56,000 customers and at the close of the year was serving a total of 2,660,000.

Rising expenses offset much of the company's gains in sales and revenues, Ward pointed out, noting particularly that electric operating expenses in 1972 rose 11 per cent to a record $650 million.

Cook County bond sales up 11 pct.

Cook County residents purchased a total of $267,903,264 in Series E and H U.S. Savings Bonds in 1972. This is 11 per cent above 1971 sales.

Illinois sales were up 14.4 per cent for a total of $411,113,436 according to Clarence S. Sochowski, north central regional director of the Treasury's Savings Bonds Division — the highest since 1968.

Purchases in Illinois accounted for 6.6 per cent of the national total of $6,236,000,000 and 117.1 per cent of the state's 1972 quota of $531,100,000.

As of the end of December, 1972, the amount of savings bonds outstanding was $58.1 billion — an all-time record.

Wall Street chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's still a bit early to pronounce the bull market dead, according to the Spear Market Report. A plunge beneath the Dow 900 level would certainly cause some alarm, "but virtually all bull markets have their sinking spells." The firm says it expects investor confidence to return once the fuzzy outline of Phase III come into sharper focus.

DRAGGED DOWN, in part, by a poor performance by the transportation issues, "The January stock market has been a real disappointment," Walston & Co. says. Added inflation, the fear of steep demands in upcoming labor negotiations, and the failure of the peace news to "take," have accounted for recent declines, but the firm also feels the Phase III blues may lessen.

SPECIAL DELIVERY: Look for some headline-making Senate hearings in the early spring over the Postal Service. Sen. Jennings Randolph (W. Va.) is furious about 3,475 sacks of undelivered mail being found in the Charleston post office. Complaints have been rising at a great rate and one bill is already in the House hopper calling for the reestablishment of the old Postal department.

GERONIMO: There are no longer any Pipers left in Piper Aircraft Corp. Bangor Punta Corp. owns 52 per cent of Piper Stock and didn't see wingtip to wingtip with William T. Piper, Jr., and his brother, Howard. So both have taken to the parachutes.

STEPPING UP: Another of the University of Chicago labor-economics team is moving up the ladder. Arnold R. Weber, 43, who went to Washington with George P. Schultz is going to become (on July 1) dean of the Graduate School of Industrial Administration at Carnegie-Mellon University.

CUT: On the ground, GM and Ford are acting uncomfortable about a Justice Department suit on price-fixing. A court-released "bill of particulars" focuses on cut-rate fleet sales (10 or more cars at a crack to leasing firms, taxi firms, big companies). Chrysler had a grip on this business through big discounting but GM and Ford are charged with getting together and setting below-cost prices to drive Chrysler into a corner.

NEW NO. 1: The biggest international airline now is British Airways — a combining of BOAC and BEA. The state-owned line has 220 aircraft, flies to 64 countries. The old names will be kept until British Airways registers firmly on the traveling market.

Shortage of meat to be meeting topic

Rising personal incomes mean greater meat consumption and a shortage of beef, according to the Chicago Farmers organization.

The group will sponsor a luncheon on Monday featuring a discussion of the worldwide meat shortage. Guest speaker will be Edward F. Huskisson, president of the international division of Swift & Co.

Additional information on the luncheon meeting is available from James H. Dreth at 943-1090.

Personal Finance

by CARLTON SMITH

Parents who have been counting on tax savings through income-splitting with dependent children are in for a rude shock when they start filling out tax forms this year.

It doesn't work any more. Under a new provision of the tax laws, dependents may not use either the standard deduction or the low-income allowance to offset unearned income, as from interest or dividends.

As it formerly worked, this kind of income-splitting was widely used by parents, especially of college students, as a tax saver.

Students, along with other single persons, normally pay no tax on income under $2,050. That's because this year's low-income allowance (taken as a deduction) is $1,200. The personal exemption is $750. Together, they add up to $2,050, exempting that much income from any tax payment.

BUT THE NEW tax law provision specifically prohibits dependents (and only dependents) from using either the low-income allowance or the standard deduction to reduce unearned income.

Suppose, for example, that you have transferred to Junior, who's in college, enough assets to provide him with $2,000 a year in interest. In addition, he earns $50 during the year at odd jobs. Formerly, the entire $2,050 would have been tax free. But this year he must file a return showing:

Earned income ..... $ 50
Unearned income ..... 2,000
$2,050

The new instructions tell him that he can use either the standard deduction (15 per cent for other taxpayers) or the low-income allowance — but in either case, only to the extent of his earned income. In short, his deduction is limited to $50.

NEXT HE takes his personal exemption, $750, bringing his taxable income down to $1,250. On that, he pays a tax of $185.

Tomorrow is the best reason for opening a 5% Golden Income Account today.

Everybody knows there are lots of kinds of love. A Golden Income Account, in its way, is a form of love. Because it expresses your sentiments in a very meaningful way. To a wife or new child it means you care enough to insure their security with the finest savings plan developed by modern banking. It means passbook convenience plus bank-safe extra interest . . . a big 5% daily interest compounded from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal and paid or credited quarterly. A minimum deposit of $1,000 opens a 5% Golden Income Account, and thereafter, you can add to it in multiples of $100. There is no finer bank-secured savings plan. And no more relevant way to express your love.

Think tax filing will be easier, eh?

Many taxpayers who think the new 1040A federal income tax form is going to make filing easier this year are being quickly disappointed.

The first page of the form provides a long list of conditions that prevent taxpayers from using the short form, thus requiring them to get a 1040 form somewhere. That is where the problem arises.

Local post offices, banks and currency exchanges, normally good sources for income tax forms, report that the supply has been depleted because of an unexpected run on them this year.

Some of the 1040 forms may have been grabbed by early filers who quickly found out the 1040A form wasn't for them, but IRS officials claim that professional tax preparers have also had a part in the shortage. The professionals, responding to the need for the longer forms, have reportedly been taking the public supplies at an increased rate — by the handfuls, when available.

WHAT CAN A taxpayer do to get the forms he needs? One suggestion is to visit the nearest Internal Revenue Service branch office, but Skokie is the closest one to the Northwest suburbs since the Des Plaines office was closed.

Another alternative is to fill out the order blank on the back of the 1040A form and send it to the Chicago address listed on the page.

But Ken Franks of the Chicago district office has a better and faster way — an address he told the Herald would get a much faster response. He said the two-week time it seems to be taking for most orders can be cut to six days by mailing your request to: Internal Revenue Service, Chicago District Office, P.O. Box 1193, Chicago, 60690.

A call to the Skokie office confirmed that employees there are promising mailing no earlier than two weeks.

The long mailing times could be particularly disastrous for the perennial late filer who begins working on his taxes April 14. He won't have two weeks, or even six days to wait.

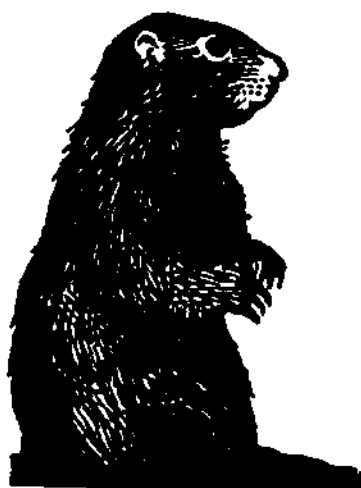

FRANKS, AFTER A check with other IRS offices, said there are a number of taxpayers who feel they should have gotten form 1040. He said the 1040A was sent out on the basis of last year's filing for each taxpayer, but admitted several errors may have been made. When the mistakes are added to the number of persons who wish to itemize or have other reasons they don't want to use the short form, the difficulty results.

The errors, Franks said, are partially because a true short form hasn't been available for several years, since a 1040A card form was dropped.

The card form was dropped, he said, because it was felt that taxpayers were using the short form for convenience when they could have used a longer form and saved money.

"The system is new this year, and hopefully we'll work the bugs out," he said.

In the meantime, even if you don't plan to file until the last possible day, you should check the form that was mailed to you and see if it is the proper one. If not, early application for the proper booklet could save many headaches later.

Chubby 'stands up' interviewer...and on his day, yet

From the same newspaper that gave you an interview with a tree in Des Plaines and a firelog in Buffalo Grove comes a discussion with a groundhog from Lincoln Park Zoo on the day set aside especially for him.

Only the groundhog didn't show up for his appointment.

According to officials at the zoo, Chubby the Woodchuck escaped sometime this week and hasn't been seen since. He escaped from his wintertime habitat behind the children's zoo, burrowed under a wire fence and set off for the wide open spaces of the zoo's park area.

Woodchuck is another name for groundhog.

CHUBBY, WHO is not expected to return to the sheltered area provided for him, was the last of two groundhogs kept at the zoo. The other one died of natural causes a few months ago.

A zoo spokesman said the warm temperatures of the past few weeks may have fooled Chubby into thinking spring had sprung, thereby giving the furry animal the feeling he should come out of winter hibernation.

If Chubby fails to return by today he will miss a battery of reporters and television cameras sent to the zoo to document his activities on Groundhog Day.

The zoo said it hadn't planned to have a ceremony, as such, today, saying, "We don't have anything like a Woodchuck Day or anything like that," a spokesman said. "But we do accommodate the media by putting out more food in hopes he'll come out."

The spokesman said Chubby was in hibernation in which the heart rate of the animal slows and excess body fat is present to keep him through the winter. Warmer temperatures would bring him out of slumber, he said.

He added that the woodchuck was not on display but kept outside in a sheltered area filled with straw and food. This enables the zoo to display its other animals during the winter months.

"I DON'T THINK we'll see him back at all," the spokesman said of Chubby. "He's out there where the squirrels and our other little animals are at, where there is food for him. He can also burrow a new home for himself."

He said the zoo would not actively seek to replace Chubby but that through donations a new groundhog would probably be given to them. He also would be called Chubby, as were all the groundhogs that have ever resided at Lincoln Park.

The traditional Groundhog Day activity of the animal includes poking his head out of his hole. If he sees his shadow, the story goes, and he rushes back inside the ground, winter will last another six weeks. If he doesn't spot his shadow, that is if it is cloudy, then spring is not far away.

Quirks in the news

There's no license for SIN—even in nation's sin city

NEW YORK — Like many states, New York (for a price) sells motorists special-letter license plates. But the censor has been at work and no plates are available with combinations like SEX, SIN, SOB, PIG, POT and RAT ... Speaking of cars, you can raise eyebrows over the price Earl Clark shelled out in Scottsdale, Ariz., for the 1940 Mercedes touring car that used to carry Adolf Hitler through the streets of Berlin — $153,000. Clark is going to put it on exhibit in his Lancaster (Pa.) amusement park. Tom Barrett, a Scottsdale Realtor, bought the car in 1939 for $40,000.

MASHER PATROL: That's what the Orlando (Fla.) police set up when women complained about unwelcome amorous attentions paid them while out on the city streets. The eight-member patrol included four policewomen. The first arrest came when a man walked out of a bookstore and propositioned one of the lady cops. The judge threw a small book: 30 days.

SECOND-BEST: J. Curtis Counts, director of the Federal Mediation Service, was best man at President Nixon's wedding. But he was considered second-best when the job came up that he wanted: Secretary of labor. It went to labor boss Peter Brennan and so Counts has resigned to go into private industry.

CROSSED SIGNALS: There's a wry note about Ernie Pyle's old desk and the dismantling of the defunct Washington Daily News building. Staffers thought Pyle's desk was a historic item and might bring perhaps $5,000. But things got confused around offices getting taken apart and a man walked in and bought the desk for $35 ... Speaking of newspapers, the cantankerous William Loeb ran this in his Manchester, N.H., paper: "An editor died after a lingering illness. His savings barely covered funeral expenses. A friend, after soliciting funds all day, lacked only a dollar of having enough. Wearily, he said to a stranger, 'Could you give me a dollar to bury an editor?' The stranger pulled out a $5 bill and said, 'Here, bury five of them.'"

DIG DEEP: The United Nations surveyed living costs for international officials in 85 cities. One surprise was that New York ran fifth. Most expensive: Tokyo, a fat 17 per cent above New York. Second highest was Conakry, Guinea; third Lome, Togo; and fourth Paris.

LIKE THE NAIL: General Motors' recall bill for the 3.7-million cars lacking a protective plastic shield on the steering linkage will run an estimated $9-million. What hurts is that the plastic part to keep out stray stones, etc., costs a lousy 85 cents.

A WOMEN'S LIBERATION group decided to turn the tables on men in St. Andrews, Scotland by harassing them with wolf whistles and ogles. They got quick results. "One middle-aged gent tried to attack one of us," said Diane Lee, an Australian social worker ... but all was not lost.

"We put him flat on his back and sort of out that matter very quickly," she said.

IN TEXAS, Rep. Jim Kaster filed a bill in the legislature that would require criminals to give their intended victims 24 hours notice. Kaster's bill, an amendment to the Texas Criminal Code, makes it a separate offense to commit a crime of violence without first notifying the intended victim, giving the time, place, and nature of the crime to be committed. The notification may be either written or oral, but must come 24 hours before the crime is to be committed. The bill also requires the intended victims be informed of their rights.

ARLINGTON, KENTUCKY police apparently believe normal "no parking" signs have lost their meaning. They are now erecting signs that read: "Don't even THINK of parking here."

THIEVES IN Warren, Ohio, seem to prefer whiskey to wine. They stole a truck loaded with spirits and took about 300 cases of whiskey ... but left 600 cases of wine.

AN INCIDENT in Lewiston, Idaho was enough to shake up any motorist. A truck flipped over ... sending hundreds of beer cans onto the pavement. The Idaho highway patrol said motorists caused a massive traffic jam because they jumped from their cars to scoop up the cans.

MAYBE THE IDAHO trucking firm, and Unigate Dairies in Preston, England, ought to get together. The dairy firm has applied for a license so its milkmen can deliver beer with the morning milk. A company spokesman said if the experiment succeeds, it may be expanded to all 7,000 Unigate milk routes in the country.

OSWALD JACOBY

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

The suit preference signal should be a part of every bridge player's kit of conventions provided the bridge player understands that it is a sort of extra signal that is only used when it is unmistakable. In other words, it does not replace the old-fashioned play of a low card to discourage and a high card to encourage.

The game was rubber bridge and both sides had part scores so that everyone hid right along when it was his turn to act.

West liked his double. He liked it less when dummy produced the ace of hearts, but still thought he had nothing to worry about.

South won the heart with dummy's ace. East played his deuce.

A diamond was led at trick two. West took his ace and promptly planked the queen of clubs on the table. Dummy's ace took that trick. South pulled West's last trump and showed his hand while conceding a spade trick.

West was apologetic. He stammered, "I thought your deuce of hearts was a suit preference for clubs. I also thought you had the king of hearts for your heart bids. I sure was wrong on both counts, wasn't I?"

"Yes," hissed East.

Chicago Motor Club to support 5 reforms

Five bills designed to improve traffic safety and protect motorists' rights are included in the 1973 Illinois legislative program of the Chicago Motor Club-AAA.

• Prohibit the use of revenue from existing toll road systems in Illinois to finance further expansion of the toll highway system.

• Reduce the period during which studded snow tires are permitted to from Nov. 1 to April 1.

• Repeal the driver's license law violation feature of the law with respect to curfew violations.

• Provide the state preemption of all vehicle code matters with respect to home rule units of government.

• Clarify the present law providing the release of the name of the insurance carrier shown on an accident report filed with the state.

Continuing support of legislation that would prohibit the use of revenue from existing toll roads to expand the tollway system conforms with American Automobile Association policy that toll highways should be converted into freeways as soon as possible, Gerald W. Cavanagh, Motor Club president, said.

"Although it is recognized that there may be additional wear on pavements caused by studded tires, the overriding benefit to the motorist during the winter months has been thoroughly documented," Cavanagh said.

THE MOTOR CLUB is recommending legislation which would limit use of studded tires in Illinois to from Nov. 1 to April 1 instead of from Oct. 1 to May 1 as now provided by law.

The Illinois driver's license law currently contains a provision to the effect that the license of a driver under 18 years of age shall be invalid during curfew hours, thus subjecting any young driver to the charge of unlicensed driving.

In addition to charges of curfew law violation and any other offense which might have brought the driver to the attention of authorities.

The Motor Club believes that the provision whereby the driver's license is declared void in connection with an apparent curfew violation is unnecessarily stringent and should be deleted from the law.

To assure uniform application of the provisions of the Illinois Vehicle Code, the Motor Club recommends the General Assembly exercise preemption rights reserved to the state under the new Illinois Constitution.

Such preemption would prevent municipalities from legislating in areas where state-wide uniformity is desirable. The state already has exercised its preemptive authority in matters dealing with the rules of the road.

Bridge writer Oswald Jacoby

Columnist wins backgammon crown

LAS VEGAS — Bridge columnist Oswald Jacoby is now the world's champion backgammon player.

The title was conferred upon him recently in Las Vegas, where he came from behind to win the Seagram's 100 Pipers World Championship of Backgammon played at the Tropicana Hotel. The contest was a benefit for United Cerebral Palsy.

Jacoby, whose mastery of bridge, poker, canasta, gin rummy and pinochle is legendary, won by defeating Edward Burns, a retired California businessman, with a score of 25-19, after beating Philip Martin, the American champion, 21-20 in the semifinals. It was Jacoby's fourth victory in 12 major backgammon tournaments in this country and abroad.

The victory earned his backers $25,000 for a $2,000 investment in the player auction. Runner-up purse was $14,000.

Backgammon, along with chess, is among the country's fastest-growing board games. Jacoby's recent book on backgammon is regarded as one of the best volumes ever published on the game.

Rubinstein, 86, tells secret of longevity

LONDON (UPI)—Pianist Artur Rubinstein gave his formula yesterday for living a long and active life in an interview following his 86th birthday.

He told the London Times he still gives 100 concerts a year, often playing three concerts a night. He sleeps very little, eats what he likes, drinks three cups of coffee before going to bed, loves traveling, never takes naps, never goes to a health resort and smokes large cigars.

Rubinstein said that far from considering retirement he has started a parallel career as author and has written 900 pages covering the first 30 years of his "adventurous" life. It will be published later this year.

What's new Pussycat? X-rated harassment

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The operator of the Pussycat Theater chain, which shows X-rated movies, filed suit in federal court against Buena Park city and Orange County officials and the chairman of a group called "Friends of Respectable, Clean Entertainment."

The suit by Vincent Miranda asked $2 million in damages from the defendants for allegedly harassing him with unconstitutional, bad faith prosecutions, searches, movie film seizures and arbitrary enforcement of fire prevention laws.

DuBrow on TV...by Rick DuBrow

Enchanting evening of Shakespeare

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — If you were lucky back in school, you had a teacher who showed you that Shakespeare was not merely a requirement, but a pleasure. And, at times, not merely a pleasure, but just plain razz-dazz.

If you want to get an idea of just how much fun, then tune in CBS-TV tonight and let the rest of the world go by.

For on the network, for three hours, viewers across the nation will be treated to Shakespeare in a way that most television watchers have not seen before. Courtesy of Joseph Papp, the producer, we will get the New York Shakespeare Festival production of "Much Ado About Nothing," in which the characters are set in early 20th Century Mid-America rather than in 16th century Italy.

AS CBS-TV notes, "They step into high-button shoes, spats and starched collars amid such...innovations as...Keystone Kops and cigarette-smoking examples of early women's lib."

This kind of atmosphere works beautifully for the classic comedy. You could, in fact, place the characters in just about any period in history, for with Shakespeare's words to fall back on, the play has an inner strength and soaring joy of expression that are timeless.

Except for a few semi-serious moments around the middle of the production, the tone is just about as airy and whimsical as the plot implies. But, uh, the words. What words! They ripple and flow and play so happily and wittily with the senses that you could kill those English teachers who made Shakespeare seem such a burden until you finally found out otherwise for yourself.

STARRING IN this special, the first in an occasional series that CBS-TV and the New York Shakespeare Festival plan to offer viewers during the next four years, are Kathleen Widdoes as Beatrice and Sam Waterston as Benedick, and they are not merely splendid performers, but completely charming as well. Claudio and Hero are played to fine effect by Glenn Walken and April Shawhan, while the remainder of the cast is as lively and full of fun and skill as the four mixed-up romantic principals.

There is Jerry Mayer, for instance, as the madcap evil conniver Don John, and then there is Frederick Coffin as that other bad fellow Borachio. There is Barnard Hughes as the constable, Dogberry. There is Douglas Watson as the suave Don Pedro, and there are many more.

CBS-TV's production benefits not only from Papp's guidance not only from the direction by A. J. Antoon with Nick Havinga; from Rupert Hitzig, supervisory producer for television; Tom John's perfect sets; the choreography by Donald Saddler, assisted by Helen Gallagher, and Peter Link's music. What they have all helped bring to this three-hour special is an ingredient all too rare in almost any theatrical medium, especially television — a sense of artful playfulness.

The Louds need our help

TV show on typical family sad commentary on times

by REV. DAVID POLING

They are going to be with us for eight or 10 weeks. On television. The William Loud Family of Santa Barbara, Calif. Eight or 10 or 12 hours, condensed from seven months of a camera, crew stalking this couple and their five kids. And people, it will be the toughest viewing of your existence, except for the 12 years of reports from Southeast Asia.

Some TV producer picked out the Loud family as the first choice for his series on "An American Family." So here is the prestige home, the winding driveway to a four-car garage, plus outdoor pool plus indoor fun and games. Great shots of bored teenagers, yawning at life, the parents, the culture, the world. More scenes from the joys of green grass suburban lawn parties, with couples smiling and kidding, and phoning their attorneys to see if the divorce papers are worked up. It is a hard, selfish, cynical experience and if this is the typical American family, we are in big trouble.

WHAT IS LACKING, absent, invisible, is any sense of a moral goal, an ethical pursuit, a sensitivity to the aches and injuries of our day — or any day, for that matter. Southeast Asia is in flames, California choking on smog, ghetto kids losing their teeth, and this household wonders if the Jaguar will be tuned by Saturday.

Oldest boy calls from New York. Twenty, no 40-minute phone call to family, describing sore throat and pressing demand that sisters send scarves by return mail (to further pursue his idolatry of Andy Warhol — a seven-year-rage for this 21-year-old lad).

We know that the home, everywhere, is under enormous pressure and this series only magnifies the heartaches and decay that has set in. Yet this need not be the norm, the standard, the final result of family life. There are shining alternatives and most of them have a religious, spiritual foundation.

IT SURELY is exciting to learn that every Monday night some 500,000 Mormon families have canceled all other engagements to pursue the Family Home Evening. There are many strong projects within the Church of the Latter Day Saints but few compare to the family program that embraces their entire denomination — here and overseas.

Church authorities prepared a manual some nine years ago and continue to update the material annually. It contains resources for games, songs, stories, plays and discussions. The aim is to build family solidarity, remembering the words of the church's late President David Lawrence McKay, "No other success can compensate for failure in the home."

The outreach of the family program sponsored by the Mormons is equally impressive. They are reaching into the Utah State Prison with this concept, seeking to aid the families of those in jail. When no family is present, volunteer couples "adopt" a prisoner. Here are the classic ingredients for enduring family life: concern for the household, concern for others, especially those in trouble. Perhaps someone in Santa Barbara could adopt the Louds. They announced their divorce at the end of the series.

Long and short of federal budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some more things you always wanted to know about the new federal budget but were afraid to ask because you didn't want to sound stupid:

Q. The new budget President Nixon sent to Congress this week calls for the government to spend $268.7 billion in the next fiscal year. What is a billion anyway?

A. Every country has some sort of basic monetary unit. In Britain it is the pound, in France the franc, in Germany the mark and in the United States it is the dollar.

Q. OK, what's a fiscal year?

A. A fiscal year is the amount of time it takes the government to spend $268.7 billion.

Q. The budget has been variously described as "austere" and "bare bones." What could possibly be austere about $268.7 billion?

A. The austere part is the $7 billion. Everything on the other side of the decimal point goes for bare bones.

Q. Isn't $268 billion an awful lot to spend on bare bones?

A. Not with meat prices the way they are today.

Q. One of the visual aids prepared by the Office of Management and Budget shows the "budget dollar" alloted up like a pie. Is there some sort of hidden symbolism in this illustration?

A. Yes. The pie-like drawing symbolizes that the budget makes mincemeat out of the taxpayers.

Q. Military spending is being increased $1.7 billion next year even though the Vietnam War supposedly is ending. Why is this?

A. Military expenses traditionally increase in peacetime. When the armed forces beat their swords into plowshares, they become eligible for agricultural subsidies, which adds to the over-all cost of national defense.

Q. The budget projects $12.7 billion in deficit spending. Why do deficits cost so much?

A. Deficits are expensive because most of them are created overseas and have to be imported. Once domestic deficits become more plentiful, they should be cheaper.

Q. What good are deficits anyhow? Couldn't the country get along just as well without them?

A. Heavens no! We must have deficits to keep the national debt growing at a healthy rate.

Q. Is the national debt really necessary?

A. Very definitely. According to some economists, the national debt is all that is standing between us and bankruptcy.

Q. Last year, Nixon impounded some of the funds voted by Congress. Does the new budget contain any funds for impounding?

A. No. This year Nixon is expected to leave the funds alone and impound Congress instead.

The Volunteer bureau

Volunteering to help others the American way

Why do people volunteer? What motivates Mr. A. to be a volunteer for the American Cancer Society? What motivates Mrs. V. to be a volunteer for the Northwest Community Hospital? What motivates Mrs. J. to be a volunteer for her elementary school? What motivates Mr. K. to be a volunteer with the Juvenile Court Program? What motivates Mrs. R. to be a volunteer with the Opportunity Center?

And as these questions are asked others come up — such as: How do you recruit Mr. A.? How do you find Mrs. V.? And such as: What are my responsibilities to Mr. A.? What are my responsibilities to the American Cancer Society?

The national movement into a Voluntary Society has drawn attention to an aspect of the American culture which has been in existence for some time, and that is that many people give of their time and talent voluntarily. America has traditionally "cared" enough to organize schools, care for the aged, etc. on a voluntary basis, and some of these efforts have become highly organized into institutions such as our public schools and homes for the elderly.

This traditional volunteer role is increasing today with national advertising, and with a new surge of "caring" among people of all ages. The Volunteer Service Bureau, Northwest Cook County is at the other end of the phone when someone calls and asks, "Where can I help?"

THE VOLUNTEER Bureau in cooperation with Harper College has planned an Agency Forum to be held at the college Feb. 16 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. At lunch persons involved with setting up and administering volunteer programs will have a learning experience under the leadership of Carol Wortham of St. Louis, Mo., known developer of agency programs utilizing volunteers. She was the recipient of the Governor's Award for Voluntary Action in 1972 in Illinois for her services in chairing an interagency committee on volunteer services. Her experiences include recruiting, training, and evaluating volunteers; and she has additional experience in the compilation of volunteer records and evaluating volunteer programs.

Coordinators of school programs, Volunteer Directors of social agencies, presidents of PTAs, administrators of school districts, coordinators of Little League Football, administrators of institutions, administrators of youth programs — all are utilized of non-paid personnel, and some of the techniques for management of non-paid personnel are different from the techniques for management of paid personnel.

As the Bureau provides training for those who work with volunteers so shall the opportunities for volunteering become more relevant, more satisfactory, and thereby lessen the chances for an unfortunate experience to take place between the person who gives of his time and talent and the organization utilizing that time and talent. Volunteers know that they can say "no." The Volunteer Bureau in interviewing the potential volunteer brings attention to the fact that if a situation is less than satisfactory, the volunteer can be assigned to a different situation. The usual gift of time is three hours a week, either daytime or evening, and the gift of talent is many faceted.

THE VOLUNTEER BUREAU guidelines require that an accepted agency is non-profit and that the volunteer does not replace paid staff. Guidelines that say "If it's over 12 hours a week, it is no longer volunteer," are generally accepted by Volunteer Bureaus throughout the country.

The hospital volunteer may give a day a week, the juvenile court volunteer may give two hours a week, the learning center volunteer may give two afternoons a week, the Little League volunteer may give 12 hours a week for six or seven weeks, the PTA president may give 12 hours a week for 9 months, the transportation volunteer may give an afternoon once a month, and the school board member may give 12 hours a week for 3 years.

The "enrichment" volunteer who shares his career or his hobby or his travel experiences may give 1 hour or five times a year. But all these volunteers have a common denominator and that is that they give because they want to. The program to which they give their time and talent is one in which they believe, where they are treated with dignity, and where they know they're needed.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am one of your readers, but I never thought that I would write for advice. Lately, I have been eating constantly. No matter how much I eat or how often I eat as soon as I've eaten, 10 minutes barely pass before I am starved again. I don't feel full at all. I do not and haven't gained weight except when I was pregnant.

I don't think that I am pregnant because I am taking birth control pills and I have not yet missed a period. Sometimes when I haven't anything that I want to eat or after I have eaten I get cramps in my stomach. Someone told me that there were such things as tapeworms, that if you have one in you, you eat constantly and never gain weight. Is this true or do you think there is a possibility of my being pregnant?

I was told that tapeworms are 30 feet long. I am worried half to death. I don't want to go to a gynecologist yet I don't know what to say or whether he would examine me. I don't have money to go to a private doctor. I go to clinics, so that is why I am consulting you.

Dear Reader — If you are really eating a lot of food and not gaining any weight you simply must have a medical examination.

I am not very much impressed with the idea that you might have a tapeworm, but I am more impressed with the possibility that you might have an important disease. One of these is diabetes in which a lot of the food energy a person gets is lost by losing sugar in the urine. Thus, an individual with fairly severe diabetes will eat a lot of food and not gain any weight. These individuals often drink lots of water and have to urinate frequently as well.

Another cause for this type of problem is an overactive thyroid gland. The metabolism is markedly speeded up and as a result, the body uses an awful lot more energy even without doing any significant amount of work. The amount of food a person with an overactive thyroid can eat and not gain weight can sometimes be tremendous. This is an important medical problem and deserves attention.

I HOPE NOT to frighten you but there are other medical problems that also cause weight loss. Tuberculosis is still a fairly frequent disease, particularly in some communities and in older people (although the latter may not apply to you). Weight loss from tuberculosis is a serious sign and usually means considerable disease. Tuberculosis can usually be controlled or cured with proper treatment and it doesn't take as long as it once did. Of course, you may not have this at all, but you must find out.

I doubt that you are pregnant either if you are eating that much and not gaining any weight. Most women who are pregnant gain weight and when they eat a lot of food it shows up on the scales. I believe you simply must go see a doctor to get a better idea of what is causing your problem. If you have an overactive thyroid it can be treated and you will need the treatment.

2,000-year-old Egyptian

Researchers seek causes of disease; autopsy mummy

by PAUL VARIAN

DETROIT (UPI)—A 2,000-year-old Egyptian mummy underwent an autopsy yesterday by researchers seeking new insight into the history and evolution of disease.

Such autopsies, have been performed before, but in most cases the mummies have not been well preserved and the desired results were not achieved.

The mummy, believed to be that of an upper class Egyptian woman who died during the Roman Era of history, was put on display for newsmen, stretched out on a long desk in a Wayne State University classroom.

IT WAS GIVEN to the researchers on "loan" by the University of Pennsylvania Museum in Philadelphia where it has been kept for the past 50 years. Following the autopsy, the doctors will send the body back — vessels intact — to the museum.

"We're removing only that which is needed for our research," said Dr. Robin A. Barraco, the Wayne State University physiologist on the research team. "We approached this whole project mindful of the dignity with which the Egyptians treated the body."

X-rays indicated the woman died of a skull fracture, and also had polio, Barraco said.

The doctors planned to remove small sections of organic and muscular tissue from the mummy, "rehydrate" them by soaking them in an alcohol solution and attempt to extract protein samples they feel will provide new information on what causes present-day diseases.

MANY MORE such autopsies would have to be performed with similar results before any significant conclusions could be drawn, however.

Dr. Alden Cookburn of the Smithsonian Institution, an expert on the history of disease, said diseases such as tuberculosis have undergone an evolutionary process which has paralleled the evolution of man. This evolution must be traced, he said, if progress in the treatment and prevention of disease is to be made.

"The flu is a very good example," Cookburn said. "Flu changes about every three or four years. That's why the vaccine is no good. Mumps on the other hand, hasn't changed over the years."

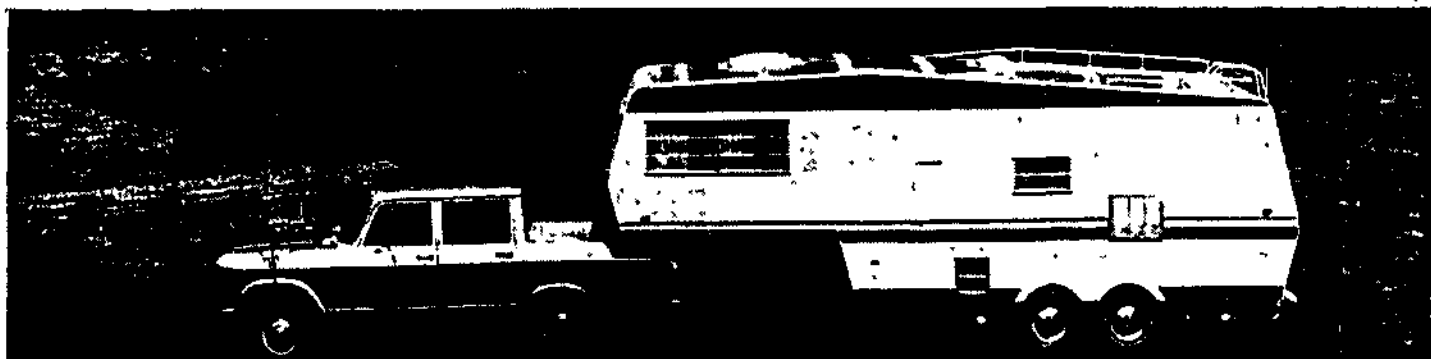

"IF WE WANT to get rid of diseases, we have to know why they change and how they change," he said.

Mid-Suburban showcases crucial division games

It might be billed as Wheeling's Last Stand.

That's the main attention-getter tonight in the North Division basketball race of the Mid-Suburban League.

Wheeling, two games behind undefeated (in the MSL) Arlington with five to go, plays host to the Cardinals in a must confrontation to highlight the North schedule. If Arlington can win this one, it's virtually home free.

Hersey, with still an outside chance (three losses), entertains a Palatine team which tipped it a month and a half ago but has been slumping badly. In the other North clash, Rolling Meadows (1-8) tries to escape the cellar at home against three-time winner Fremd.

These games are the only action of the weekend for each of the six squads, all having engaged in Tuesday night action. All three of tonight's matches occurred earlier in the season, so revenge is a motive in each case.

ARLINGTON AT WHEELING

"The one thing I've learned from past experience is that we can expect to have a battle on our hands."

This was Arlington coach George Zigman's way of anticipating the upcoming game between his Cardinals and hosting Wheeling tonight, the third clash between the two teams this season and the one that could either decide the MSL's North Division title or keep the race hot.

"We may get tired of playing this team before the year is out but you can bet we're never going to run out of respect for them," continued the Cardinal pilot. "I can't remember any game with them in the past that wasn't hard-fought and exciting."

The reason why Zigman feels his charges may grow weary of collisions with the Wildcats is that there is a distinct possibility that the two clubs will meet up with each other no less than four times before the season is out.

The Cards were narrow 53-50 winners the first time they met in Arlington Heights, but the 'Cats evened up the

Kickin' It Around

BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

CHARLIE COMPUTER didn't miss by much.

Charley went clickety-clack, clickety-clack and came up with the name of Dave Butz as one of the first young bodies to be tapped in the draft of college talent by professional football.

One Charlie Computer even clickety-clacked and said Butz would be No. 1 in the nation.

Butz, who prepped at nearby Maine South High School in Park Ridge, wasn't the first, second, third or even fourth choice Tuesday but was No. 5 in the nation. He'll be trying to help the St. Louis Cardinals in the fall, a team that needs help desperately.

After the regular season Butz, who starred at Purdue, passed market inspection at such cattle stations as the Senior Bowl in Mobile, Ala., where pros scout watched the practices with the intrusive curiosity of plantation owners at an old slave mart.

They might just as well have stood all the players up on an auction block in the middle of town and let all the pros go down the line checking teeth.

When it was all over, it was generally agreed that Butz, a 6-foot-7, 270-pound tackle, could step into the defensive front four of almost any National Football League team.

Butz has known he was going to be a and articulatory that would come in handy with success in pro football.

"I like the game," he says, "the physical challenge, the hitting. I'm interested in individual accomplishment. I try not to let how the team is doing influence me because I might get frustrated if we're losing. But I accept the authority of a coach because I know this is the way it must be."

"I'm the most dedicated athlete I know."

None of this is blurted with the aggressive conceit of a popoff. He has simply measured himself and knows that playing on the defensive line, he is what the pros want.

The only concern with Butz, as The Sporting News pointed out last week, has been his desire. When he's emotionally aroused, he can manhandle almost any offensive lineman.

Butz is one of the nation's finest football players, but I remember him best as a prep in two other sports. I never had a chance to see him play high school football but marveled at his power in basketball and track.

Butz hurt area teams in many ways in three sports, but his most stinging blow probably was the one he administered to Arlington's Tom Chandler in the finals of the 1968 state track and field finals in Champaign.

Chandler, a strong 200-pounder at Arlington, had his sights set on the state discus title in that 1968 meet. He had been a state leader most of the spring and had beaten Butz with his final throw in the Arlington District. Tom hit a season high of 178-4 with that last district toss, edging Butz who reached 176-3. This was the first time Butz had gotten off a throw of over 160 feet. Chandler had been more consistent.

In the state meet Butz, then just a junior, established a new Illinois record in the discus with a toss of 180 feet, 4 inches. His record throw, coming in the preliminaries, eclipsed by a 3 feet 7½ inches the mark made by Bloomington's Ed Rogers the previous year and demoted the fine efforts of chunky Riverside-Brookfield fullback Craig Black to second place.

Black topped the 170 distance on five occasions with a best of 176-3.

In third was Arlington's Chandler, the pre-meet favorite, at 173-2, just one inch ahead of Deerfield's Kevin Hardy. Chandler was clearly pressing after Butz unleashed his record effort. It was a bitter disappointment for the Card senior who desperately wanted that title and who had been so steady throughout the season.

Butz never equalled that record toss as a senior and didn't place at the state.

In that junior year Butz improved about four feet per week in the discus after getting a late start due to basketball. "I felt great on the record throw," he told reporters. "I lifted my head and followed through like coach (Carl) Magsamen said. This was the only time I threw down the side. I had a 173 down the middle and wanted to see if it made any difference down the side."

While Butz was talking to our group of reporters, his coach came over. "I told Dave if he won and set a record, we'd buy him all the steak he could eat," said Magsamen, the Maine South discus coach. "Now I'm getting worried. We stopped at the Redwood Inn in Rantoul and Dave piled his plate up three times like this (putting one hand six inches above the other). There's no telling how much steak he can eat."

I don't know how much steak Butz made his coach buy on that trip home in May of 1968, but one thing is certain now.

High pro draft choices don't have to worry about who's buying the steaks.

High draft choices buy their own.

If both survive opening regional play-off tests later this month, they'll be hooking up for the fourth time with a sectional berth in the balance.

"We feel we've improved since the last time we met Wheeling, but I know they've come a long way, too. They've been getting some great play out of (Pat) Smith lately and (George) Kaage always gives them a strong inside game but the real key with them is depth. If somebody isn't clicking, it seems like coach (Ted) Ecker always has two or three waiting in the wings to take their place."

Ecker rated his team's play in the first meeting with the Cards "about a 'D'."

South leader Prospect faces rugged weekend

If Prospect is to be stopped, it will have to be this weekend.

It will be known by late Saturday evening if there is any real basketball race remaining in the South Division of the Mid-Suburban League. The moment of truth arrives for the division-leading Knights (7-1) in the next 48 hours as they must meet their closest pursuers — Conant (6-3) and Elk Grove (5-3).

Prospect knocked off both of those squads earlier in the season, so the Cougars and Grenadiers will be looking to get even as well as climb back into the thick of the chase. A pair of Knight wins would end the race for all practical purposes and one win would probably eliminate the victim.

Another interesting South struggle pits Elk Grove against Forest View (5-4) tonight while Schaumburg welcomes Glenbard North. Prospect's crucial slate has it at Conant tonight and back home against Grove Saturday evening.

JURY OUT ON BEARS' DRAFT

Dear Fans Forum:

On paper it looks like the Bears made a good draft. Let's see what happens on the field before we start giving Gibron and Halas and the crew any credit. That organization has fouled up so many choices in the past that I'm not convinced they didn't this time too. Garrett (Carl) is a good runner but he's a known flake. Wait until he sees the antiquated Bears' organization. Cotton (Craig) could be a good one if they ever throw to him. He might get tired of just blocking for a Douglass. Wally Chambers comes highly regarded but I'd rather take someone who has played a Nebraska or Texas or Oklahoma schedule than somebody who has played for Eastern Kentucky. Gary Huff looks like a fine prospect but what good is a quarterback prospect for the Bears when they think Douglass is so great? I seriously wonder how much chance Huff will ever have. The Bears have drafted other quarterbacks in the past two or three years but have never even used them in exhibition games. I don't think I can take another year with Douglass.

TEST FOR GREATNESS

Dear Fans Forum:

Bill Walton of UCLA is a great player but too many writers are calling him the greatest player in the game. He still must prove himself against Kareem Jabbar, Nate Thurmond, Artis Gilmore, Dave Cowens, Wilt Chamberlain and others before being called the greatest.

BOWLERS DESERVE PUBLICITY

Dear Fans Forum:

Professional bowling on television has great ratings which indicates people must be interested, but I pick up my Sunday newspaper and find either nothing on the previous day's tournament or just a paragraph or two. Frankly, I get tired of seeing this sport shoved into the background. There are a lot of bowlers around who would like to see the sport get much more publicity. For the past two Sundays one Chicago paper didn't have a single line on the pro tournament from the previous Saturday afternoon. Are they too lazy to turn on the television set and write a story from that? It's inexcusable that a professional sport gets so little publicity in a city this size.

Dave Carpenter

PINCH HIT RULE IS 'GREAT'

Dear Sirs:

The designated pinch hitter rule is great. You just can't go along with the same rules when you know some of them are smothering fan interest. Maybe these rules are valid for statistical reasons, but for the good of the game, you have to have innovations. The smug National League is not as great as they think they are.

Elliot Marshall
Arlington Heights

LIKES SPECIAL PAGES

Dear Herald:

Your special pages on gymnastics, swimming and wrestling are just great. I have a special interest in one sport but find the coverage of the other two just as fascinating. Rather than search through a paper for all the stories, I know where to find everything each week. Keep it up. Basketball isn't the only sport in the winter.

WHAT HAPPENED TO...?

Dear Fans Forum:

I have been trying to find out, with no luck, whatever happened to Dave Merrick, who was such an outstanding high school track runner a few years ago? I think he went to a school called Lincoln-Way, a Chicago suburb.

As far as we can determine, Merrick has been having his academic problems. The former distance-running sensation at Lincoln-Way High School made All-American (top 25 in the nation) at Penn Ms first semester there but dropped out, re-enrolled at Alabama, and has also left there.

professional football player since he was a sophomore at Maine South. At that time he was 6-6 and weighed 260 and his coach suggested he start thinking about his future in that direction.

Dave's uncle, Earl, is the Secretary of Agriculture in the President's cabinet. When Dave got through mauling the Iowa line in a game last fall, a fan ran alongside him to the locker room and said, "Tell your uncle he's doing a good job."

Butz has been the biggest man on the field in every game he has played since his grade school days. He was about six feet and 150 pounds in the fourth grade. He made the varsity football team as a freshman at Maine South and qualified as a freshman in the state discus.

What impresses the professionals is the surprising quickness that goes with the size. At 22, he has the look and actions of a mature man, and he'll offer a quicker return to a pro team than a quarterback, for example, because playing defense is a natural aptitude.

Anyone who watched Butz play basketball for Maine South is not surprised at the professionals' excitement over his quickness. He moved extremely well on the basketball floor.

Butz even took a speech minor in college because he felt he needed the poise

'Better than record' Lions in weekend pair

by LARRY EVERHART

St. Viator basketball coach Ed Wasielewski feels his club is better than is indicated by its 3-13 overall record — 1-9 in the East Division of the Suburban Catholic Conference.

"Our shooting has been off but other than that we're doing a good job," Wasielewski insists while looking ahead to another tough double weekend. The Lions must travel to Notre Dame Friday night and return home to host St. Joseph

Saturday evening. Both varsity contests will get underway at about 8 p.m.

The Lions will be looking for revenge in both games but find themselves in their usual role of underdog. The first time around the loop, Notre Dame pulled out a 51-48 thriller over the Lions in the last few seconds and St. Joseph defeated them 77-63 in Westchester in the first game after the Holiday break.

"Our won-lost record is no true indication of the kind of ball we have been playing," Wasielewski said.

Gym feature may steal spotlight

Gymnastics will either share or steal the athletic limelight tonight when Hinsdale Central's three-time defending state champion Red Devils invade Hersey for a dual meet.

"We're expecting a packed house," Hersey Athletic Director Dick Kinneman projected, "even though they'll be bucking a full calendar of basketball games."

"We're setting up some folding chairs on the main floor and if necessary, we'll be able to seat about 2,500 instead of the normal 2,200" he added.

"I just hope we don't have to turn people away. We'd like as many people as possible to see this meet, but our accommodations are limited."

Doors of the Hersey gymnasium will be opened at 6 p.m. for the competition which will begin at 7 with the freshmen and sophomore teams previewing the varsity.

Tickets can only be purchased at the door where students will be admitted for $3.50 and adults for $1.

Something will have to give when the two state powers collide. Hinsdale's frosh-soph will carry a 94-meet winning skeln into the affair with the varsity owning a 48-meet streak.

Hersey has also run up a few — the frosh-soph working on 44 straight and the varsity a non-loser since early last season. The Huskies have captured both invitational involving the two teams so far this season.

Viator has been losing but plugging away and the Lions will keep trying this weekend — hoping to end a three-game losing streak and a dismal skeln going back to Christmastime that has seen them drop seven of their last eight.

The Lions have been patient on offense and tough on defense but continue to have the simple problem of putting the ball in the basket. As Wasielewski pointed out, "Any decent shooting would have won our last game" (a 57-45 loss to Holy Cross last Friday night). The same can be said of a 50-39 loss to talented St. Patrick the previous weekend.

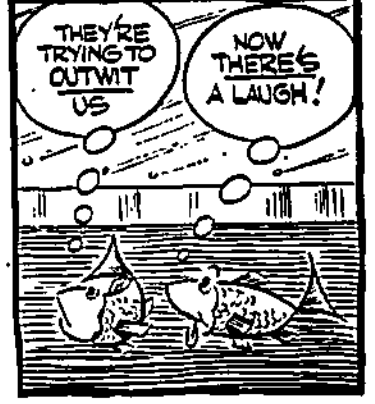

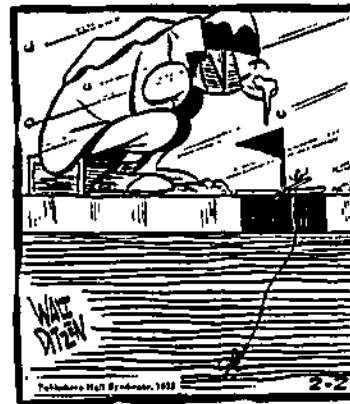

About Notre Dame and St. Joseph, the Lion ringmaster says, "They're both solid clubs and they don't have any one individual you can key on. We'll have to beat the whole team, not one or two guys. If we're physically ready we can play with them."

He was referring to various maladies that have kept three of his better players sidelined recently — Fred Hailihan with a charleyhorse, Tom Chapman with the flu and Mike Dwyer with an injury sustained in an auto accident. (Dwyer still led the Lions in scoring against Holy Cross with 13 points).

The only other Lions in double figures in the last three games were Dave Hutcheson and Terry Keenan with 16 apiece in an overtime loss to Carmel. In the game before that Mike Cook hit a season high of 18.

Those three players are being counted on to pull St. Viator out of a scoring slump that has seen it average just 49 points a game for all 16 games thus far. The Lions have been held to 50 or under 10 times and under 40 three times. By contrast, opponents are averaging 57 a contest and have been held below 50 just three times.

Zikes 19th in Denver

Les Zikes of Palatine finished 19th last Saturday in 42-game totals of the $50,000 PBA Denver Open. He collected $625.

Zikes manages Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights.

Spitz wins again

Seven-time Olympic gold medal winner Mark Spitz has been named the 1972 "King of Sports" by the National Sports-casters and Sportswriters Association.

Spitz will receive a solid gold medal in his likeness. The official presentation will be made later this year in Montreal, Canada.

In a ballot of sportswriters and sports-casters, Spitz outpolled the late Roberto Clemente, his closest competitor, 567-396.

McGuire at Oklahoma

Jeff McGuire of Arlington Heights is competing on side horse for the University of Oklahoma varsity gymnastics team.

McGuire, a sophomore, placed second on side horse in the Illinois high school finals two years ago.

Donkeys at Notre Dame

A lively game of donkey basketball will be played by the Notre Dame high school faculty versus the school's track team at 8 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 11.

Both sides will be at the mercy of their donkeys who will be stubborn and generally uncooperative.

Tickets can be purchased at the door. Notre Dame is located at 7655 Dempster St. in Niles.

NIU in Stadium

Northern Illinois University will batter Oral Roberts in Saturday night's opening game of a college basketball doubleheader in the Chicago Stadium.

That game will follow the 7:30 p.m. opener pitting the host Loyola Ramblers against Dayton's Flyers. Tickets are available at the Stadium.

Wood at Kentucky

Former 6-foot-11 All-Area cager Roger Wood, who prepped at Wheeling, is putting together some fine statistics as a member of the University of Kentucky junior-varsity team.

Wood has played in all six of the team's games, averaging 11.5 points and 9.8 rebounds. He's Kentucky's second leading rebounder and No. 3 scorer.

Gophers like Selleck

At Elk Grove Bowl

In the Pin Gazers League the Gutter Dusters took high series and high game with 1794 and 626. High scorer of the day was Marlene Jacobsen with 193-169-262 for 564. Glenys Dombrowski came up with 184-182-179 for a 545. Other top scores were Sharon Harrod's 522-180, Ardell Bleatman's 517-182, Julie Dunne's 517-181, Muriel Majewski's 507-179, Joan Butenschon's 500-191, Mary Geary's 492-189, Nancy Pomrening's 491-193, Marilyn Neville's 483-191, Marcia Christie's 481-178, Barbara Conroy's 480-171, Gladys Hollywood's 473-175, Dolores Kinnard's 470-177, Darlyne Elliott's 171, and 170's by Diane Sanders, Gail Neville and Judy Kramkowski.

and linebacker at Arlington, apparently has a bright football future at the University of Minnesota.

Only a sophomore, Selleck handled all the special team snapping chores and saw considerable playing time last fall.

Zage at North Central

Russell Zage, a former Maine West varsity swimmer, now competes for North Central College in Naperville. Zage swims sprint events.

Something fishy

Three area fishermen have done well in the Metropolitan Miami (Fla.) Fishing Tournament. Dan Striegel of Elk Grove recently landed a 258-pound shark.

Fred Duhke of Arlington Heights caught a 61-pound sailfish. Jim Beirne of Buffalo Grove landed a 35-pound sailfish.

CBA in trouble?

Waukegan-Lake County has a sizable first place lead in recent Continental Basketball Association standings. And the club is scoring upwards of 150 points per game.

But when Waukegan defeated Rockford 156-130, only 65 persons populated the stands. Attendance has averaged only 200 and for that reason, the franchise will probably fold.

Waukegan will lose over $20,000 this season. "Maybe the public is getting too much free television of college and professional games," sighed owner Peter Collins. "They don't want to pay to see a game anymore."

UOP in Grand Prix

Universal Oil Products of Des Plaines is sponsoring the UOP Shadow, America's first Grand Prix, contender since Dan Gurney's All-American Eagle was withdrawn from the circuit in 1967.

UOP has England's Jackie Oliver behind the wheel. The Shadow recently completed successful testing in England and will make its racing debut March 3 in the South African Grand Prix.

Mother Nature melts Wis.

Warm weather has made snowmobiling such a non-sport in Wisconsin that the state's recent outdoor releases have concentrated on winter fishing.

Excellent walleye catches were reported during January in Oneida, Vilas, Oconto, Bayfield and Ashland counties. Most good fishing has been in northern Wisconsin.

Fermo No. 1

Pete Fermo, a sophomore at Hersey, walked away with top honors of the 15-year old heavyweight division at the first annual judo invitational held at the Uptown Dojo in Chicago.

Pete represents the Northwest Suburban YMCA.

Softball tourney sites

Eau Claire, Wis., has been awarded this year's men's fast pitch to be held by the Amateur Softball Association later this year.

The men's slow pitch tournament will be held somewhere in metropolitan Chicago.

The women's fast pitch tourney will be held at Oakshosh, Wis., and the slow pitch version at Geneva, Ill.

Topple Hersey, 60-34

Wheeling tankers triumph

When you share your pool facilities with another team, it's got to intensify the rivalry between the two schools.

Hersey, which takes turns in the Wheeling tank each day, captured the first event — the 200 medley relay behind the efforts of Kevin Taylor, George Dodgen, Dave Colburn and Dave Henderson (1:53.2).

Then it was Wheeling's turn. The Wildcats of Coach Doug Colner whipped off five straight wins, including a stunner in diving, and rolled to an impressive 60-34 victory Wednesday. The meet had previously been scheduled for Tuesday.

The Wildcats must have known they were headed for their second Mid-Suburban League win in four tries when George Wurtz upset Allen Zasady, 198.15 to 179.10. Zasady has recorded the highest total of any MSL diver and

Palatine North signup Monday

The Palatine North Little League will hold an additional registration on Monday, Feb. 5, at St. Thomas School, 1141 East Anderson Dr., Palatine, between the hours of 7:00 and 8:00 p.m.

All boys ages 8 through 15 interested in playing Little League baseball should take this opportunity to register.

Boys must be 8 years of age by Aug. 1, 1973, and bring their birth certificate with them.

Additional boys are needed in the Future Star Division consisting of 8 year olds, so parents take this extended opportunity to enroll your son.

Bill Modica

ranks third on the all-area list.

Bill Modica was one of two Wildcats to record two wins. One of Modica's victories came in the 400 freestyle where he went 4:08.2 — tying the fifth best time in the area by Maine West's Gary Dahl. His other triumph came in the 200 freestyle (1:58.5).

At Elk Grove Bowl

Doug Niggemann had high mark for the men and Dolores DeBartoli paced the ladies in the Friday Night Mixed Nuts League at Elk Grove Bowl. Niggemann came up with a 540 series and 206 high game while Dolores recorded a 488 and 179. Frank Colombo had a 533-192, Hap Diddle 527-197, Bob Metcalf 520-192 and Fred Ziellinski 490-178. Next best among the ladies were Jean Davis with 401-168, Linda Metcalf with 481-178, Doris Takeda 459-190 and Kayda Gee 454-168. Doris Takeda picked up two tough splits, the 2-7 and 3-10.

Ken Bergman captured the other two — the 200 individual medley (2:14.8) and the 100 breaststroke (1:07.4).

Other winners for Wheeling were Paul Lindquist in the 50 free (24.7), Jeff Wilkox in the 100 butterfly (1:07.0) and the 400 relay team of Lindquist, Mike Hyde, Bergman and Modica (3:42.5).

Hersey's winners were Kevin Taylor in the 100 free (54.0) Bob Larue in the 100 backstroke (1:06.3).

Coach Herb Parson's teams have had their share of just misses, too. Another was added to the list as the frosh-soph team lost to Wheeling, 48-47. Tony Blankenship paced the victory with wins in the individual medley and butterfly.

Chris Tague led Hersey with wins in the 200 and 400 freestyles.

At Striker Lanes

In the Mixed Nuts league at Buffalo Grove Striker 200 games have been posted by Karen Behrendt (209), Pat McDonald (208), Peggy Slove (208), and Nancy Rodewald (204). . . Those hitting the 500 mark are Karen Behrendt with 533, Dottie Rudolff 533, Pat McDonald 532, Nancy Rodewald 530, Gail Salmen 510, and Peggy Slove 503. . . Among the men, those hitting at least 540 or better were Paul Strub with 621, Bob Bush 574, Bob Slove 570, Joe Hickey 569, Bob Behrendt 563, Elmer Rohde 549, Gene Harvel 543, and Cliff Cloos 541. . . In the 200 game department were Elmer Rohde 233, Paul Strub 729, Bob Bush 222, Bob Slove 211, Bob Behrendt 216, Joe Hickey 212, Dave Salmen 213, Ernie Ernest 210, and Gene Harvel 205.

NEXT MOVE? Randy Weber of Fremd has to pull up and look for an open man during Tuesday night's 83-63 Arlington victory. On defense are Jim Stull (22) and Bob Bunn with Viking center Larry Coughlin behind Stull. Arlington will take its 9-0 Mid-Suburban League record to Wheeling Friday night.

West home; East, North to travel for opening of 2nd round action

by MIKE KLEIN Many weeks ago, it was all very different when Central Suburban leaguers opened the door to their eighth annual basketball party.

Nine veteran schools welcomed newcomers Maine East, Highland Park and Niles East.

Only a few oldtimers admitted they weren't running after a title, just someplace in the middle ranks.

The first two newcomers sauntered in predicting good seasons, maybe even a conference championship, rather robust talk for new initiates.

Niles East sat in a far corner, sipped a glassful of medfocally on the rocks, and insisted, "We'll get better."

Stalwarts New Trier West and Maine West — big enough now to drink stronger fluids — conceded they had chances of unearthing Maine South from the Central Suburban mountain top.

Maine North — youngest and smallest of the holdovers — sat alongside Niles East, wheezing on a ginger ale, telling everyone the ball would bounce better in January.

That was early December.

Indeed, Highland Park and New Trier West have kept pace with their predictions.

High Park, New Trier and Maine South are tied out front with 6-1 records. Highland Park made that possible by dumping New Trier last weekend.

The others have followed different formulas. Maine East and West fell upon hard times and won't win a title this year.

Niles East might be improving, but the Trojans are still losing. They're 2-13.

And Maine North, which said the world gets brighter after halftime, is beginning to find some believers. Despite a winless record.

The Central Suburban begins second round action tonight, pitting the same clubs which paired off on Dec. 8. That means Maine North at New Trier West, Niles East at Maine West and Maine East at Highland Park. All are 8 p.m. games.

East's Blue Demons, 4-3 in CSL play and 8-8 overall, have proven they'll always beat bad teams, do well against some good clubs and generally crumble before a powerhouse.

Highland Park (Only 7-7) dumped Maine East 65-60 in their first meeting and did it without league-leading scorer (23.1) Bob Santini.

Some observers think Santini is the Central Suburban League's best guard. You'd get arguments on that from people who've seen Maine South's Bill Harbeck.

Or Glenbrook North's Ted Govedarica. Or Maine East's Keith Larson. Or . . . take your choice. There's a potful of good talent playing the outer perimeters.

But if scoring were the only measuring stick, Santini would be top dog. In six of seven possible league games, Santini has scored more points, 139, than any other player.

His closest competition is Niles North's Steve Gobel who's totalled 138 points in seven games for a 19.7 average and runner-up honors.

Santini's 32 points at Maine West ties him with Maine South's Jerry Jones for most points in a single game. Jones did it against Niles North.

And in a 101-100 Danville Tournament loss to Effingham St. Anthony, Santini and center Chuck Bergen each dropped through 38 points.

Santini's only obvious weakness could be his height. He's 5-10, perhaps too small for major college basketball. But it hasn't made any noticeable difference in CSL play.

Some Chuck Schramm discipline kept Santini out of the first Maine East game. So Bergen, No. 3 league scorer at 19.1, picked up the pace and hit 23 points. Moe Smith had 15.

East's Larson led all shooters with 24 points, 14 coming after halftime when he rained line-drive bombs over the Little Giant defense.

But Larson hasn't been near that production since, averaging 12.8 in conference play and 11.4 overall on a defense-oriented team.

Back when the CSL basketball party began, Maine West went to Niles East and fashioned a 59-54 overtime victory. It should have been easier, but the Warriors didn't have Joe Thimm that evening. Tonight's 8:00 rematch is at Maine.

During the interim, West has endured an expected loss at Maine South plus tough road defeats against Niles West and Deerfield.

The Warriors also gave Highland Park its only loss, 79-61 before Christmas, won with just a second remaining against Maine East and took a two-point lead from Niles North.

Without question, the occasional absences of Thimm and center Doug Myers have made an unhappy difference. Thimm is the No. 10 CSL scorer with a 14.3 p.p.g. Myers' 11.4 average is good for 15th. But he's played only five of seven league games.

With that pair together, Maine West gave its best showing to date last week in a 75-63 non-conference loss against co-Suburban League leader Proviso East.

In that one, Thimm and Myers got plenty of help from Chris Bouchée, John O'Connor and Joe Prang.

Niles East, a winner only three times in 21 games last year, has beaten Glenbrook South, 56-54, and Niles North, 74-63. That's it for Trojan wins.

Their average losing margin has been 17.3 points, raised from 13.2 by last weekend's disasters. The Trojans were killed by Maine South (81-41) and New Trier East (76-28).

But just four weeks ago, this same team lost to Highland Park by just two points, 58-56!

One of few bright spots in a dismal Trojan season has been 6-5 center Don Diamond who's ninth with a 14.5 conference scoring average.

New Trier West began its hopeful title pursuit by fiddling an 88-45 tune at Maine North's expense. It was New Trier's first win after losses to Conant, New Trier East and Evanston.

From that point, the Cowboys have won eight and lost four. Last weekend's defeat at Highland Park really hurt. But New Trier is still a front-runner in this title race.

Maine North has changed abruptly since it lost to NTW many weeks ago. A bunch of kids are doing the shooting now. Leading scorer (18.7) and rebounder (7.9) Willie Vall is gone, his eligibility used up.

But two facets haven't changed — tremendous optimism and the winless record.

Head coach Jerry Nelson reiterates that improvement has been made and dividends will be paid. Perhaps not this season, but eventually.

Playing heavily of late, sophomore George Kaufman has taken 110 shots and scored 103 points for a 9.3 average. He had 25 points last Friday against Glenbrook South.

Derrick Brown has played off-and-on center as a bad ankle would permit. His best stat is a 7.4 rebounding pace. Pretty good for a 6-foot-3 sophomore.

Junior Eddie Volkman took over for the departed Vall and scored 11 points in his first start. Junior Bob DeMarco had 14 in a reserve role last week.

The Norsemen can't look to this weekend for their first season victories. New Trier West is a huge favorite tonight. At 8 p.m. Saturday, North will host New Trier East, co-leader with Proviso East in the Suburban League.

In tonight's Central Suburban games, make it Glenbrook North 15 over Glenbrook South, Highland Park 15 over Maine East, New Trier West 30 over Deerfield at Maine South 30 over Deerfield, Maine West 15 over Niles East and Niles West 15 over Niles North.

Our current prediction success is 19-5 after a 4-2 mark last weekend.

NORTH'S BEST ROUTINE. Roger Scarola of Maine North earned a 5.50 on still rings against Maine East last Friday evening for the highest Norsemen score in that event. North's highest score in the 93-60 defeat was Joel Lechner's 5.85 in free exercise Individual Medley, Scott Dyker (2:28.3); 1st 400 yd. free relay, Ben Fulle, Paul Weider, Mike Fitzgerald, and Steve Griffin.

HAWK HOLD. Ron Lemanczyk of Triton tries to keep Harper's Rick Odom in check during their 142-pound bout on the Hawk mats last week. It was one of the few moments when Odom didn't have the upper hand on route to a 16-2 decision. Harper routed the Warriors on the team level too, 28-11, to claim conference dual meet honors.

Top women bowlers set for tournament weekend

Bowling with the William A. Pope Co. team from Island Lake, Lorrie Koch, Paddock Classic bowler, will roll in the IWBA tournament Saturday, Feb. 3 at 4:30 p.m. at Elgin Lanes.

Bowling with Lorrie will be Lynne Highland with average of 191, Phyllis Gossy 184, Irene Salata, 184 and Shirley Garms 194. The total team average is 941.

Bowling on the same lanes will be Cavallini Five of Riverdale with Mary Lou Baird 182, Marilyn Yunker 173, Tiny Cazel 172, Edith Cavallini 177, Elaine Dell 'Aquila 181. Team total is 885.

On Feb. 4 at 6 p.m. at Hoffman Lanes, Hoffman Estates, Phyllis Gossy and Shirley Garms will be defending their 1972 state championship in doubles. Phyllis and Shirley rolled a scratch total of 1244 to win the championship in 1972.

Also bowling at 6 p.m. will be Lorrie Koch and Lynne Highland.

On Sunday at 4:30 p.m. at Elgin Lanes in the team event is Wetzel Transportation of Justice with Kay Christensen 177, Linda Schrafer 170, Christine Handing 162, Lois Goettsche 184, Sue Meyers 177. Team total is 870.

At 7 p.m. the high shooting Cave Recreation of Chicago will roll with Beverly Adams 175, Carole Collins 178, Flora Mae Gordon 179, Ernestine Nelson 174, and Lula Stuts 181. Teamtotal is 887.

These women will be competing for the state championship in teams, doubles and singles.

Flying Scots visit Harper in Skyway test

The National Basketball Association has its Philadelphia 76ers and the Skyway Conference has its McHenry Flying Scots.

Both teams have something in common — they lose much more than they win.

The Scots will be flying into the Herald area Saturday night for a 7:30 engagement with Harper College.

The Hawks have won five of their nine SC games compared to the Scots 0-9 record. Playing such a hardluck team should make most teams happy, but Harper can't afford to be careless.

In their first meeting, Harper broke open a close first half (34-33) behind the hot shooting of Terry Rohan, who had 17 points in the surge, to win 88-59. However, Rohan isn't going to be in the starting lineup this second semester because of grades. Still, Hawk coach Roger Bechtold is fairly optimistic.

"The last time we played a zone," said Bechtold. "We're going to go to a man-to-man pressure from the beginning. We waited until halftime to go into it last time."

Bechtold added that he hoped his team would be "able to break the game open" early so that he could "see if some of the substitutes emerge."

One sub that has emerged recently is Gary Pemberton, a freshman who prepped at Conant High School. The 6-foot-1, 180-pound forward tossed in 14 points against Mayfair earlier in the week, all field goals. It was only his second start in the 20 games played thus far, but

Gary
Pemberton

Bechtold was very pleased with his showing.

"We went into a different offense," he said while explaining why Pemberton has fit in so well recently. "We're playing a 1-3-1. He's got a nice jump shot from the free throw line and he does have good hands. He's an unselfish ballplayer."

Pemberton, taking the feeds from his guards, spotted center Dave Schmitt (6-8) cutting across on the low post and was able to hit him numerous times for easy jumpers. Schmitt ended up scoring 22 points on 11 baskets.

"He's not an exceptional jumper and he's not very quick," continued Bechtold of Pemberton, "but he anticipates well and is a smart ballplayer. We're giving up some rebounding, but we're also getting a little more offensive punch in there with him."

Joining Schmitt and Pemberton in the starting lineup tomorrow night will be Scott Feige, Mike Miller and Steve Heldt.

FLASHING DOWN the ice in a recent Metropolitan High School Hockey League game is Dave Retzer of league-leading Rolling Meadows. Retzer and his Meadows teammates show a 6-2-2 record in the Northwest Division, three points on top of Palatine and St. Viator. Meadows will play Palatine this Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the Arlington Ice Spectrum, and the game will be broadcast on WWWW-FM.

Koch's 581 paces Juniors

Kevin Koch led Hoffman Lanes to a seven-point sweep over Beverly Lanes to move Hoffman into first place by two points in the Paddock Classic Junior Traveling League.

Koch rolled games of 108-202-181 for an impressive 581 series. Ted Gellersbach helped Hoffman's cause with a 528. Larry Peifer was high for Beverly with a 507 while Steve Ley also chipped in with a 501.

Rolling Meadows Bowl was again led by captain Dan Jordan, this time to a five-point victory over Striker Lanes. Jordan rolled games of 151-209-219 for a 579 series. Mike Marshall led Striker with a 485 series.

Spencer's Lanes took four points from Ten Pin Bowl, but still couldn't climb out of last place. Dennis Gordon led Spencer's with a 508 series which included a 223 game. Brad Zent was high for Ten Pin with 491 and a 200 game.

Prospect faces Conant, Grove in big weekend

veteran figured. "If we win three of five, there may be a tie and then we'd go to the criteria. We don't want anything less than two this weekend."

The season-long South Division pace-setters must face its two prime contenders Conant and (Elk Grove) in back-to-back Friday-Saturday collisions in what is a genuine acid test.

The Cougars will get the first shot at the once-beaten Knights on their home floor. "They've really improved since we saw them last (Prospect 54, Conant 41)," Slayton continued.

"They've really got stability now," he noticed. ("Roger) Sander is a horse on the boards, (Steve) Iron is a great competitor, always on the ball, (Tracy) Robertson has found a place and (Mike) Alkocallis and (Dick) Southworth are good shooters."

The Knights will attempt to rebound from their first league loss of the season at Hersey where Slayton credited the Hawks' defense with being the difference. "The way their (Hersey's) guards played... why, I don't think we hit that hard in football. They just destroyed our offense — with our help."

The home court advantage was negligible in terms of last year's contests as Prospect triumphed at Conant and vice-versa. "Of course, we'd like to play the game at our place," Slayton said. "It was tough to beat them the first time and it's going to be harder the second time around."

Slayton would just as soon forget about Elk Grove until Saturday morning and concentrate on the Cougars. "In a way, they're very similar," he said. "They both try to run and both have pressed at one time or another. Conant's got to have the edge in rebounding, but Elk Grove makes up for that in speed."

Slayton acknowledged the meeting between Elk Grove and Conant later in the month with, "That may eliminate one, but look at Forest View. They've been playing sound ball lately and can't be overlooked."

Despite the 11-point loss to Prospect in December, Conant coach Dick Redlinger says, "We're not planning anything different for Prospect. We played well in the first half of that game — we were down by one — and we had good shots all night but they weren't falling."

He feels the best way to defense 6-6 center Tom Bergen, Prospect's most dangerous threat, is simply with the Cougars' usual hard-to-puncture 2-3 zone defense and "by fronting him. He only got a couple of crimples off us last time."

Bergen still was high for the Knights against Conant with 18, while no Cougar scored very well against Prospect.

Conant is fresh off a 70-42 rout of Schaumburg Tuesday night after losing to Wheeling by seven last Friday. The Cougars have had balanced scoring most of the time from their three big frontliners.

Bill Parmentier should be a pre-occupied man.

With a couple of big games coming up this weekend — both on the road — one might expect the Elk Grove coach to be pretty concerned, or even worried.

Tonight his Grenadiers will move into the Falcon Lair just when Forest View is beginning to heat up and when the memory of their recent 51-47 setback on the Grove court is still fresh on their minds.

Then the Grens must come back tomorrow and clash with division leading Prospect in the Knight field house.

To top things off, one of Parmentier's mainstays is not only out of the starting lineup, but a very doubtful participant at all through Saturday night.

Is all this making Parmentier rather nervous?

Outwardly, at least it is not.

"Well, Friday's game is about the only thing I think about from the moment I get up until I fall asleep at night but I wouldn't say I'm worried about it," the Elk Grove mentor observed. "I'm just glad we've been given another opportunity to determine our own fate in the league this year."

"About two weeks ago I was pretty glum about our chances to do anything," he added.

What transpired over the past couple of weeks is that the two teams ahead of the Grove, Conant and Prospect, have absorbed some setbacks. With the Grenadiers winning during that span, the COACHES: Elk Grove, Bill Parmentier; Forest View, Ted Wissen.

South Division race has been opened back up again for them.

"The only thing that would make me happier right now would be to have Bill Butler healthy again," Parmentier went on. "Forest View will be coming at us like gangbusters and it sure would be nice to have him ready to help out."

Butler absorbed an ankle injury at the beginning of the Fremd game two weeks ago and has been sidelined every since. As of Tuesday Parmentier rated his chances of playing this weekend as very unlikely. "I know he won't start either night for us."

As for Forest View's recent resurgence, Parmentier is not surprised. "They're actually playing the way I expected them to all season. Before the first game was played I picked Forest View to take it all in the South and if it hadn't been for some unexpected setbacks over there, I'm sure they would have been right in the thick of it."

Forest View is playing much better ball than in December when it was shaded by Grove, but as Falcon coach Ted Wissen points out, "So is Elk Grove. Most teams do improve during a season."

In that first meeting, as Wissen remembers, "We outscored them from the field but didn't shoot free throws." His memory is good. The Falcons scored five more baskets but Elk Grove made 14 more free throws and took 18 more.

Bob Prince was the villain in that one with 18 points, the same number scored by Don Woodsmail (before his ankle was injured). Woodsmail is back playing regularly but doing more rebounding than scoring.

Tom Mueller has assumed the brunt of the scoring burden for Forest View. He exploded for 27 in a 69-51 victory over Glenbard North Tuesday night and before that had consecutive totals of 19, 15, 18 and 18.

Center Rick Haaning and forward Larry Monroe are other consistent scorers and Lou Leuzel has been a pleasant surprise in earning a starting guard assignment.

GLENBARD NORTH AT SCHAUMBURG

The Saxons will be trying to halt possibly a final bid by the Panthers to climb out of the South cellar and Glenbard's 10th try for conference victory No. 1. Although Schaumburg possesses two league wins and will have the home-court advantage, it can't be considered more than a modest favorite.

TIME: Preliminary at 6:30; varsity at approximately 8:00, Friday, Feb. 2.

COACHES: Terry True, Glenbard North; Joe Breault, Schaumburg.

Despite the Panthers' still-empty MSL victory bin, they have come up with several solid showings against teams rated well above them. And to add to Schaumburg's wariness, the Saxons have had trouble all season by pulling points on the board.

The problem continued Tuesday night when Schaumburg was treated inhospitably on the Conant floor, losing 70-42. Meanwhile, Glenbard was staying right with Forest View for three quarters before wilting, 69-51.

Schaumburg has been held under 40 points four times this season and is averaging less than 50 a game. Opponents have been averaging 68, so one or both of those standards will have to change if there is to be joy in Saxonville tonight.

No one has been a really prolific scorer for Schaumburg since Trent Tucker enjoyed a hot start. Ray Kralick, 6-3 center, has at least been consistent, usually in double figures.

Coach Joe Breault plans an interesting lineup change for tonight. He is importing a taller player than the Saxons have had all season — 6-foot-4 sophomore center Jim Schlimke, who has been on the junior-varsity team for two games and the soph squad before that. Breault thinks he's an up-and-coming prospect.

He'll also keep Kralick — formerly the only Saxon over six feet — in the lineup, switching him to forward. Tucker will open at the other forward and Art Abraham at a guard. The other back-court spot is open. It may be that just one senior will be starting for the young Saxons.

"It should be a close game again," said Breault, remembering the first meeting against Glenbard in December. Schaumburg clung to a one-point lead until one second remained and took a 60-57 triumph.

"They'll have a height advantage on us and they're playing good ball," said Breault of Glenbard. "They've come a long way even if they haven't been winning. Whoever makes less mistakes but is more aggressive should win."

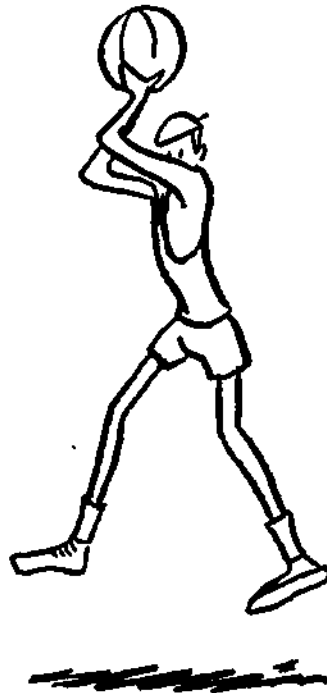

Terry True, Glenbard North coach, wishes his club would be more consistent. He did say it has shown flashes of good play. "If we could always play like we did for three quarters against Forest View, we'd win some games," True said.

He praised several individual Panthers. "Mike McHale (6-foot-2 forward) is playing like a 6-7 man on the boards but we aren't connecting for enough points. Mitch Paine (6-foot-6 junior center) is coming on, especially defensively. Marlon Brooks (6-foot-4 guard) is one guy who's consistent, probably our most valuable player game in and game out."

Palatine hockey report

Mike Division - Traveling Team

Palatine Mike's White Streamwood Blades.

The Palatine Mike's traveling team, behind historic performances by Darren Stork and Clark Lush, blasted the Streamwood Blades 10-1 on Saturday, at the Polar Dome in Dundee. The victory gave Palatine a record of 9 wins and 3 losses for the season and left them in sole possession of 3rd place in the league standings. In addition to the dual performances by Stork and Lush, Paul Carney had a pair of goals while single markers went to Matt Steinman and Mike Gellinger. Assists in the game were credited to Stork, Lush, Gellinger, Erik Jeffries, Carney, Bill Mourafitis and David Marsala. Don Miller and Dennis Myers shared goalkeeping duties for the Palatine squad.

The weekend will bring lots of activity for the Palatine Mike's. They'll play a total of three games. Palatine will start things off on Saturday when they play the 4th place Dundee Demons in a regular Polar Dome League game. Game time is 8:30 a.m. at the Polar Dome.

Action will shift to the Winnetka Ice Rink in Winnetka where Palatine will play an exhibition against the Winfield Miles at 12 noon. Winfield is one of the teams that Palatine will be facing in the Illinois State Hockey Tournament.

On Sunday the Palatine squad will journey to Rockton, Ill. to play an exhibition game against the Rock Valley Mike's. The game will be played at 8:15 p.m. at the Western Union Rink in Rockton. All interested parents are urged to attend any or all of the three games and support the Palatine Mike squad.

Mike Division - House League

Mike's Mike's - House League

M. W. Dunne & Co. Colonial Chevrolet

Leading the scoring for Donovan was Bill Macdonald with two goals, and Gouley with two goals and one assist. Tilles and Jody Horn each earned an assist. Santoro assisted by Gellinger had the one goal for Colonial Chevrolet.

Scoring one goal each for the winners were Ted Wilson, Topole, Tom Sullivan, and Steve Williams. Assisting were Topole, Williams, Erik Jeffries, Brian Frank and Darryl Tichter. The lone Nelson goal was scored by Tom Gordon.

Squire Division - Traveling Team

Rotary 3, Park Ridge 3

Despite the flu bug, which kept half the defense at home, the Rotary played their best game to date against a Park Ridge team. After a poor first period, goalies John Chope and Dave Nemeyer held Park Ridge scoreless in the last two periods. Scoring for the Rotary were Rick Paul, David Kodl, and defenseman Terry Blecker on assists by Eric Achterberg, Greg Trucke, Craig Jenkins, and Paul.

Rotary 2, Lake Forest 6

Achterberg and Paul scored in this game at the Spectrum on assists by Paul and Jenkins.

Rotary 1, Tri-City Royals 4

Mark Anderson scored the only goal for the Rotary on an assist by Kodl.

Pee Wee Division - Traveling Team

Palatine Jaycees 2, Winfield Wings 4

The Jaycees entertained the Winfield Wings and lost 4-2. Scoring for the Jaycees were Mike Mikulan assisted by Ed Price and Keith Jenkins and K. C. Gullett assisted by Mike Muratori.

Palatine Jaycees 2, Park Ridge "B" 2

Nest the Jaycees hosted Park Ridge "B" and lost 3-2. Scoring for the Jaycees were Mike Mikulan assisted by K.C. Gullett and Brett Anderson assisted by David Anderson and K.C. Gullett.

Pee Wee Division - House League

Woodfield Ford 5, Zimney Hardware 1

Dan Camplin led Woodfield Ford to its sixth win scoring two goals and two assists. Single goals were scored by Mike Johnson, Rusty Wills, Stewart Smith, and Mike Cullen. Steve Pedersen had an assist. Joe Condon was the winning goalie.

Palatine Jaycees and Lonn 2, Hob's Freeway

Jerry Oles led the scoring with two goals. John Jacobs had a single goal. Assists were earned by Joe Kohl, Frank Gouley, Jim Compline and Harry Quire.

Hastam Division - House League

Palatine Jaycees, 5, Tom's Union 2

Palatine Jaycees goals were scored by Carl Piazzi with two, and Kevin Mason and Jeff Rosenbuck with one. Assists went to Piazzi, Mason, and John Donohue. Tom's Union goals were both made by Todd Darling with assists by Paul Adams and Rob Cannon. Outstanding goal tending was performed by Robert Lapsley for the winners with 18 saves.

North Area Campus Life sponsors cage tourney

On Feb. 12 and 17, North Area Campus Life, in cooperation with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes of Chicago, is sponsoring its sixth annual basketball tournament.

The tournament will be held at Hersey High School in Arlington Heights and at Wheeling High School. It will begin with a luncheon at Hersey at 11:00 a.m. on Monday, Feb. 12, with special guest Maurice Daigneau, quarterback for Northwestern in '69, '70 and '71.

Immediately following will be the luncheon, attended by each of the estimated 24 teams and a number of local high school coaches. There will be a basketball demonstration by members of the Chicago Bulls.

The tournament teams will be made up of high school boys from most of the schools in the Northwest suburbs, the North Shore and Lake County. None of the participants are allowed to be on any winter interscholastic team at their school.

The double-elimination tournament will begin at approximately 1:00 p.m. Each game will be refereed by local college students, active in Fellowship of Christian Athletes. The winning team will receive, along with other awards, a free trip to a Chicago Bulls basketball game with their respective Campus Life director.

Campus Life and Fellowship of Christian Athletes are interdenominational organizations striving to demonstrate the reality of knowing God in a personal way and experiencing life with purpose and meaning through Christ.

Registration for teams begins at 10:00 Monday, Feb. 12 at Hersey High School. For more information concerning the Campus Life — Fellowship of Christian Athletes Basketball Tournament, contact Tom Essenburg, at 239-5144.

Prospect site again for visit by roller derby

Prospect High School will be the setting for another episode of roller derby, Monday, Feb. 12 at 7 p.m.

The Chicago Pioneers will challenge the Los Angeles Hawks in the fast-moving oval sport that made its area debut last year at Prospect before an enthusiastic gathering that was estimated at over 3,000.

The event is sponsored by the Mount Prospect Lions Club with proceeds going to the Blind Skiing Program established by Mount Prospect's former roller skating king and now ski buff Sammy Skobel.

The contest will match two contenders in their respective divisions, but will be classified as an interleague battle.

The Pioneers are led by Ronnie Robinson and distaff captain Joan Weston — both multi-year all-star participants.

Robinson, a 5-foot-10, 160-pound New Yorker is the son of boxing great Sugar Ray. He qualified as 1968's Most Valuable Player and has received the all-star nod for five consecutive seasons. The 15-year veteran gave local fans much to cheer about as he led the Pioneers past the Jollies last year.

Weston, a powerful Californian from Huntington Park is one of America's best known female athletes. She holds the all-time league record with 18 consecutive all-star appearances and is quick to shed the bruises of the rugged women's competition.

Tickets are on sale in Mt. Prospect at Keefer's Pharmacy, Louie's Barber Shop, Seno and Sons in Randhurst and Sammy Skobel's Hot Dogs Plus.

In Arlington Heights, the ticket outlet is George Harris' Pharmacy, in Des Plaines at Spiegel's Dept. Store and in Wheeling at Tom Todd Chevrolet.

All seats are $4 and will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis. There are no reserved seats. For further information, contact Sammy Skobel at 233-4292.

WESTON WALLOP. Joan Weston, prospect High School Monday, Feb. 12 long-time favorite of Chicago roller derby fans, will be on hand at Pros-

District 15 basketball tourney opens Saturday

The annual District 15 eighth grade basketball tournament begins Saturday and a number of the area's top junior high ball clubs are scheduled to participate.

All tournament games will be played at Carl Sandburg Junior High in Rolling Meadows.

Heading the list of entrants is public league champion Plum Grove. The Cougars posted an impressive 8-1 league record, losing only to the Carl Sandburg Wildcats 41-38.

St. Colette of Rolling Meadows has been impressive in Catholic League play. Starters Bob Rose, Jeff Schrock, and Jack Macholl have carried Colette to a 7-3 conference mark.

First round action pits St. Colette against cross-town rival Carl Sandburg at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. At 10:45 a.m. Palatine's St. Theresa plays Plum Grove.

The two Winston Park quintets, St. Thomas and Winston Park Junior High, clash at 1:30 p.m. and Sanborn of Palatine battles MacArthur of Prospect Heights at 3 p.m.

Semi-final action takes place on Tuesday, Feb. 6, and Thursday, Feb. 8, with one game each day. Finals will be held on Saturday, Feb. 10.

Admission to all games will be 50 cents for adults and 35 cents for students per doubleheader and 25 for students per single game.

Trophies will be awarded to the top three teams.

Final Dist. 15 standings:

Eighth Grade

At Fair Lanes

The Eau 'd' Odors fired high series of 2137 and a 750 game in the Thursday Eye Openers League. . . Top individuals were Esther Soukup with 561-198, Angie Pilcher with 534-220, Pam Snell with 512-195, Sharon Harrod 487-179, Willa Funk 472-171, Shirley Twigg 189, Lorie Forsyth 188; Claire Bokowski 173 and Dottie Bendis 172. . . Split conversions were made by Sharon Harrod (6-7 and 3-7), Esther Soukup (4-10) and Justine Klug (5-7).

Arlington Minor Hockey

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS MINOR HOCKEY TRAVELLING TEAM ACTION

JUVENILES
Over the past two weeks the Juveniles have maintained a winning record; beating St. Jude's of South Holland 4-3 in an NHL game, Schaumburg 1-0, Niles, 6-2, and losing to Evanston, 2-1, and to the Saints 6-0. Goal scorers for Arlington were Glander (4), Kemp (3), Schultz, Turkman, Cooper and Retzer. Assists went to Palmer (2), Piton, Glander, Cooper and Kemp.

MIDGETS
The Midgets lost a tough one to Northbrook 3-0. The shots on goal and territorial play were even, but Arlington continued its recent inability to get the puck past the opponent's goalie.

BANTAM
Arlington 1, Dundee 1
The score was not really indicative of the dominance of the Arlington skaters. The score was tied at the end of the second period. Captain Jerry Dudziak scoring for Arlington, assisted by Rick Palmer. Arlington put the game away in the third period with two goals by Tom McDonald and one by Jim McGuire. Assists went to Jeff Gardner, Brian Schumann and Palmer. Goals John Roth stopped 13 shots.

ELMHURST 2, Arlington 1
Arlington got the first goal in this NHL game, Dudziak firing from the point off a pass from Glander. The Elmhurst goalie made the save, but Dub Bette slipped in the rebound. From then on it was all Elmhurst, despite excellent work by goalie Roth, who made 20 saves.

Gophers Were On Target

It is hard to imagine a basketball team shooting 72 per cent from the floor in a game, but Minnesota did so against Iowa in a 1960 Big Ten contest for the all-time conference record. Second place on the list belongs to Ohio State with 68 per cent against Michigan State in 1970.

BEHIND VOLVO'S FRONT DISC BRAKES IS SOMETHING MOST CAR MAKERS LEAVE OUT: REAR DISC BRAKES.

This year there's been a lot of fanfare about front disc brakes. We don't know why it took so long. Our Volvo sedans have had four-wheel power-assisted disc brakes since 1966. Every car now has a divided braking system, so if one circuit fails, the other still functions. While most cars have two brakes in each circuit, our Volvo sedans have had three-wheel circuits for six years. So you get an extra brake in reserve. But braking is only one area where Volvo gives you more than you'd probably ask for. Come in, see our Volvos, and we'll run down the list together.

Palatine, Meadows host North battles

felt we played very, very poorly last time. We've changed a lot of things since then, even in terms of personnel."

If you want to term improvement as a change, the "Cats have done plenty of it since that first week in December, according to Ecker. "Specifically, our defense, rebounding and shooting. We've been getting an awful lot of outside scoring."

And then there's the Wheeling bench which Ecker calls "the thing which I feel makes us the best team in the league right now. I feel they (the rest of the league in general and Arlington specifically) have to prove us wrong."

The bench strength took its toll of Palatine on Tuesday as Ecker shuffled fresh talent in almost continuously to harass the Pirates. It had a lot to do with the 71-43 romp. The first Palatine meeting saw the "Cats win 65-60."

"This was the most aggressive ball game Wheeling has played since the days of (Jack) Bastable, (Don) Wright and (Carl) Fricke," he said. "I'm very very pleased with the performance of these kids. For the first time in a long time they completely dominated the ball game."

The first meeting saw the Pirates press very hard, but not this time. "We were ready for the press and it didn't make us bat an eyelash, really."

The "Cats know what is expected of them the rest of the MSL season as Ecker points out — "Win the rest of the games and hope to receive some help besides that."

HERSEY AT PALATINE

It hasn't appeared on a bumper sticker yet, but Hersey has organized a "Stop McCormick" campaign.

Unlike pollution, crime or corruption, Rick McCormick is a physical being yet just as harmful to the Huskies' health.

The 6-foot-0 Pirate guard spearheaded an 83-81 victory over Hersey earlier in the season with 25 points, four rebounds, nine assists and pressure dribbling that preserved the triumph as the final precious seconds ticked off the clock.

"If he isn't enough incentive for our kids to play good ball, I don't know what they need," Hersey coach Roger Steingraber admitted.

"I know they haven't been playing good ball lately, but we still have a score to settle with them," he added. "We can't be forced into their game plan again."

The Huskies are working on a string of three straight league triumphs toward what Steingraber hopes will be a springboard into the post-season regionals. It was Hersey which set the tempo against Prospect (43-33) and Rolling Meadows (63-37) its last two times out with defense obviously the predominant factor.

Forward Marty Friel helped take the scoring pressure off the shoulders of 6-foot-11 Dave Corzine and swingman John Kanelis with 17 points against Meadows.

"We've been searching for a more-balanced offensive attack," Steingraber said, "but our guards still leave something to be desired. They'd better be ready to do some running against Palatine."

Many picked Wheeling to defeat Palatine Tuesday, but not by the shocking score of 71-43. No one could have guessed the lopsidedness of the total after having seen the Wildcats just get by the Pirates the first time around, 65-60.

Pirate coach Ron Finfrock has to be concerned about his team's chances again tonight in the rematch with Hersey. The only ways that Palatine can avert losing 11th game in 18 starts is either to score better or play very good defense.

The latter has been lacking since the first meeting with Steingraber's boys. Following that win, Palatine lost eight straight before easily handling hapless Stevenson on Saturday.

The Palatine coach expressed his fears about playing the three top teams in the division in a row. The Wheeling outcome has to increase his anxiety going into tonight's home game with Hersey and next Tuesday's road game against division leading Arlington.

If Palatine, presently the worst defensive team (643 points) in the MSL, can begin being tougher in that category to go along with its good offensive attack, it could do plenty of damage in a spoiler's role.

TIME: Preliminary at 6:30 followed by varsity at approximately 8 p.m. Friday, Feb. 2.

PLACE: Rolling Meadows High School, 2901 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows.

COACHES: Fremd, Leon Kasuboske; Rolling Meadows, Ken Arneson.

off the ground, Fremd is beginning to wonder if they will ever develop into some kind of consistent winner this season.

The Vikings are to be entertained by Rolling Meadows tonight their 10th loop encounter of the season, and they are beginning to realize that time is slowly running out on them now.

"We have moments, quarters, even whole games when everything is fitting into place for us," shrugged Viking mentor Leon Kasuboske, "But it seems we just can't string enough of those good performances together to get a winning streak going for ourselves."

It all began for Fremd about the time they collided with the Mustangs the first time, and pinned a devastating 71-43 setback upon them for league victory number one of the season. The Vikings dropped their next two games, then won again, then dropped another couple, then won once more, and then lost again at Arlington last Tuesday.

"I think our press bothered Arlington, especially in the first half, but they used their height well to get a lot of us inside and we hurt ourselves at the free throw line. We didn't play a bad game but not the kind of exceptionally good game that it takes to beat a team like Arlington at their own place."

So now the Vikes meet with Meadows again to try to start something all over. "They'll be looking for some vengeance naturally, so we'll have to be on our toes. I'm kind of expecting to have to worry about (Len) Link tonight. I think he's been starting to come on for them and as a former Viking he'll have more reason than most for wanting to beat us."

The ledger shows that Link was the leading scorer on Fremd's frosh A squad three seasons ago. Then after teaming with the likes of Larry Coughlin and Bob Youman as a sophomore, he transferred to Meadows as a junior and has been waiting for opportunities to pester his old teammates since.

Schaumburg hockey facts

During this past week, their 17th week of Polar Dome league play, the Schaumburg Kings had a 4-0 record. Also during the Kings' first week of state tournament play, four games were played and all resulted in wins for Schaumburg. The scores, goals and assists were as follows:

MIAMI (ages 7 & 8)
Schaumburg 4, Hoffman Estates 0
Hoffman Estates was pressed in the game as the Kings outshot them 4-0. Michael Stevenson and Anthony DeVita each got a hot trick. Scoring two goals each for the Kings were Patrick Courtney, John Slavin, and Scott Dunne, with one goal each for Dave Grabarek, Jody Horn and Bob Melkerson. Credited with three assists in the game was Scott Dunne, two assists each for John Macchioni, Bob Melkerson and Michael Green. One assist each for Carl Davis, Michael Stevenson and Danny Braila.

Detroit Bulldogs 3, Schaumburg 0
Detroit Bulldogs 11, Schaumburg 0
McArthur Realty Miles enjoyed hosting their Detroit friends and meeting them for two rematch games in the first game goalie Michael Stevenson did a great job as the Bulldogs had no shots on goal. In this game also, King Jody Horn was injured and required six stitches. He will be back in action after a few days rest. The second Detroit game saw Joe Zeller doing a fine job in the net as the Bulldogs had 29 shots on goal.

SQUINTS (ages 9 & 10)
Schaumburg 3, Streamwood 0
Woodfield Auto Dealer Squirts played the Blades for the third time this season, and outshot them 31-9. The Blades were under King pressure constantly, as the game was played almost entirely in Streamwood zone. First period scorers were two goals by Dennis Heurich, both assisted by Kevin Kliner and Jon Melkerson. Tony Barcen scored one goal unassisted. Scott Ross scored assisted by Mike Rucinski. In the second period two King goals were scored by Mike Rucinski, one of them assisted by Scott Ross. Mike Rucinski scored his third goal in the third period and got another hot trick assisted by Scott Ross. Another third period goal was scored by Jerry Simbodik on a line shot from just inside the blue line. The entire King team is to be complimented on the fine game skated against Streamwood.

Regional State Tournament
The first game of state playoffs saw the Woodfield Auto Dealer Squirts skating one of their finest games, to win by one goal in sudden-death overtime. The Kings scored early in the first period, one by Scott Ross assisted by Scott Atkinson. The second King goal was scored by Jon Melkerson, unassisted. Peoria managed to get one by goalie Scott McArthur in the first period. The third King goal came in the second period, scored by Bill Dunne on assists from Steve Chalk and Tony Baracca. Early in the third period King Jerry Simbodik scored on assists from Kevin Ryan and Jon Melkerson. Action by both teams was tremendous in the overtime, but the Kings' constant pressure kept the puck in Peoria zone and the winning goal was scored by Jon Melkerson assisted by Mike Rucinski and Bill Dunne.

Detroit Bulldogs 4, Schaumburg 0
Detroit Bulldogs 6, Schaumburg 0
Woodfield Auto Dealer Squirts were hosts to Detroit. Though they were not able to score against this powerful team, the Kings forced the Bulldogs to earn each goal.

PEE WEE KINGS (ages 11 & 12)
Schaumburg 3, Streamwood 1
The Pee Wee Kings beat the Blades for the third time this season. The Kings kept the action in the Blade zone for most of the first period. Ten minutes into the first period, Glenn Fancutt scored the first goal. With one minute left in the first period, the Blades tied the game. King pressure was still on in the second period as Dave Duak took a hard slap shot that the goalie couldn't hold, and with Paul Baracca standing almost on top of the goalie pushed it in for the winning goal. Blade pressure increased in the third period and they got 14 shots in 12 seconds that goalie Victor Guzzardo pushed aside. Jeff Ross then scored an insurance goal. Shots on goal were Kings 20, Blades 9.

Schaumburg 4, Oak Lawn 2
Regional State Tournament
Skating another good game the Pee Wee Kings outshot Oak Lawn in the first of their State tournament games. 19-14. King Dave Duak scored two goals in the first period, one unassisted and the other assisted by Joe Mazzullo. In the second period Duak scored the winning goal, unassisted, and completed a hat trick. King pressure continued in third period and Joe Mazzullo scored again for the Kings, assisted by Mike Gaynor. Goalsie honors went to Jeff Ross.

Detroit Bulldogs 10, Schaumburg 0
Detroit Bulldogs 9, Schaumburg 3
Pee Wee Kings hosted Detroit for the week-end. The Kings were not able to score in the first game. In the second game King goals were scored by Lee Fromm, Dave Duak and Jeff Ross. Duak was credited with two assists, and one assist each went to Ron Krause and Glenn Fancutt.

HANTAM (ages 13 & 14)
Schaumburg 3, Streamwood 0
The Omega Kings won their 17th straight league game at the Polar Dome. The Kings played their typical defensive game to shut out Streamwood. The Omega Kings have scored 16 goals in 17 games while giving up 13. Their record in Polar Dome league play is now 17-0-0 for a total of 34 points.

REGIONAL STATE TOURNAMENT
Schaumburg 13, Illinois 0
The Omega Kings played their first game in state tournament competition against Illinois of South Holland, Ill. The game immediately turned into a rout with the Schaumburg team getting 61 shots on goals while allowing the opposition a mere three shots and no goals. The Kings moved to the second round of the tournament against a Springfield team at a time and date to be announced.

The Kings hosted an invitational tournament with the powerful Denby Hockey Association from Detroit over the weekend.
In the Banham division, the Omega Kings dropped two games by scores of 2-2 and 6-1 to the stronger Detroit group. The Omega Banthams scored first in both games but were eventually worn down by the constant pressure and checking of the Detroit team. In spite of the losses the Banham players and parents had an enjoyable weekend with their Detroit guests.

MIDGETS (ages 15 & 16)
Schaumburg 3, Streamwood 0
The King Midgets showed a fine close-checking game to defeat the Blades. Schaumburg scored two goals in the second period and then settled the issue with a strong three-goal third period. The Blades' goalie survived a 12-shot first period in a fine effort and the Kings outshot Streamwood 33-11. The shutout came on a fine effort by the Midget goalie Ed Wagerne. A fine display of teamwork and passing by Joe Vuglar, Mike Pollard and Barry Dickson resulted in a goal and an assist for each. Goals by Steve Chalk and Gary Dickson with assists to John Immen, Dan Calvert and Marty Bubley completed the King scoring. The King Midgets now are 6-2 in Polar Dome league play for a total of 14 points.

The Schaumburg Midgets were host to a fine Detroit (Wastik Hockey Club) team only to be defeated during the two game series. The first game was a 1-1 tie with the Schaumburg goal going to Dan Calvert on an assist from Larry Zalud. The Kings were outshot 24-8. On Sunday the teams played a second game with the Detroit team winning by a score of 2-1. The King scorers were Joe Vuglar assisted by Dan Calvert and Brian Donaldson assisted by Dan Calvert and Ray Cody. Detroit outshot Schaumburg 27-10.

In State tournament play the King Midget team drew a first round bye and will be playing their first game Friday.

JUVENILES (17 & 18)
Correction in Juvenile 12th week hockey action: It was reported that the Kings lost to Shield 8-0. This should read that they lost to Palatine by this score, not to Shield Barons.

Schaumburg 3, Hoffman Estates 2
Regional State Tournament
One of the finest games in the Juvenile Division hockey was played by the Campanelli Inc. Juvenile Kings, King Don Neumann got the only goal of the first period, assisted by Fred Folmer. Hoffman scored the only goal of the second period. With tenish minutes left in the third period, King Don Neumann again scored, assisted by Fred Folmer and Denny Pollard. With minutes left in the game, Hoffman managed to score and the game went into overtime. Eleven seconds into the overtime period Neumann scored the goal to win the game and complete a hat trick. This goal was assisted by Mike Pronovost and John Reboza. Defensemen Dave Love, Scott Carter, Mike Pronovost and John Reboza played an outstanding game. Center and wingers Dan Duh, Dave Thorson and Tim Tomjanovich also played well.

Goalie Brian Masini did a fine job as Hoffman outshot the Kings 25-19. The second Juvenile Regional game which will determine who goes to Pekin for the semi-finals will be played against the Niles All-Stars at Niles, Feb. 8 at 10:30 p.m.

Schaumburg 1, Shield Barons 0
Another outstanding game was played by the Campanelli Inc. Juveniles. The only goal was scored by Schaumburg's Dave Duak, who assisted, in the first period. Goalie Bob Perrine earned a shutout by turning back 26 shots on goal. The Kings had 14 shots on goal. Bill Allen, president of Polar Dome League, honored the King Juveniles by requesting permission to speak to the team in their locker room. Mr. Allen's words to the team were that he is very impressed with their progress.

Trojans Sunday in Arlington Heights. The Trojans won basketball games on all three levels of competition against the St. James Bulldogs.

SIXTH GRADE:
In the most exciting game of the season, the Trojans came from behind to edge St. James 34-33. Gullet paced the Trojan attack with four points. Gullet's bucket with 35 seconds remaining won it. The Trojans out-bounced St. James 26-19.

SEVENTH GRADE:
St. Theresa chalked up its 24th win of the year in a key conference clash with St. James of the South Division. Both teams entered the game with 4-1 records in conference play. But Theresa's defensive showing was too much for the Bulldogs and the Trojans went home with a 27-15 decision.

James came out in a full-court press, but a fine offensive ball control game by John Josten ruined the press. Josten performed well in his role as point man as Theresa moved to a second quarter lead of 17-4. But with two minutes remaining in the half, James scored five unanswered points and moved within eight points at half, 17-9. In the third quarter, the Bulldogs moved their center Harrison underneath the offensive bucket from his left wing spot in an attempt to penetrate the Trojan defense. But Center Dave McKinney held Harrison in two second half points and the Trojans were never headed.

Forward John Martin lead Theresa with eight points. Center McKinney put in seven more and forward Kevin Weaver added four points. Weaver was a real ball hawk; just one-handedly holding James fine guard Singer to just one basket.

EIGHTH GRADE ONE-ON-ONE TOURNAMENT:
The finals of the 3rd annual 8th grade one-on-one tournament will be held this Sunday, Feb. 4 at 1:15 p.m. at the Palatine High School gym before the start of the St. Colette vs. St. Theresa game. This is the first time in the Northwest Suburban area that such a tournament has been set up. John Martin advanced to the finals and will meet either Dave McKinney or Kevin Weaver or Chris Plazak. A trophy will be awarded to the tournament champion. The game is played for 10 minutes or 10 points — whichever comes first.

NINTH GRADE:
The St. Theresa varsity snapped a four-game losing streak Sunday against St. James of Arlington Heights. The Trojans put on an awesome offensive and defensive show at the James gymnasium and overcame the hosts 41-19. It was Theresa's third conference win of the year.

Center Jim Hamill paced the Trojan attack with 16 points. Hamill was a terror on the boards with 19 rebounds and three blocked shots. Guard Andy Peterson scored nine, John Saver added eight and Ned Bruns had six for St. Theresa.

Theresa used a full court zone press the entire game and had moved to a 21-9 lead at half. The press accounted for 23 James turnovers. For James, Herb was high point man with eight points. The Bulldogs had lost their ninth conference game of the year.

St. Theresa's varsity will compete in the South Division 15 eighth grade tournament beginning Saturday, Feb. 3. The tournament will be held at the Carl Sandburg Junior High School in Rolling Meadows.

ST. JOSEPH HIGH SCHOOL (WHEELING):
The sixth grade team put up a superb man-to-man defense which held Libertyville completely scoreless in the first half while the Chargers were putting 21 points on the board. The reserves allowed just two field goals as for the second straight week the Chargers did not allow their foe to shoot a free throw. The District 15 eighth grade tournament began Saturday, Feb. 3. The tournament will be held at the Carl Sandburg Junior High School in Rolling Meadows.

last week St. Mary opened with a 39-33 victory over St. Thomas Villanova. In the second round St. Mary met St. Raymond's (Mount Prospect). The score was 25-11 going into the fourth quarter. St. Mary outscored St. Raymond's 15-4 in the final quarter for a 47-36 victory. In a semifinal action St. Mary got in early foul trouble, coupled with excellent shooting by Santa Maria of Mundelein, causing a loss by 41-36 in the third place battle. St. Mary defeated the host team St. Francis with a very effective half-court press 42-31. Jim Hanson, Bill Lilly, Paul Wilcott, Fred Kruse, Steve Jarrett, Ken Poczekal, Tom O'Neil, Gary Baker and Bob Toporek led St. Mary, with Paul Wilcott being selected to the All-Tournament team.

St. Mary's eighth grade breezed to an easy 62-20 victory over St. Mary of Fremont. It was close at the half but St. Mary outscored its opponent 19-2 in the third quarter with Fred Kruse leading the way with 13 points. Ray Rusk and Bobby Mason contributed 10 each. Sunday, Feb. 4 will see crucial games at all grade levels when St. Mary plays Wheeling St. Joseph.

"THE ARTIST'S FATHER." Included in the Renoir exhibit are characteristic paintings dating from 1862 through 1919 that trace the artist's style development.

RENOIR PAINTED A portrait of his son, Jean, in 1898. Jean Renoir assisted in the preparation of this retrospective exhibit of the French Impressionist master.

Art Institute mounts major Renoir show

Paintings by Renoir, a retrospective exhibit of 88 canvases painted by the French Impressionist master, Pierre Auguste Renoir, will open tomorrow in the Morton Wing of The Art Institute of Chicago.

Organized by John Maxon, the Institute's vice president for collections and exhibitions, the "Paintings by Renoir" show will be hung through April 1.

The Art Institute's exhibition is the first major retrospect of Renoir's work to be mounted in the United States in several years.

Characteristic works from all phases of his career will trace the entire evolution of Renoir's painting style. This comprehensive survey of the master's paintings will attempt to demonstrate that there is more to be seen in both the most familiar and the least known pictures by Renoir, said Maxon.

MAXON WAS ASSISTED in the preparation of the exhibit by Jean Renoir, the artist's son; Francois Daulte, a French art historian and Renoir expert; and Charles Durand-Ruel, the grandson of Renoir's friend and dealer, Paul Durand-Ruel.

For the illustrated catalog that accompanies the exhibit, Jean Renoir wrote, "The Renoir exhibition of 1973 will be perhaps the last opportunity given us to explore the different aspects of my father's paintings. Indeed, the value of pictures having risen considerably, the cost of insurance for the shipment of works of art has become prohibitive.

"From now on, art will travel less and less, and in turn connoisseurs will have to travel more and more. This will mark the end of great retrospective exhibitions," he continued.

"When I try to define what seems to me the essential characteristic of Renoir's work, it is the idea of abundance which come forcibly to my mind.

"THIS EXHIBITION will pay homage to true richness, richness of forms, richness of colors, richness of thought."

To enable more visitors to view Renoir's works, the exhibition will be open on Tuesday evenings from 5 to 8:30 in addition to the regular museum hours: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Thursday, 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.; and Sundays and holidays, 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

"GIRL IN A BOAT" appears on the cover of the catalog accompanying the Renoir exhibition at the Art Institute of Chicago, opening Saturday and continuing through April 1.

PAINTED IN 1882, this painting by Pierre Auguste Renoir is titled "The Daughters of Durand-Ruel." About 90 canvases by the famed artist will be on display in the Morton Wing.

Des Plaines Footlighters

Ken Johnson puts troupe together again

by DOROTHY OLIVER

"Once you get make-up in your veins you never get it out," a director once told Ken L. Johnson. And in Ken's case he was right.

Ken, director of the Des Plaines Park District Footlighters, absorbed both the director's remark and a love for greasepaint on the opening night of "Tom Sawyer." Cast as Injun Joe, the jittery 6th grader embarked on his theater debut and has been on or around the stage ever since.

"Tom Sawyer" was followed by productions at Dempster Junior High and Elk Grove High School with Ken either appearing on stage or working behind the scenes. At 17, the Des Plaines resident nervously auditioned at the Des Plaines Theater Guild, landed a part and has been active with the Guild ever since.

HIS INVOLVEMENT with Footlighters, a youth theater group which is the only one of its kind in the Chicago suburbs, began three years ago when the group was on the decline.

"Our Miss Brooks" was in rehearsal when Ken volunteered his services as stage manager for the group. Attendance problems, disinterested parents and children forced the show — and the entire Footlighters program — to be dropped.

A year later the Des Plaines Park District, which sponsors the group, tried to revive Footlighters. The problems reoccurred, the resident director quit and Ken was asked to take over.

"I had the same problems with the kids and eventually decided to close the show," he said. "Instead of forgetting about Footlighters altogether, I began drama workshops and told the kids that when they were ready we'd put on a show."

THEIR FIRST production, "Rapunzel," was a flop. "The kids didn't think so and they wouldn't like to hear me say it but it was," laughed Ken. "Everything went wrong."

Lines were forgotten, Rapunzel's hair (an unbraided rope found opening night) got stuck midway between the prince's outstretched arms and the balcony and the radishes in the "garden" rolled around the stage with each actor's steps.

"The Red Shoes," Ken's second show as resident director, was "100 per cent better."

"I was more familiar with the kids, with the program and the facilities. Basically Footlighters was starting over again after collapsing. With every show I've found out more and more," he said.

AUDITIONS NOW attract upwards of 60 young people ranging in age from 6 to 17, and the numbers auditioning and attending performances are growing steadily. Ken is pleased at the group's growth and their keen interest in being involved in the theater.

"Most of the real little kids are here because their parents would like them to be interested in something, but all of them are here to have fun," he said. "There are no real drama programs that I know of anymore in the grade schools. While they come here and have a good time they are also learning, gaining self-confidence, poise, stage presence. It's not easy to perform before 200 people."

Yet even the smallest actor and actress, after two months under Ken's direction, are able to go on stage confident in their parts and their abilities. A good portion of the credit goes to the 22-year-old director who describes himself as both demanding and patient.

"WHEN DIRECTING children you must have a lot of patience and liking kids is next important. I get along with the kids . . . If there are problems we sit down and talk about it," Ken said.

During the 25 three-hour rehearsals that usually precede opening night the players work hard with little complaining. Parents must cooperate by driving their budding stars back and forth. During the last weeks before performances the cast rehearses four nights a week, Saturdays and Sundays.

"I get them off the script as soon as possible. I tell them, once you get that book out of your hands you can work with props, gestures," Ken said. "It's pretty demanding. I expect a lot from them, but they do it — they get those lines learned.

"A MONTH before the show the prompters won't even prompt them. The kids have to figure out how to get out of the situation if they forget a line — that's why they don't forget many. We don't use a prompter the night of the show."

"They also learn not to look at the audience," he continued. "I tell them there's a brick wall out there so they should concentrate on relating to the other characters on the stage and not look out. After all what if they do and someone sees their little brother waving in the first row."

Rehearsals are now in session for the Footlighters' March production of "The Miracle Worker," the hardest play Ken's ever attempted with his youthful actors.

"Comedy is my forte and heavy drama comes next. The kids can't handle really heavy drama, but I like to get into deeper plays," he said. "We were doing almost only fairy tales when I came here. I like to keep one light fable or fairy tale show a season, but they enjoy doing the others too."

FEMALE LEADS for the upcoming Footlighters' production, "The Miracle Worker" receive some professional instruction from their director, Ken L.

Johnson, Lisa Marquette, center, and Betsy Fortkins, chosen to play Helen Keller and her teacher Anne Sullivan, are two of the 60 young people who will work on stage and backstage for the March 16-18 show.

Collecting

with Grace Carolyn

The public was amazed but fascinated, that winter of 1901, when President Theodore Roosevelt held a Chinese wrestling match in the elegant East Room. The White House was a lively place during the two terms of T.R., his socially astute wife, his six children and a menagerie of pets, including dogs, cats, a black bear and a kangaroo. A calico pony named Algonquin was once taken upstairs to visit one of the children who was sick.

Cabinet members, ambassadors and foreign visitors were invited to join the family in their active sports, including fencing, medicine ball, hurdling or simply rough-housing. During Roosevelt's reign the White House got its much needed enlargement and two colonnaded one-story wings were stretched out east and west from the main building, much as they had originally been planned by Thomas Jefferson.

Daughter Alice was married in the mansion, and among her thousands of wedding gifts were a string of precious pearls, rare brocades, a barrel of popcorn and a box of snakes!

PRESIDENT TAFT followed Roosevelt, but it was a hard act to follow! To a friend, Taft confided, "When I hear someone say 'Mr. President,' I look around expecting to see Roosevelt." President Taft weighed 300 pounds, and a special bathtub which could easily have held four (friendly) people was installed for him.

Woodrow Wilson was an imaginative and lively man, who loved to entertain as a storyteller, and Mrs. Wilson brightened the upstairs Oval Room with her books, paintings and a piano. The Wilsons had a dining table placed at one end of the huge State Dining Room so that they could look out upon the beautiful grounds rather than stare at the stuffed and mounted animal heads T.R. had hung about the walls.

After the austerity of the first World War, Washington was ready for a change of pace, and the next tenants, the Warren Hardings, seemed to bring new life to the President's office. Although under the prohibition law recently passed, no wine could be served in the dining rooms, friends knew they could still find the best bourbon and scotch in the President's upper rooms.

President Harding died in office and was succeeded by Calvin Coolidge, a humble and rustic man who pleased the public with his simple ways. He was so taciturn that it became a game to get him to talk, and one lady told him at a dinner that she had made a wager she could persuade him to say more than two words. "You lose," he answered.

ONCE AGAIN during the Coolidge administration, the White House underwent extensive remodeling during the summer of 1927. Grace Coolidge was the first to think that the American people might like to contribute period pieces to the White House furnishings, and Congress passed a resolution authorizing the acceptance of "rare old pieces," a practice which is continued today.

President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover were greatly interested in history and brought the few remaining pieces of the Monroe period together in the upstairs Oval Room. Hoover took over the room (for his personal use) in which Lincoln wrote the Emancipation Proclamation. He was a Lincoln admirer and liked "being surrounded with his memories."

The only president to enjoy a four-term lease was Franklin D. Roosevelt, who took to his job with zest and fairly burst with social activities and the diversified doings of the New Deal. F.D.R. instituted his famous "fireside chats," simply phrased, conversational radio talks, written personally. Mrs. Roosevelt was probably the most active president's wife, giving weekly press conferences in the Monroe Room and writing a syndicated newspaper column entitled "My Day."

During World War II the first White House bomb shelter was installed, containing a small vault for important state papers. The Roosevelts hosted a string of worldly guests, including King George and Queen Elizabeth, Alexander Woolcott, Winston Churchill and Madame Chiang Kai-shek. In addition, wounded servicemen often came, on crutches or in wheel chairs, to be entertained by the family and the dog Fala.

NEARLY HALF of President Harry Truman's years were spent at nearby Blair House, while major structural changes were made and the controversial south Portico balcony was built. Truman had a practical knowledge of architecture, and today it seems to be agreed that the balcony breaks the disproportionately tall look of the columns in a pleasing manner. Mrs. Truman had pieces of china from almost every family placed in the remodeled first floor China Room.

By the time the Dwight D. Eisenhower were installed, the White House was described in the press as a "castle," but Mrs. Eisenhower hastened to explain that most of the 71 servants were engaged in maintenance, not in personal attendance, and that the 102 rooms mentioned in the papers included every closet and storage room. One concession to Ike's hobby was the addition of a putting green on the edge of the lawn in 1954.

"A New Frontier" was ushered in by one of the youngest presidential families, the John F. Kennedys. They brought a style and verve to the White House never before known, positively dazzling guests and the watching public with their activities. Like Thomas Jefferson, they employed a French chef but dispensed with much protocol.

Mrs. Kennedy continued to embellish the home with the art and furnishings from various periods and followed the lead of Mrs. Coolidge in searching for donations of fine original pieces. Eventually the Red Room was furnished in Empire style with Dolly Madison's sofa the focal point. The Green Room was done in the nation's earliest style, from Washington and Monroe days. A special committee was appointed to build up the art collection. Mrs. Kennedy proudly showed off the White House interior on a nationwide TV program in 1962.

THE FLAVOR OF Texas entered the White House with the Lyndon B. Johnsons: informality, easy hospitality and a personal touch. Little was done to the interior, but the White House grounds were energetically remodeled and "beautified."

The Nixon's reigns have been marked with more formality than in the two preceding administrations. The large U or E-shaped tables are used for state dinners rather than the small 10-guest round tables. Lively entertainment, however, in the persons of Duke Ellington and other great names in American jazz is continued, and Johnny Cash has presented an evening of gospel and country songs.

The White House is the property of all Americans and is now at its peak of historical interest for the furnishings are authentic and mostly original. Take the kids on a spring vacation, and don't be startled by the appearance of a benevolent looking, very tall and bearded gentleman you may meet in an upstairs corridor. It is said that some former tenants still like to walk the halls and greet a favored few visitors.

"GETTING OUT." BY EDGAR SMITH. Coward, McCann & Geoghegan. $7.95

Edgar Smith's 15 years on death row — more than any other man — and his skill as a jailhouse lawyer have been well publicized. But here he portrays in fascinating detail the exquisite torture of those countless nights and days of confinement and the hair-breadth events that led to his release.

In his 14th year in prison, a New Jersey judge ruled that he be granted a new trial and released on bail. Then, while waiting for the money to arrive, an hour away from freedom, the right to bail was revoked and he was ordered jailed until an appeal was decided. A newspaper photograph showed it all in his face — shock, disbelief, numbing despair.

Indignities had become commonplace for Smith. For his trips to court, he was given a prison suit that was used by all prisoners for similar visits, without benefit of cleaning. Pants hovering three inches over his shoes, jacket unbuttonable he faced a court that would decide whether he lived or died.

A "numbered animal," he called himself, and in his book he proves his case, as he plays Jean Valjean to a Javert-like prosecuting attorney.

When he won his freedom in a bizarre twist of legal hocus pocus, he spent his first night in one of New York City's finest hotels. He tossed about in the soft bed, unable to sleep. It was the dark room. For 15 years — a third of his life — he had been forced to sleep with the light on so a guard could check on him. Joan Hanner (UPI)

"THE SHADOW WAR." BY HENRI MICHEL. Harper & Row. $8.50

This French author's subtitle reveals the substance of the book — European Resistance 1939-1945. There are some intriguing stories here, along with an enlightening compilation of just what the resistance was — not so much country-by-country but organized as to the type of resistance outfit. This is the over-all picture, well done.

"BUFFALO BILL." THE NOBLEST WHITESKIN. BY JOHN BURKE. Putnam. $7.95

The author, as he makes clear, has nothing against William F. Cody, but he does separate the myth from the reality in the legend of Buffalo Bill. It makes good reading, this honest biography, and you'll still like Cody; you just will be able to tell him apart from Buffalo Bill.

"THE COMPLETE NEW YORKER." BY HOWARD HILLMAN. McKay. $3.95

This is a guide for people who think New York would be a good place to live, not to visit. It gives you tips on everything from apartment hunting to toots. There's a great deal of valuable information for the new or would-be New Yorker in guide-book style.

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

Claudia Lennear

Claudia Lennear could become a very big star over the next couple of years. Her first solo album, "Phew" (Warner Bros. BS-2634), is a good step in the right direction.

Claudia first made a name for herself as that strikingly beautiful, strong-voiced Ikette who could really wait on a song. After two years with Ike and Tina Turner, Claudia joined Joe Cocker's Mad Dogs and Englishmen tour and then became one of Leon Russell's Shelter People.

"Phew" is about singing. It's what she leaves in your throat after she's gone and done her stuff. Side one is basic rock and includes two self-penned songs. One of these is dedicated to Mick Jagger of the Rolling Stones. When Claudia toured with the Stones as an Ikette, she inspired Mick to write the hit "Brown Sugar."

"Not At All" returns the gesture. But it is on side two, that the beauty in Claudia's performance comes across. Raw vocal power is put aside as she steps before Allen Toussaint's New Orleans band to sing four fine Toussaint songs. The music is more rhythmic and blues on this "black" side; there is more soul and funk. "Everything I Do Gonna Be Funky" and "What'd I Do Wrong" are standouts.

YET IF CLAUDIA is in her first attempt at stardom, certainly stardom is a well-known state to Dionne Warwick. "Just Being Myself" (Warner Bros. BS-2634) is the latest in a long line of fine albums by this consistent, skillful performer.

The album is different though. The production and songs of Bacharach and David are gone, replaced by the talents of Holland-Dozier-Holland, the pioneering team of the Motown sound. Bacharach and David were apparently too busy working on their "Lost Horizon" film score.

There are a little more soul and some Diana Ross songs, but the overall feeling and sound come very close to Miss Warwick's earlier albums. "I Think You Need Love" and "You're Gonna Need Me" are the best of the eight songs — one of which may prove to be that long elusive next hit.

The Hollies are back with "Romany" (Epic KE-31062), but the sound is very much like the previous "Idistant Light." Gone is lead singer Allan Clarke (off on a solo career), but Michael Rickfors seems an adequate replacement. Their big hit, "Long Cool Woman," is replaced by "Magic Woman Touch," the best thing on the album. Its bright harmony and liquid guitars shimmer above the murk the group otherwise produces. ("Jesus Was a Crossmaker" and "Touch" do have good moments, however.)

The Beach Boys likewise seem to be in a rut, although theirs is much more pleasant to listen to. California remains the major topic in "Holland" (Brother/Reprise MS-2118), as it has so often in the past.

A TRILOGY. "California Saga," is one of the nice parts of the album, particularly the middle segment, "The Beaks of Eagles." Brian Wilson's two songs also spark some interest. "Sail On Sailor" sounds like a single and "Funky Pretty" — well, you've heard it before.

A questionable bonus is a 7-inch record with a B. Wilson fairy tale. It widely heard it will set back the whole genre at least 300 years.

"The Soul Sessions" (Cobblestone/CST-3028) is volume 6 in the series "Newport in New York '72." This recording from the relocated jazz festival features some fine work by Roberta Flack, Curtis Mayfield, Billy Eckstine, Herbie Mann, Les McCann and B. B. King. The recording is of a high quality too.

THREE MEMBERS OF the Luther Burbank Dingleberry Festival present a number from "Verbatim," a 90-minute "atonal music-dance unplay" that will be staged next weekend at the Guild Playhouse in Des Plaines.

'Verbatim' to be staged at Guild Playhouse

The Luther Burbank Dingleberry Festival in cooperation with Des Plaines Theatre Guild, is staging its music-dance unplay, "Verbatim," next weekend, Feb. 9 and 10, at the Guild Playhouse.

The production will feature the original cast who created and performed the work for three months at the Body Politic in Chicago.

"The theme of 'Verbatim' is obscenity with very heavy quotation marks because the show itself is rated G and contains nothing lewd or offensive," said its director Dr. Byron Schaffer. "Instead the word, obscenity is used in a more general sense to describe the ideas, literature and values that 'Verbatim' satirizes and lampoons."

THE LUTHER Burbank Dingleberry

Festival is a non-Equity professional company of 12 (seven of whom appear in "Verbatim") who have been working together for the past three years. Last year they toured college campuses with "Vegetable Night," a sensory piece which enjoyed 49 performances on campuses from Beloit College in Wisconsin to Wesleyan University in Connecticut. They were honored with a special invitation to perform at the 1971 National Convention of the American Theatre Association.

Dr. Schaffer is also editor of Players, the Magazine of American Theatre. Curtain time for both performances is 8:30 p.m. Tickets, 296-1211.

Harper, Lake to exchange art exhibits

Art faculty members of Harper College in Palatine and the College of Lake County will exchange art exhibits Sunday through Feb. 17.

While work created by Harper College instructors is shown at the College of Lake County in Waukegan, an exhibition of art work done by College of Lake County faculty will be open to the public at Harper College.

The display at Harper will include sculpture, drawings, watercolors, and prints. There is no admission charge to the exhibit, in the lower level of the Harper College Learning Resources Center.

Primarily a sculptor, Ed Kanwischer will show drawings and watercolors as well as examples of his sculpture. Kanwischer is head of the humanities department at College of Lake County. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Illinois and his master's from the University of Colorado.

Prints and drawings by Dan Ziembo will be included in the exhibit. Ziembo holds bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Illinois.

The Learning Resources Center is open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Fridays and 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

Guitarist plays at Harper; orchestra concert Tuesday

Harper College will be the scene of two concerts in the next week, one at 8 tonight by singer-guitarist Jim Croce in the College Center and the other by the Harper Community Orchestra Tuesday evening.

The orchestra performance in Room A-129 is a concert not originally scheduled for the season. It will feature three soloists and a number for strings composed by orchestra member Robert Erickson.

Tonight's concert artist, Jim Croce, began organizing bands while attending Villanova College in Pennsylvania. He has entertained in coffee houses and bars and has recorded, his latest album being "You Don't Mess Around With Jim."

After a time away from the entertainment field, he has returned to his music, both performing and composing.

TUESDAY NIGHT'S bonus concert by the Harper Community Orchestra begins at 8 o'clock. Dr. Robert Tillotson of the Harper music faculty will be guest conductor. There is no admission charge.

The program will include Bach's Brandenburg Concerto Grosso No. 5. Soloists are Dr. George Makas, the orchestra's regular director, on violin, Joanne Schlie-gel on piano and Louise Burge on flute. String members will perform "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" by Mozart and "Septet for Strings" by Robert Erickson, an Arlington Heights resident who works at Nuclear-Chicago in Des Plaines. Erickson has a music degree from Milliken University and both bachelor and master degrees in electrical engineering from the University of Illinois.

Night out

Gene Barry to open new Mill Run season

Though MILL RUN THEATRE is presently dark, the new spring season will get underway when actor GENE BARRY opens in the musical "FIDDLER ON THE ROOF" Feb. 27.

Other big name entertainers already scheduled to appear in the theater include JANE RUSSELL in "MAME," March 20 through April 1; ANN-MARGARET, April 24-25; TOTIE FIELDS, May 4-13; LENA HORNE and BILLY ECKSTINE, May 22-27; ELLA FITZGERALD and COUNT BASIE, June 5-10; CHEECH & CHONG, June 15-17; and LILY TOMLIN, June 19-24.

Gary Grande

The theater-in-the-round is located in the Golf Mill Shopping Center in Niles. Ticket information, 296-2170.

Actor GEORGE MAHARIS has the leading role in "HERE LIES JEREMY TROY" that opens next Tuesday at PHEASANT RUN PLAYHOUSE. The play is a comedy-farce and concerns a lawyer who is up for promotion when an old school chum arrives and threatens to expose some embarrassing secrets to the lawyer's boss.

The playwright, JACK SHAPKEY, is a resident of Elk Grove Village.

GARY GRANDE is currently the entertainment attraction in the BLUE MAX show lounge of the HYATT REGENCY O'HARE. The Gary Grande review also features vocalist BONNIE GRAHAM. The two will be in the Blue Max nightly through Feb. 10.

The curtain will rise on the world premiere of the musical "ELI" next Thursday at the Forum Theater in Summit. "ELI" is about a young composer of the same name, who wants to write serious, classical music. He finds it to be a difficult way of earning a living and compromises by going to work in a swinging singles bar.

Seated in the opening night audience will be the three Chicago authors of the new musical, JOE MANTEGNA, ALAN BARCUS and JOHN PAOLETTI. The three have spent most of the past 14 months arguing the fate of the composer-idealist who holds out for traditional values in an age of media. The title role will be played by JIM LANGRICK.

A special luau held recently at the CHICAGO MARRIOTT MOTOR HOTEL officially marked the beginning of construction of the hotel's new 583-seat KONA KAI POLYNESIAN RESTAURANT that is scheduled to open next August.

The Kona Kai will offer a wide selection of Polynesian foods including specialties from Tahiti, Hawaii, American Samoa and Hong Kong. In addition, Polynesian entertainment will be offered nightly.

A Paddock Review

'Cuckoo' a colossal work

by GENIE CAMPBELL

From the start it seizes you and this time it is the theatergoer who refuses to let go . . . simply because he doesn't want to.

The only disappointment in Arlington Park Theatre's rendition of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" is the final curtain call signifying that the evening is at a close. It's time to put on your coat and go home. And that is too bad.

The Dale Wasserman play that was adapted from Ken Kesey's novel sprouts wisdom with age. Its relevancy is even more keen today with the further progression of our mechanical dehumanizing society.

SET IN A WARD of a mental institution, the play lays bare the personalities of the patients and we are confronted with the question: just who are the loonies? Are they representative of the patients or those people who are given the power to manipulate them? Is it better to be bottled by society or have possession of your own spirit?

And that is the delight of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," the manner in which our minds are opened to question just what is "therapeutic beneficial" for another?

Is there a "burden of sanity" as Wasserman once implies?

Thus far I have only touched on the quality and significance of the play itself. Just as integral to the final analysis however, is a cast that could not be improved upon.

JAMES FARENTINO is Randall P. McMurphy, a man who pretends to be insane to escape the work load of the penal farm. Master of his own spirit, he demonstrates a lust for life and preaches freedom and the "guts" to be oneself . . . not a puppet pulled by "what should be and what is right." Most important he is not afraid to go out of his way to help someone else.

FARENTINO IS entertaining, captivating and contagious. He comes across as the simplest of heroes, deemed a menace to the mental institute only because his spirit cannot be crushed.

And though Farentino is decidedly the main attraction (his performance is far more rewarding than any segment of his present television series, "Cool Million," could ever be), his fellow patients also deserve a great deal of applause.

They are Mike Nussbaum, Alexander Courtney, Delos V. Smith Jr., Mel Haynes, Joe Greco and Norman Rice.

Also instrumental to the success of the play is Jo de Winter as Nurse Ratched whose brisk and emotionally controlled manner is stifling and unbelievable.

And neither can one neglect to commend the appropriate stark and sterile setting created by Sandro La Ferla for the theater-in-the-round.

"ONE FLEW OVER the Cuckoo's Nest" is the second colossal production to be staged at Arlington Park Theatre. The first was "Death of a Salesman."

And hopefully this time theatergoers will support this show rather than fear it. What a loss if they don't.

New version

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — MGM will film a new version of "Trader Horn," which was originally produced in 1930 starring Harry Carey, Edwin Booth and Duncan Renald.

Bacon grease and corn meal will make a tasty treat for your backyard bird visitors. In a bowl stir together cold bacon grease and corn meal. Pour it into several paper muffin cups nested together. Poke small holes near the top edge of the muffin cups.

Tie a short string in each hole. Tie all three ends together to form a handle. Hang from a tree branch. (Be sure there's a nearby branch where birds can perch to reach it.)

'Thousand Clowns' on stage tonight; Tryouts Monday for 'Red Hot Lovers'

The final two performances of Masque and Staff's mid-season offering, "A Thousand Clowns," will be staged tonight and tomorrow at Dempster Junior High School in Mount Prospect.

The school is located on Dempster, just west of Elmhurst Road. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. both nights.

The play, which starred Jason Robards in its Broadway and Hollywood presentations, concerns a former television writer who drops out of the "rat race" to live a rather unconventional life in a New York brownstone with his 12-year-old nephew, Nick.

Trouble brews when two social workers (one an attractive young woman) demand that Murray either change his life style or lose custody of the boy.

WHILE SATURDAY night's performance is almost sold out, there are plenty of tickets still available for tonight's show.

Auditions for Masque and Staff's dinner-play, "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," to be staged this spring, will be held Monday, 9 p.m., in the basement of the Elk Grove Public Library, 101 Kennedy Blvd.

The play calls for one man in his mid-40s and three women, one who looks as though she is in her late 20s, one in her late 30s and one appearing over 40.

The dinner will be held at Mr. Duke's Restaurant in Wood Dale and the comedy will immediately follow performed on a platform stage.

Directing "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" will be Shirley Johnson. Further information is available from her, 437-0679.

No late shows

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — There are no late or late-late shows to entertain sleepless Danes on the local television. The one-channel, non-commercial station closes down on most nights between 10:30 and 11 p.m.

The radio, state-run like the television, is allowed to keep one channel open until 2:30 a.m. Listeners searching for more music can turn to the all-night Swedish programs.

'Applause'

LONDON (UPI) — "Applause," the hit Broadway musical, will be filmed as a two-hour television special by Universal Pictures. It will star Lauren Bacall, who headed the cast in New York and now is appearing in the London version.

'Citizen Kane' slated at Guild Playhouse

Des Plaines Theatre Guild will present the second in its series of film festivals Saturday, with the showing of "Citizen Kane."

Considered by many the best motion picture ever made, "Citizen Kane" was written and produced by Orson Welles in 1941. Welles appears in the movie in the lead role of Charles Foster Kane, a newspaper tycoon whose life parallels that of William Randolph Hearst.

All Theatre Guild members, subscribers and guests are invited to see this film classic at 8 p.m. Donation is $1.

Who Can Guarantee A Success?

We can. If you're planning an occasion for sixty people or six hundred our staff can make it a brilliant success. That's because we believe the true test of a successful affair is not how many people received dinner, but how dinner was received by each and every guest. When we arrange your party every person receives impeccable service and individual attention. You would think this unique, singular participation on our part would cost more. Especially at the famous Sheraton O'Hare — not so. Our catering and complete banquet facilities are priced to accommodate any budget. And that's why our success story should be yours, too.

Champion dances to a new tune

by DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Being a New York-born, Broadway-weaned boy, I grew up with the conviction that the Broadway stage was, without a doubt, the highest of the performing arts. If it wasn't on Broadway, it wasn't anywhere.

I used to think that the movies were a nice way to kill an evening, but it was as close to art as pizza to perfume. And television? Not in the same breath, please.

Gradually, slowly, reluctantly, I've come to the conclusion that Broadway, like the brown pelican and the gray whale, is endangered. Extinction seems to get closer every season.

By a roundabout way, this brings us to Gower Champion, who just about drove the last nail in Broadway's coffin, as far as my feelings are concerned. If Broadway used to be great, it was the Broadway musical which was the greatest. And Champion, who helped make it that way, says the Broadway musical is as dead as last Thanksgiving's turkey.

"THE OLD BROADWAY musical is absolutely dead," says Gower, one of the finest directors Broadway ever had. "I am completely disenchanted with the stage, with the Broadway scene, the whole bit."

"Let's face it. There are just so many ways you can sing 'I Love You' in B-flat. It has all gotten so silly. I thought for a while — with 'Hair' and 'Jesus Christ Superstar' — that the new rock form of the musical would breathe some new fire into the musical but it looks like that won't do it, either. There have been too many disasters lately with rock musicals."

So Champion, like so many other

GOWER CHAMPION

Broadway refugees, is turning his attentions to movies and television. He's just back from Sicily, where he scouted locations for his first big film, the movie version of the old off-Broadway musical hit, "The Fantasticks."

He'll shoot it next spring. He thinks it will be a good one, providing he can lick the casting problem, which he says is "murder." He wants to find two newcomers, young and talented, for the leads.

"I'VE BEEN LOOKING here and in New York," he says, "and I've found some promising kids, but nothing is definite yet. And then I have to get one more actor for an important part — a man about 40. That's even harder, to find someone that age who can sing and dance, has an implied threat to him and yet has dash. I may have to go for a star in that part."

After that's in the can, he hopes to do some television. He likes TV although as an ex-dancer, he recognizes the fact that TV is bad for the dance.

"To see dancers properly," Champion says, "You must see their whole bodies. To get an entire body on a TV screen means that the figure becomes terribly small. So to do dance on TV you ultimately have to sacrifice something — either the opportunity of seeing the dancers' whole bodies, or else the opportunity to see real dancing. You can't have both."

THIS IS A TRAUMATIC time for Champion. Besides realizing that the Broadway stage, which he once dearly loved, no longer means anything to him, he also suffered a divorce in his family — his own.

He and Marge, partners on the dance floor as well as in life for so long, separated and the divorce is in the works. This has him at loose ends. He isn't even sure these days, where he wants to live or exactly what he wants to do.

He does know, at least at the moment, that he won't dance again professionally. He loves the contemporary dance experience, and does it well, but he has no yen at all to dance for a living.

Birth notes

Four sisters greet tiny brother

Although he only weighed 4 pounds 1½ ounces at birth, Patrick Henry Voyce Jr. is a welcome baby brother for four girls in the Patrick H. Voyce family of Wheeling. Young Pat has plenty of eager built-in babysitters!

His sisters are Elaine, 14; Cathy, 12; Barbara, 10; and Tricia, 8.

The newcomer arrived Jan. 19 in Holy Family Hospital and is now at home at 610 Merle Lane. His grandparents include Mrs. Catherine Maygers of Forest Hill, Md., and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Welch of Ellicott City, Md.

HOLY FAMILY

Franklin Mario DeBlasio makes a trio of sons for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Anthony DeBlasio of 2403 Kingfisher Lane, Rolling Meadows. The Jan. 23 arrival weighed 7 pounds 11 ounces. Joey, 4, and Nicky, 2, are his brothers, and grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Franklin James, Florence, Colo., and the Joseph DeBlasios of Coak Creek, Colo.

Kelly Lee Walker's birth was recorded Jan. 12, her weight at 9 pounds 12 ounces. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee Walker, 880 Old Willow Road, Wheeling, are her parents. Grandparents are the Joachim Gruters and the Robert Walkers, all of Des Plaines.

ALEXIAN BROTHERS

Michelle Lynn Goodman is the name of the third child in the Jack Goodman family, who lives at 1209 Fairlane Court, Schaumburg. Now at home with Shawn, 4, and Allison, 2, the baby was a Jan. 21 arrival. Her weight was listed at 8 pounds 9 ounces. The Stanley Wolfs of Chicago and the John Goodmans of Schaumburg are Michelle's grandparents.

Peter Klaus William Voss weighed 8 pounds at birth Jan. 26. He is the first son but second child in the Klaus W. Voss family, 1144 Ventura Drive, Palatine. His sister is 17-year-old Sonja. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernst H. Voss of Brodbeck, Germany, and Mr. and Mrs. Johannes Eichberger of Linz, Austria.

LUTHERAN GENERAL

Rebecca Lynn Roche arrived Jan. 11 weighing 6 pounds 3 ounces. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul P. Roche of Kenneth Drive, Des Plaines, and a sister to Paul, Jr., 4. The children's grandparents are Mrs. Evelyn Bogardus of Carmel, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Roche of Chicago; and Jack Bogardus of Chicago.

Brandi Denise Holmberg is the 5 pound 13½ ounce newcomer in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Holmberg, 2375 S. Magnolia, Des Plaines. The Holmbergs also have a son, Jonathan, 3. Brandi arrived Jan. 14. Mr. and Mrs. Carter Holmberg of Niles, Opal Maschka of Rosemont and Dorothy Holmberg of Tucson, Ariz., are the grandparents.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY

Dalana Lee Zelonish adds another daughter for Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Zelonish of 105 Treaty Lane, Hoffman Estates. Born Jan. 27 at 8 pounds 11½ ounces, she is a sister to Lisa Renee, 5, and Erica Lynn, 3. The little girls' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Zets and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Zelonish, all reside in Youngstown, Ohio.

JOANN Mae Blase is the newcomer at 4726 Arbor Drive, Rolling Meadows. She was born to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth J. Blase of that address on Jan. 27, weighing 9½ pounds. Joann has a sister, Michelle, 18 months old. The Jack Blases of Rolling Meadows and the Edward Winklers of Mount Prospect are their grandparents.

Robert Richard Renaud, fifth child of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Renaud, was born Jan. 28 and is now at home at 812 Burning Bush Lane, Mount Prospect. His brothers are Michael, 15, and Ronald, 7; sisters are Maryann, 14, and Carolyn, 11. Robert's birthweight was 7 pounds 7 ounces. His grandparents are the Peter Vaccarellas of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Alphonse Renaud of Frenchville, Pa.

Shannon Renee Yeaton, first-born for Mr. and Mrs. Mark E. Yeaton, 620 Trace Drive, Buffalo Grove, was a Jan. 28 baby. She weighed 9 pounds 13 ounces.

The Harry Sheehans of Palatine and Mrs. Charlotte Lewis of East Syracuse, N. Y., are Shannon's grandparents.

OTHER HOSPITALS

He hopes Tiffany lamp interest keeps growing

by LANCE J. HERDEGEN

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Tiffany-style stained glass lamps and light fixtures have long been sought by collectors and prized as one of the few art forms purely American in origin.

The result has been a boom of interest in replicas of the fancy Tiffany-style fixtures. That suits Dan Zarwell, operator, owner and moving force of a glass company just fine.

Zarwell says that as far as he can determine his firm, Wauwatosa Glass, is one of only two that makes the ornate and colorful lights using the same techniques developed around the turn of the century by Louis Comfort Tiffany, son of the founder of the famed New York jewelry firm.

Sitting on a cluttered work bench in his store, Zarwell pulled out a book on Tiffany light fixtures and pointed out a table model reading lamp described as having a shade 27 inches in diameter.

"THIS LAMP sold from $145 at that time," he said. "I could reproduce the same lamp today for about $1,000. The original would probably bring as much as $10,000 from collectors."

Zarwell said the difference between Tiffany lamps and most others of the era was the way the multi-colored pieces of stained glass were joined.

In the more common types, the glass is joined with an H-shaped strip of lead and soldered to form joints around each piece. In the Tiffany process, the edges of the glass are wrapped with a glue-coated copper tape and individually soldered together in a mosaic pattern.

In the Tiffany lamps, the joints are heavier and bulkier. Tiffany lights are known for their delicate appearance because of the finer joints.

"Tiffany also painted his lead joints with a solution to change the color and then would shellac them," Zarwell explained.

ZARWELL'S LAMPS range in size and cost from about $175 for the smaller reading lights of simple design to more than $1,000 for the more ornate pieces.

Zarwell, 34, sort of backed into the stained-glass lamp business. He bought Wauwatosa Glass about nine years ago when it was primarily involved in installing plate glass windows or glass block windows, as well as the usual window repairing.

In 1966, business wasn't exactly booming and Zarwell met an elderly craftsman by the name of Al Hamel, who had learned the Tiffany process. Together, they began turning out the antique-style lamps.

Now the company employs seven persons, including Zarwell, who admits he does a little bit of everything from cutting the glass to putting it together as well as acting as salesman and working up the catalogs.

About 40 per cent of the firm's time is spent in making the lights, with 40 per cent for installing plate glass windows and the rest making repairs.

Zing went the strings of their hearts

Maureen McDonald

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McDonald of Arlington Heights announce the engagement of their daughter Maureen Barbara to Arthur Knaple of Glenview. Arthur's parents are Kenneth Knaple of Glenview and Mrs. Dorothy Knaple of Des Plaines. A '69 graduate of Arlington High School, Maureen is working as a dental assistant in Palatine. Her fiancé studied at the Loop Junior College and after four years in Germany with the U. S. Air Force is now working for American Financing.

The wedding is set for April 28.

Lynne Gasser

The engagement of Lynne Marie Gasser to Kenneth George Mohr, son of the George J. Mohrs of Arlington Heights, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Gasser of Long Grove. The couple have not set their wedding date. Lynne graduated from Hersey High School last year and is a student at Harper College while working for Briteomatic Mfg., Inc., Arlington Heights. Ken works for Paddock Publications in Arlington Heights. He is a '72 graduate of Harper College.

Nancy Haas

Nancy Therese Haas of Park Ridge and Ronald S. Halamar of Des Plaines are engaged but have not yet set their wedding date. The announcement was made recently by Nancy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Haas.

The bride-to-be graduated from Regina Dominican High School, Wilmette, and in '71 from Northwestern College, Winfield, Kan., where she majored in speech and drama. She is now traffic director at WJJD Radio, Chicago.

Her fiancé, son of Mrs. Helen Halamar, works for United Motor Coach Co., Des Plaines.

Deann Pettavino

Announcement was made in December of the engagement of Deann M. Pettavino to Charles A. Nelson. The announcement came from Deann's mother, Mrs. Marcella Y. Salvage, Des Plaines. Charles is the son of the Charles E. Nelsons of Mount Prospect.

A '71 graduate of Elk Grove High School, Deann, also the daughter of Sam N. Pettavino of Moline, Ill., is employed by the Selective Service System, Chicago. Charles, a '71 graduate of Forest View High School, is employed by the Carp Construction Co. as a cement mason. No date has been set for the wedding.

Marva Harter

Waukegan, Wis. residents Mr. and Mrs. Harlan J. Harter are announcing the engagement of their daughter Marva to Bruce Meckling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Meckling, 435 S. Beverly Lane, Arlington Heights. No wedding date has been set.

Marva is a junior at the University of Wisconsin at LaCrosse. Bruce, who also studied at the University of Wisconsin at LaCrosse, is now in the Army.

Roslyn Dahlstrom

July 14 is the date set by Roslyn Dahlstrom and Jon Engebretson for their wedding. Roslyn is the daughter of the Russell Dahlstroms of Mount Prospect, and Jon's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Milton Engebretson of Chicago.

Roslyn, a '69 graduate of Prospect High School, will graduate from North Park College in May, earning a degree in medical technology. Her fiancé, a '72 graduate of North Park College, works for Harris Trust & Savings, Chicago.

Bride married in same church as her parents

For her Jan. 6 wedding to James Civiletti, Sharon Conrad chose St. Aloysius Church in Cincinnati, Ohio, where her parents were married 22 years ago. All of Sharon's relatives reside in Cincinnati, and there were 250 guests at the reception in Lakeridge Hall of that city.

Sharon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Conrad, Palatine, is a '69 graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School. She met her bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Civiletti, Rochester, N. Y., at Thomas More College in Covington, Ky. Both are still studying at Thomas More where James is a senior majoring in business administration.

The newlyweds reside in Latonia, Ky. and will be honeymooning in Florida during spring vacation.

A red and green Christmas setting was used for the 8:30 p.m. service for which Sharon chose a princess gown of white velvet with long sleeves and jewel neckline. The gown was highlighted with wide lace trim on the front seams of the gown, and her train was trimmed with the same lace. Her long veil was held in place with a band of the lace, pearls and velvet ribbon, and she carried red roses and white mums with white velvet streamers.

SHARON'S GOWN and veil were made by her 17-year-old sister Sally, one of the bridesmaids. Sally also made her own gown as did the other maids. Sandy Conrad was her sister's maid of honor, and her sister, Sue, and the groom's sisters, Kathy and Jean, were bridesmaids. Seven-year-old Charlotte, also a sister of the bride, was flower girl, walking with her 10-year-old brother Dan.

The Empire gowns with puffed sleeves were of velvet with round collars on the scooped necklines. Sandy and Charlotte were in cranberry red and the others in dark green. All carried red carnations and white mums with velvet streamers.

Steve Fox, Rochester, was best man, and ushers were the groom's brother Robert, Rochester; John Gyevat, Dayton, Ohio; John Huelsman, Cincinnati; and Joseph VonBokern, Louisville. The bride's brothers, Dennis and Tim, were altar boys.

Next On The Agenda

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

Members of Northwest Suburban Alumnae Club of Alpha Gamma Delta have made a resolution to be crafty and creative this year. To immediately serve that goal, their meeting Tuesday evening will feature a craft demonstration from "Hang It All" in Long Grove.

The alums will be given a chance to let their imaginations soar as they discover ways to create decorative touches for the home, using ideas ranging from shadow boxes in the rough to dried materials that can be arranged into effective accessories.

The 7:45 p.m. meeting will be hosted by Mrs. Philip Ehlers, 334 S. Bothwell, Palatine. Co-hostesses are Mrs. James Enright, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Thomas Podjasek, Hanover Park.

Call Alpha Gamma wishing further details can call Mrs. Thomas Fluke at 394-3823.

MIAMI CONFEDERACY

Miami Confederacy Quarters will be meeting next Wednesday evening at 8 at Nelsons' Bo-Kay Shoppe in Palatine for a program by the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kopecny.

"Flower Arranging with Antiques" is the title of their demonstration. Club hostess that evening will be Jan Larson of Palatine.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS WOMEN

"New Concepts of Wigs and Styling" is the program for next Wednesday's meeting of Prospect Heights Women's Club. After luncheon Mrs. Diane Markgraf of Maxin's Wigs in Mount Prospect will present a demonstration.

Mrs. Markgraf is an expert on wigs and wig composition from factory to shop. She has years of experience in wig styling, speaking and demonstrating at various wig shows in the Chicago area.

Wednesday's luncheon and program for the Prospect Heights club takes place at Old Orchard Country Club, beginning at 11 a.m. Reservations should be made by Monday, 6 p.m., with Mrs. Donald Colby, LE-7-0638. Guests are invited.

ARLINGTON WOMAN'S CLUB

A preview of what's to happen in politics this year is on the agenda for next Wednesday's meeting of Arlington Heights Woman's Club. John Dreiske, who retired last year as political editor of the Chicago Sun Times, will speak on "Behind the Politics of 1973."

The club meeting takes place at Southminster Presbyterian Church at 1:15 p.m.

Mr. Dreiske has been covering state and national politics for 38 years and was the Sun Times political editor for the past 30. Neutrality has always been his creed, his first duty being to inform the reader without taking the side of one political party against the other. He covered the presidential campaigns of Land-on, Roosevelt, Truman and Stevenson and has fascinating experiences to tell of all of them.

Since retiring last year from the Sun Times he is a political commentator for WSN Channel 44.

OUR SAVIOUR'S WIVES

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Our Saviour's United Methodist Church, Hoffman Estates, meets next Wednesday evening at 8 at the church, 611 E. Golf Road (three blocks west of Woodfield Shopping Center).

The Rev. Ruth Wegner of Palatine United Methodist Church will speak on "Doorway to a New Age: A Study of Paul's Letter to the Romans" by James D. Smart.

Groeters for the evening will be Mrs. Edwin Frank and Mrs. Billy Evans. Hostesses are Mrs. John Lucas, Mrs. Gerald McCullough and Mrs. Ken Worley.

ARLINGTON JAYCEE WIVES

"Anti Abortion" was the topic discussed at Thursday evening's meeting of the Arlington Jaycee Wives. A speaker from the Illinois Right to Life committee headed the program.

Mrs. Allan Wilson was hostess; Mrs. Jack Ehlert and Mrs. David McLean were co-hostesses.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Some years ago you suggested that the sides of sheets that were worn in the middle would make good pillowcases and I thought it was carrying the pack-rat idea too far. I felt that one always needs extra rags for cleaning tasks. But last week, about to tear a worn sheet, I became aware that the sides were much too stiff to make cleaning cloths. So I went ahead and made perfect pillowcases and I now write to apologize. — Anne Monroe

No apology really necessary, but I suppose it ought to be accepted in the name of all of us true-believing pack rats.

Dear Dorothy: I love suede shoes, but am not always sure what to do about taking proper care of them. Anyway, what do you do about a grease spot on such a shoe, which is the real reason I'm writing? — Sandra V.

There are several good cleaners for suede shoes. They all do a good job, providing you use the right brush and do not injure the nap by brushing too heavily. If the cleaner you're using hasn't budged the grease spot, make a paste with fuller's earth and your best cleaning solvent, apply and leave on overnight. Next day brush it off and give the shoe its regular treatment. The stain should be gone.

Dear Dorothy: Our silver pitcher accidentally fell into a dishpan which contained a chlorine bleach solution. How do I get the stain off? — Deloris W.

You can't do it on your own. Only a silversmith can buff it off.

Dear Dorothy: I always save one metal scouring pad to use for scrubbing baked potatoes or nice, fresh-looking carrots. — Mabel H.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

printed to avoid errors. We also request that a phone number accompany the signature at the bottom of the announcement.

A glossy picture is preferable although a dull finish is acceptable. Color photos are used at the discretion of the editors depending on contrast and depth of color.

There is no charge for engagement pictures and announcements. Usually they will be printed within a week after reaching our office.

Here's How To Announce Engagement In The Herald

Paddock Suburban Living department is often called by those seeking information on submitting announcements for publication. We print the following for the reader's information and help.

The announcement of an engagement is always made by the parents of the engaged girl, who may either fill out an engagement form at our office or submit their own information along with a wallet sized picture of the bride-to-be.

If a wallet sized photograph is not available, a larger one can be used.

Bring or mail picture and copy to the Herald office in Arlington Heights or Parents not using one of our forms may either write or type the information. If the announcement is submitted in hand-writing we ask that all names be ... beginner, novice or expert, here's a complete weekend of skiing for two people for $89.

You'll rent a sparkling new Plymouth, or other fine car from noon Friday to noon Monday. Drive to beautiful Majestic Hills, a really great ski area, where you'll get two fun days of unlimited skiing, and instructions.

Don't bother about equipment. You'll be outfitted with boots, skis, and poles.

Two nights at the modern Holiday Inn at Beloit, and three meals are also included.

All this for two people for just $89. And you get unlimited free mileage. You only pay for the gas you use.

Make reservations a week ahead.

For reservations and information, call (312) 782-0180.

Now if you stay home, you're not trying as hard as Avis.

Avis is going to be No. 1

We try harder.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Herald Newspaper does not knowingly accept HELP WANTED ads that indicate a preference based on age from employers covered by the AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT. HELP WANTED headings directed specifically toward either men or women are used merely for the convenience of our readers, to let them know which jobs have historically been more attractive to persons of one sex than the other. The placement of an ad under a heading is not in itself an expression of a preference, limitation, specification or discrimination based on sex. For further information contact the Wage and Hour Division Office of U.S. Department of Labor at 4032 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago, Illinois. Telephone (312) 736-2909.

Advertisement For Bids

REHABILITATION OF ORIGINAL MUNICIPAL WELL NO. 1, VILLAGE OF BUFFALO GROVE, ILLINOIS

Sealed bids will be received by the Village of Buffalo Grove, Illinois, at the office of the Director of Public Works, 1000 E. Main Street, Buffalo Grove, Illinois 60089, until 2:00 P.M. on February 14, 1973, at which time public opening and reading of bids will be held. The work to be done includes: removal of existing pump and motor, installation of new pump and motor, and all necessary electrical and mechanical work. Pump and motor will be furnished by the Village of Buffalo Grove. The Village of Buffalo Grove is a public body under the laws of the State of Illinois.

The Contract Documents, including specifications and drawings, are on file and may be examined at the office of the Director of Public Works, 1000 E. Main Street, Buffalo Grove, Illinois, and at the office of The Hattis Associates, Inc., Architects-Engineers, P.O. Box 41, 100 Wilmet Road, Deerfield, Illinois 60015.

Copies of Contract Documents may be obtained from The Hattis Associates, Inc., by depositing check in the amount of Ten Dollars ($10.00), payable to The Hattis Associates, Inc., for each set of documents. The amount of the deposit for one set of documents will be refunded to each actual bidder who returns the contract documents in good condition within ten (10) days after the opening of bids. Additional copies of the Contract Documents may be obtained for the same price with no refund.

Each bidder shall deposit with the proposal a check certified by a responsible bank, payable to the order of the Village of Buffalo Grove, in the sum not less than ten per cent (10%) of the aggregate of the proposal, which shall be forfeited in case the Contractor fails to enter into contract with good and sufficient bond within ten (10) days after notification by the Village of Buffalo Grove to the bidder that the contract has been awarded to him. The successful bidder will be required to furnish a Performance Bond in a sum equal to the contract price, in form and with surety satisfactory to the Director of Public Works of the Village of Buffalo Grove.

Proposals may not be withdrawn without the consent of the Village of Buffalo Grove for a period of sixty (60) days after the bid opening date. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or waive any informality in any bid and to accept any consideration in the Village of Buffalo Grove.

WHEN THE WEDDING IS OVER . . .

Let your friends read about it in the HERALD

But remember our deadlines . . .

For detailed wedding story (including gown descriptions and a listing of attendants) wedding information is due in Herald office within three weeks following wedding date. Information received in Herald office after three weeks and up to five weeks following wedding date will be used for a brief story only, or caption.

For publication the Herald requests a 5x7 black and white glossy close-up photo (bouquet and up) of bridal pair or bride alone. Depending on color tones, contrast and clarity, color photos may possibly be used at the discretion of the editors. Small snapshots are not acceptable.

Ask Your Photographer To Make the Selection

We suggest the bride or some member of the family select a photo for the newspaper immediately upon receiving photographer's proofs. Better yet, ask the photographer to make the selection to avoid delay.

If your photographer cannot comply with deadlines, write-up will be published without a photo providing information is in the Herald office before the deadline.

Wedding forms are available in the Herald offices. There is no charge for publishing wedding stories or photos.

AND ABOUT ENGAGEMENTS:

Just write up the information (include your phone number) or fill out one of the forms available at the Herald offices and bring or mail, along with a wallet-size photo. Larger photos are also acceptable. Glossy photos are preferable although a dull finish is often usable. Color photos are used at the discretion of the editors.

Photos accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes will be returned.

There is no charge for engagement pictures and announcements. They will be printed within a week after reaching our office.

Army, civilian drug plans similar

(This column is presented by Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, a fully-accredited 125 bed psychiatric hospital, known for its intensive programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education and community service.)

Drug use treatment in the U.S. Army is similar to civilian drug programs according to the director of psychiatric research at Walter Reed Hospital.

"The programs for treating drug users," explained Dr. John Greden, "are essentially the same in the Army as they are in civilian life. We encourage drug users to seek treatment without fear of punishment; we work on educating the military man about drugs and their abuse and we operate treatment facilities which are based on both medical models and social models."

"For instance," Dr. Greden continued, "in Fort Lee, Virginia, I set up a half-way house for drug users. The program was based on the Synanon model which uses former drug users as therapists. We help the drug users face up to their personal shortcomings and help them see why they constantly get into trouble with their families, the law or their spouses. Then we can show them that they don't have to turn to drugs for escape. They have to work things out themselves."

Dr. Greden said a survey at Fort Lee showed that 85 per cent of the military people using drugs had started prior to their military duty and that most of these people had started on drugs by age 17.

He also found, through the survey results, that the heaviest drug users — those using more than one drug and those using heroin — were more commonly from large urban areas.

"They also more commonly had legal convictions in the past, difficulties with their families and poorer relationships with their parents and spouses."

"The risk of the All-American boy starting drug use in the Army depends a lot on where he's stationed. In Vietnam the risk is greater because there is a more intensive exposure to drugs, drugs are more readily available and they are of greater strength than the drugs available here."

"I THINK ALSO the factors of boredom, depression and anxiety which are often experienced by the soldier in Vietnam, plays a large part in his turning to drugs. In this situation I think anyone is susceptible."

Much of the army's approach to drugs has been through education about drugs and also through the encouragement of drug users to seek treatment without punishment.

"One of the problems is that those who need help most are least aware of where to turn for help or if they do know where to go for help they are often reluctant because they feel they have the most to lose. They also have the least expectations about getting anything worthwhile out of treatment."

"Thus far our attempts at helping the military man gain knowledge about drugs and change attitudes to prevent drug use have not been very dramatic."

"This is somewhat discouraging," Dr. Greden added.

Workshop to define role of clergyman

Crisis is a situation of immediacy and confusion. In such a time, those persons affected look to the most stable and supportive member of their community for consolation and guidance. The clergyman is often called upon to fill this role.

How can he deal with these people effectively? How can he best and most efficiently help those who need his services?

On Thursday, Feb. 8, the Forest Hospital Postgraduate Center will sponsor its tenth annual clergymen's institute. The all-day program is titled "Crisis: What to Do?" and will be devoted to helping the clergyman learn more about handling crisis situations.

The program will feature two guest lecturers: Dr. Ian Alger, psychiatrist from New York City and Rev. David Gillespie of Englewood, N.J. Dr. Alger and Rev. Gillespie will lead a psychodrama session with clergymen. The session will have clergymen enact typical crisis situations they might encounter.

A special luncheon program will have crisis intervention workers talk about their work at the three recent mass transportation accidents in Chicago.

There will also be small group discussions and workshops led by clergymen, psychiatrists and a social worker.

"Crisis: What to Do?" hopes to provide the clergyman and the interested layman with a different and valuable perspective on crisis intervention.

Women will have more activity in Boy Scouts

A wider interpretation for the participation of women in the Boy Scouts of America locally has been announced by Arthur J. Allen, Scout Executive of the Northwest Suburban Council.

Women may now serve as members and associate members of local councils including membership on the Executive Board and district committees. They may also be named as institutional representatives, Explorer Advisors and Skippers, members of the College Scouter Reserve, and as Cub Scouting roundtable commissioners.

Allen said that there are already over 1,600 women serving in such positions as den leaders, den leader coaches, assistant den leaders, merit badge counselors, associate advisers, and as unit committee chairmen and members.

The long-standing Women's Reserve has been changed to Scouter Reserve and may now include males and females, Allen said. These people may be in fathers' or mothers' clubs and serve as unit organizers, training course faculty, and Exploring consultants.

"In addition to the opening of the Boy Scouts of America to more women," Allen said, "We're recognizing the abilities of younger men and offering them responsibilities that we know they can carry."

Webelos den leaders, assistant Webelos den leaders, and assistant den leaders may now be commissioned at 18 years of age, and 18-year-olds may serve as merit badge counselors. Formerly, younger counselors could register only for merit badges in which the principal requirements were for physical skills.

Planners quiz deal for 'free' fire station

by JILL BETTNER

The nature of a proposed real estate transaction to build a "free" local fire station was questioned Wednesday by several members of the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission.

No formal action was taken by the commission on a request from the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District for annexation and zoning of 6½ acres directly west of the Kingswood Methodist Church on Dundee Road.

Through Village Trustee Randall Rathjen, a real estate salesman for Homelinders Realty Co., the fire district obtained a four-month option last November to buy the land for about $332,000. The purchase is contingent on gaining the necessary zoning.

The Buffalo Grove Fire Department plans to build a second local station on about two acres of the site and recover the cost by selling the remaining 4½ acres.

"My feeling is that the fire district should be getting land only for a fire station," said Commissioner Howard Mendenhall. "Condemnation might be a better route," he added.

BUFFALO GROVE Fire Chief Wayne Winter said the owners of the property (whose names he and Rathjen were unsure of) have refused to sell just part of the site.

"Condemnation is a possibility," Winter said. "But if we condemn that land, we'll have to pay about $110-120,000 for the two acres, whereas under the current plan, we may be able to get it for free, or at least a much lower cost."

Winter said the site under consideration is the only available place to locate a fire station on Dundee Road within service boundaries designated by the Illinois Inspection and Rating Bureau. A station will be necessary there and in the area of the intersection of Busch and Buffalo Grove roads when the village creates a municipal fire department — probably in about three years.

"Land on Dundee just won't be available three years from now," Winter said. "We're just trying to get a jump on the situation."

The fire district is asking that the two acres for the fire station be zoned "special use" business and the remaining land designated for the most restrictive low density land use.

COMMISSIONERS Burt Harris and Larry Gamm said they thought there could be pressure on the plan commission later to change the low density zoning on the land to be resold to allow commercial development.

The proposed Dundee Road station would house two pumper trucks, a ladder truck, a squad car and an ambulance, Winter said. He added that the fire and police departments are also considering locating the first emergency command center in the station.

If the project is approved by the village board, Winter estimated it will take about three months to complete working drawings for the station. Actual construction on the $400,000 facility would take about 12 months. The widening of Dundee Road should be finished before the fire station construction begins, Winter said.

By the time the proposed station is built, Winter hopes the department will be able to staff it with five full-time firemen.

THE DEPARTMENT plans to install a traffic light in front of the station to clear the road whenever necessary. This type of light is currently in use in other communities in the area, including Wheeling, Deerfield and Northbrook. The siren will remain in its present location on the Emmerich Park building on Raupp Boulevard.

The present station on the first floor of the village hall will remain in use after the Dundee Road station is built. Winter said the present station would house a fire engine and ambulance and continue operating with a volunteer staff until it becomes necessary to build another station in Lake County.

THE FIRST STAGES of construction of the new Buffalo Grove Road intersection at Dundee Road are well under way because of favorable weather conditions in January. Storm sewer pipe is being laid through the new curved path Buffalo Grove Road will take to bring its south and north sections together at one intersection, with traffic lights.

Insight out

THE BUFFALO GROVE Fire Department has one piece of apparatus known as Engine 50 — and it is pink. The vehicle just received a new set of wheels, but it still isn't used on fire runs. Engine 50 is a washing machine that remains parked in the station's storeroom.

KENNETH GILL, superintendent of Dist. 21, has taken a lot of kidding about his new title. There have been some remarks that he should begin wearing a white coat and stethoscope, but he isn't that kind of doctor. Gill recently completed work on his PhD degree from Northern Illinois University, but takes credit for only 90 per cent of the effort. He credits the office staff with the other 10 per cent, since they helped him with the crucial thesis that cinched his PhD in education. Incidentally, he prefers NOT to be called Dr. Gill.

BILL BIEBER, director of building and zoning for Wheeling, refuses to let a hospital slow down his work. He is in traction after an auto accident last month, but is reportedly keeping the switchboard busy at Lutheran General Hospital as he does his job by phone. He is doing his work with such vigor that callers often have to wait for a line.

Lake County voter

signup ends March 5

March 5 is the last day for Cook County Buffalo Grove residents to register to vote in the April 17 municipal and park board elections.

Because of a difference in county laws, Lake County voter registration will close April 4, for the township election. Registration will reopen permanently April 5. This means Lake County voters may register and vote the same day.

Eligible voters may register with the village clerk in the village hall, 50 Raupp Blvd., at the Wheeling Township office, or the county clerk's office.

Residents wanting to vote by absentee ballot may apply at the same offices by mail between March 19 and April 12 or in person until April 14.

Students overrule computers — they'll schedule classes

No longer will the students of Wheeling High School be just numbers thrown out of a computer when it comes time to schedule classes. The students will do the work themselves next year.

Wheeling High School will be just one of the schools in High School Dist. 214 that will be going to the "Student Self-Scheduling Program." The program is fashioned after college-type scheduling.

It is designed to give the student the freedom of saying when he'd like to take a class and who he would like to teach it.

"We can't always promise that the student will get the teacher and the time he prefers," said WHS principal Tom Shirley. "We will guarantee that he will always get the classes he wants."

SHIRLEY AND his new assistant, Steve Berry, both said the variables are too great to promise everyone getting the times and teachers they select. They said classes can only be filled to the limit, and then must be closed.

"We feel the students will try to get the time element before the other two choices," said Berry. "I don't feel the selection of a teacher will mean all that much to the students."

Shirley explained that the teacher selection was one of the major concerns thought out by officials before going to the new program. He said officials were worried that the students would all try to select the "easy" teachers, and not select some teachers at all.

"I must give the students in this school, and for that matter, any school, more credit than that. They are all young adults and 99 per cent are here to get a good education. I don't think we will see those problems in Wheeling," said the smiling principal.

THE TWO MEN explained that the time factor is important because so many students have part-time jobs. They also said that although it is not widely known, Dist. 214 offers a contract so students may leave school early or arrive later than the normal times.

For example, if a student scheduled all his classes for the afternoon, he could get a contract from the school. It would be signed by student and parent and the student would not come to school until noon. The same holds true for students who select all their classes in the morning. Their afternoons are free.

Shirley said he foresees more of this being done under the new system.

Both men also agreed that the new system will make a student feel more like a person than a number.

Berry said that under the computer system, neither student nor staff could say anything about who went where. This new way, the student picks his own way.

THE SCHEDULING for Wheeling High School will take place during the week of Aug. 20. On each of the first four days a different class will come to the school and students will make their choices. On the fifth day anyone with a conflict or who missed the previous days of registration can seek help.

"We don't encourage the students to miss their assigned day because by Friday of that week the choices won't be too good. We also are encouraging the parents to schedule their summer vacations around the registration week so their children get the best selections," said

Berry.

The new system will be hardest on the incoming freshman class, but the school officials have scheduled orientation dates for parents of those students. The dates are Feb. 20 and 21.

On the 20th, the parents of students at Holmes and MacArthur junior high schools, as well as those from St. Mary's, St. Joseph the Worker and St. Alphonsus schools will be asked to come to the high school.

The next night is reserved for parents of London Junior High School eighth graders and the few students from St. Peter's school. London will supply more than half the freshman class for Wheeling High School next year.

Current Wheeling students will start an orientation program during their physical education periods next week. The orientation will be in the school theater.

BOTH ADMINISTRATORS said they see no problem in the new program and think it will better the students and the school district.

Shirley said the parents need not worry about students making poor choices because they will be helped and guided throughout the process by counselors and teachers.

The only school in Dist. 214 that has tried the new program is Forest View, and officials there say it is a success. Four more district schools will join the program with a June registration week, and Wheeling and two others will join in August.

Only Buffalo Grove High School will keep the traditional scheduling until 1974 because it is new. BGHS will join the program the following September.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., has proposed legislation to require registration and licensing of all handguns.

Drugs traced to South Vietnam

Heroin sale in Des Plaines leads to federal indictment

A man who allegedly sold heroin to an undercover agent in the Holiday Inn at Mannheim Road and Touhy Avenue in Des Plaines is one of the 16 persons who were indicted in a smuggling conspiracy this week.

The man, Richard J. Kuney, 32, Boden, Pa., allegedly sold a quantity of heroin to an agent of the U.S. Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement on Oct. 19 at the Holiday Inn.

Kuney is one of the nine indicted persons whose names were released yesterday. He is in custody.

Des Plaines is named in the indictments as one of the distribution points for the smuggling ring whose members are charged with conspiring to smuggle $2 million in heroin from South Vietnam to Chicago and three other American cities.

THE RING reportedly included employees of a Texas company which has a defense contract for maintaining military aircraft in South Vietnam. U.S. military aircraft were allegedly used in transporting the heroin.

Others indicted were natives of India and one was a native of South Vietnam. U.S. officials were seeking custody of the non-Americans who were believed to be in South Vietnam.

The 7.85 pounds of heroin involved in the case was said to be 90 per cent pure. It was smuggled into the country inside television picture tubes aboard Military Assistance Command flights to California from South Vietnam.

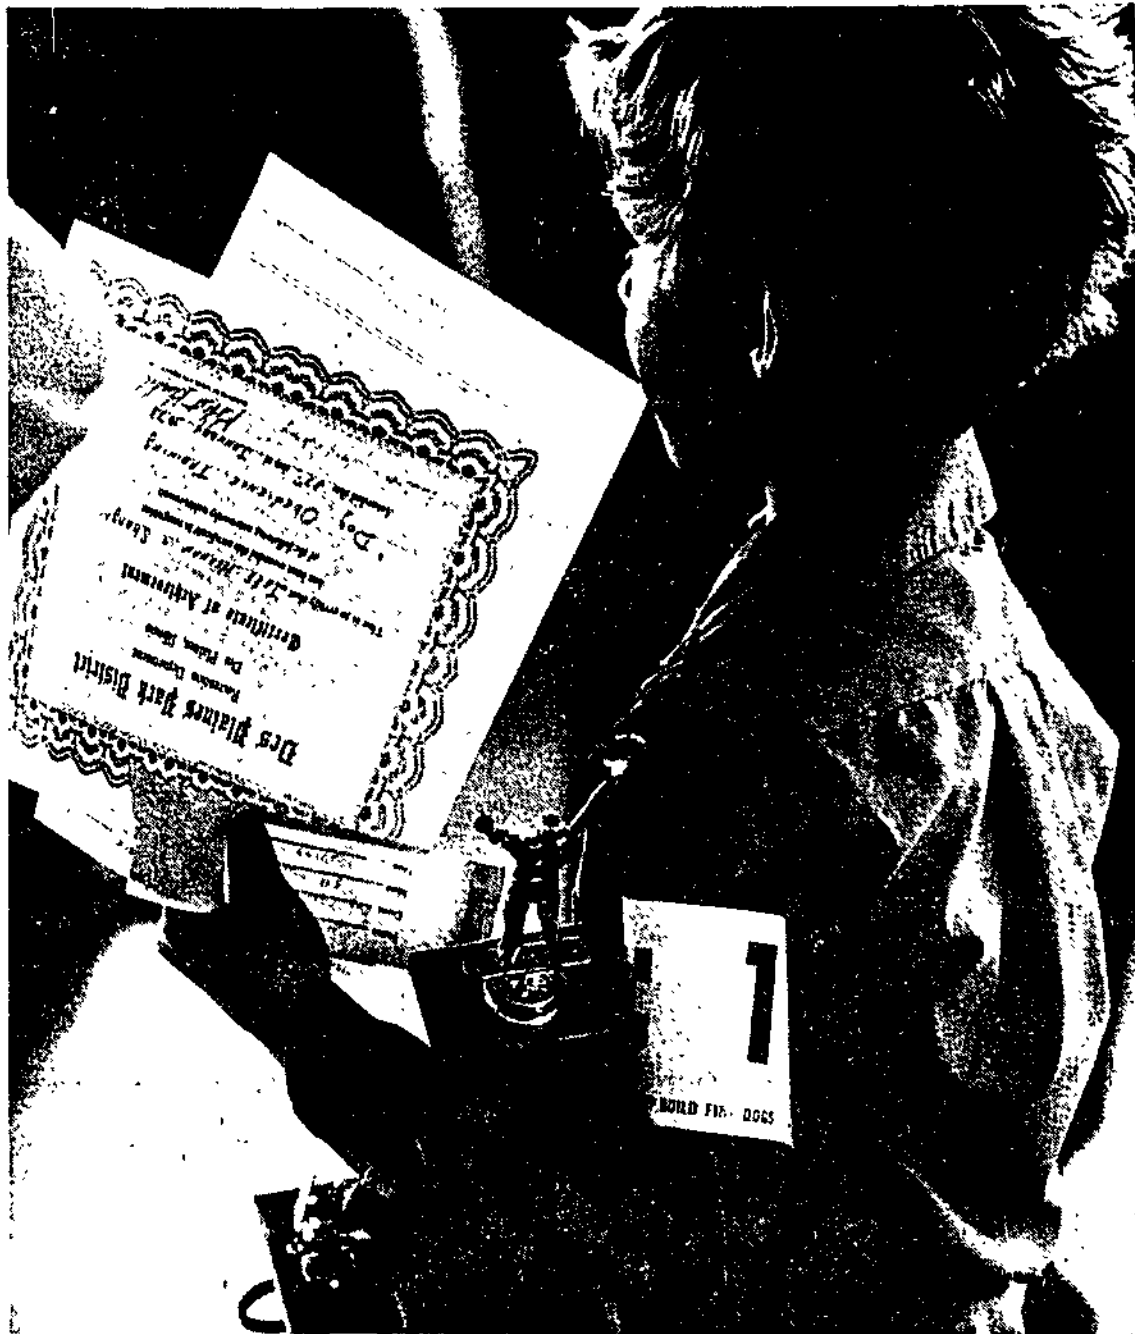

The smuggling operation was first discovered by Chicago police who called federal agents into the case after learning of the international operation of the ring.

Other U.S. cities where the heroin was distributed included Los Angeles, Indianapolis, Ind., and Phoenix, Ariz.

Board members tour north schools next

Members of the Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 board will visit schools in the northern half of the district tomorrow. Schools in the southern portion of the district were visited Jan. 20. The visits are conducted annually by the board.

Saturday's itinerary is: 8 a.m., Devonshire; 8:30, Einstein; 9, High Ridge Knolls; 9:30, Brentwood; 10, Dempster Junior High; 10:45, Frost; 11:15, Jay; 11:45, Holmes Junior High; 12:30 p.m., Forest View; 1, Low.

JEFF PROUDLY HOLDS trophy and certificate awarded him for achievement in dog training. Graduation ceremonies were held Saturday at Rand Park gym, 2025

Miner Ave. First place honors in the park district program went to Jean Ludwig and her dog "Honeybear."

Council to study food ordinance

The Des Plaines City Council Monday night will discuss regulation of grocery stores selling carry-out sandwiches and gas stations selling food.

The controls are included in a complicated "food dealers and food handling" ordinance written by City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi. The ordinance adopts U.S. Public Health Service guidelines.

Regulated by the 14-page ordinance would be all food service establishments — including restaurants, cafeterias, cafeterias, soda fountains, catering kitchens, and "any other eating or drinking establishment . . . where food is served to the public."

The proposed ordinance would require six-month inspections and operating permits for all food establishments.

The new ordinance stems from increased non licensed food sales, here.

City Sanitarian Marvin Martin Jan. 22, reported to the council's license and inspection committee that local grocery stores were selling carry-out sandwiches, salads and coffee without food license and gas stations were selling eggs, bread, cup cakes, self-made coffee and sandwiches.

MARTIN PROPOSED establishing a delicatessen license to regulate the food sales.

The committee-approved ordinance will group all food dealers under one ordinance.

"Our ordinances weren't as well defined previously," DiLeonardi said yesterday. "We're interested in more properly controlling food handling. This is better for the guy operating the stores because he'll know if he's operating according to the law."

The ordinance requires:

- Storage of all perishable food at "safe temperatures."
- Employee "cleanliness."
- Eating and drinking utensils, "be thoroughly cleaned and sanitized after each usage."

• Handwashing and toilet facilities for employees.

The proposal would allow withdrawal of permits for failing to meet guidelines and would allow a fine of up to $500 per day for violations.

Anne Evans files for 3rd Ward seat

Anne Evans, 986 Jeanette, former Illinois constitutional Convention delegate, filed nominating petitions yesterday for 3rd Ward alderman.

She will oppose incumbent Ald. Charles Bolek (3rd).

"I've lived in Des Plaines for 22 years," Mrs. Evans said. "I feel it's time I do something for my city."

A mother of four children, Mrs. Evans called the 3rd Ward "stable. The ward now includes part of the old 8th Ward — the Devonshire area — where I hope I'll be able to defend against the Metropolitan Sanitary District plant."

The sewage plant, scheduled to be built at the southeast corner of Oakton Street and Elmhurst Road, has been opposed by west side residents and by the city.

Hamilton Mint told to stop making inaugural plates

A circuit court order has been issued forbidding the Hamilton Mint of Arlington Heights from producing presidential inaugural picture plates.

U. S. District Court Judge Frank J. McGarr issued the temporary restraining order after a suit filed by the Inaugural Committee 1973 of Washington D.C. and the Franklin Mint Co. of Pennsylvania.

The plates contain portraits of President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and the official presidential seal. The restraining order has been continued until Feb. 7.

Bob Rayunas, vice president of Hamilton Mint, said yesterday the firm has temporarily stopped producing the presidential commemoratives but other production continues at the plant, 40 E. University Dr.

"We are fighting this with our legal people," Rayunas said. "We're not claiming to have anything official."

The Franklin Mint is the nation's largest privately owned mint and according to Rayunas is in competition with the Hamilton Mint.

The Hamilton Mint opened in Arlington Heights less than a year ago. The plant produces medallions, ingots, plates and other art forms in limited numbers, usually in gold and silver.

Environment handbook finally off the press

The city of Des Plaines' problem-plagued environmental handbook is off the press.

After months of pre-printing work, project backers must now decide how to distribute an estimated 20,000 copies of the seven-page booklet.

City Sanitarian Marvin Martin will recommend distribution by local Boy Scout troops.

"That method worked when the city distributed civil defense information."

"The scouts put the information in each homeowner's hand, not just on the doorstep," said Martin, an adviser to Explorer Post 25. "We don't want to create a bigger problem than we solve."

Printing of the revised booklet was approved by the city council Dec. 18.

STILL UNFINISHED is the appointment of members to the council-created environmental control commission. The commission was formed March 6, 1972, but Mayor Herbert Behrel has not appointed members.

The cover of the black-on-white booklet urges residents to "use Des Plaines Recycling center" at Oakton Street, east of Leo Street.

Printed on recycled paper, the booklet lists names of newspaper, glass, can and coat hanger recycling centers and names officials, with phone numbers, who can provide environmental information.

The pamphlet contains nearly three pages of "do's and don'ts" including warnings against pesticides, burning of leaves and trash, pollution of rivers and littering.

Residents are asked to "form car pools... ride a bicycle or walk... plant trees and shrubs to attract birds... use low-lead gasoline and biodegradable detergents."

Des Plaines grocery store robbed of $155 by youth

A Des Plaines grocery store was robbed early yesterday by a youth who threatened a store employee with a butcher knife and then escaped with $155, police said.

Clifford Whitcomb of Palatine, an employee at the 7-Eleven store, 810 S. Elmhurst Rd., was alone in the store when the bandit entered and displayed the knife. He was handed a paper bag and told to fill it with money, police said.

The robber, described by Whitcomb as 17 or 18 years old, about five feet 10 inches, with a high-pitched voice and wearing a green Army jacket with a hood, then ran north on Elmhurst Road.

Mount Prospect police later picked up a man who fit the robber's description but Whitcomb failed to identify him and the suspect was released.

'You gotta have heart' theme for dinner

"You Gotta Have Heart," is the theme this year for the annual senior citizens' dinner, hosted by St. Stephen's Mini-Parish, Saturday, Feb. 17 at the church's Stanley Hall, Spruce and Everett streets. Mass will be celebrated by the Rev. Robert Melcher at 2 p.m.

A turkey dinner prepared by the membership of Mini-Parish, will be served after the Mass.

All local senior citizens are invited to attend this afternoon of songs and renewing of friendships. Transportation will be provided if necessary.

The admission charge for the afternoon is a smile on your face and a song in your heart. For further information and reservation, call Mrs. Ann Smith at 324-3498 before Feb. 12. John Wollaski and his orchestra will provide the music and entertainment.

Jewish Congregation sets Sabbath services

Sabbath services at Maine Township Jewish Congregation, 8800 Ballard Rd., Des Plaines, include the bar mitzvah of Richard London, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney London, 3027 Maple Leaf Drive, Glenview, Saturday, Feb. 10, 9:30 A.M. A highlight of this service will also be the "Aufvuf" (premarital synagogue honors) for Don Spivak, in honor of his forthcoming marriage.

Sunday School students and their parents have been invited to a "Sabbath Happening" Saturday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. to participate in the traditional Mincha ceremony and experience the Shalosh Seudot feast, which is eaten at sunset. The youngsters will participate in the candlelighting ceremony of Havdalah, and end the Sabbath with a special musical program.

Sisterhood Serv-a-Lunch and Fashion Show will be held Sunday, Feb. 11, at 12:30 p.m. Reservations for this annual event can be made through the synagogue office.

The annual men's club sports night is Monday, Feb. 12 (Presidents' day). Glenn Becker, Chicago Cubs baseball star, will be the featured guest. Dinner will be served beginning at 6 p.m. Tickets are available at the door. Parents and children are invited.

Arrested on battery, intimidation charges

James Hickey, 18, of 876 Marshall Dr., Des Plaines, was arrested Wednesday on charges of battery and intimidation in connection with an incident involving a juvenile on Jan. 27.

Police said Hickey allegedly threatened the juvenile with bodily harm if the juvenile did not change his testimony in a burglary case in which the two are codefendants.

Bond was set at $5,000, and Hickey was scheduled to appear in Elk Grove Village Circuit Court Feb. 14.

The pair has been charged in connection with a series of burglaries in the Northwest suburbs.

Henry Wurst gets medal for 25 years

Henry R. Wurst, 2223 Scott St., Des Plaines, recently received a gold medal from Binks Manufacturing Co. in recognition of 25 years of continuous company service. Wurst is treasurer of the Franklin Park firm.

Just a peaceful stroll out on a limb—it's the getting down that's tough.

Palatine balloonists seek new thrills

'Up, up and away' with the Shaws

by MARCIA KRAMER

The neighbors are going to have a tough time keeping up with Wayne and Carole Shaw. The Palatine couple became the first family on the block — and possibly the first in the Northwest suburbs — to go out and get themselves a balloon.

Not the birthday party variety, mind you, but a full-fledged three seater (stander, actually) that whisks them above the treetops, away from the noise and congestion below, in whichever direction the wind happens to take them.

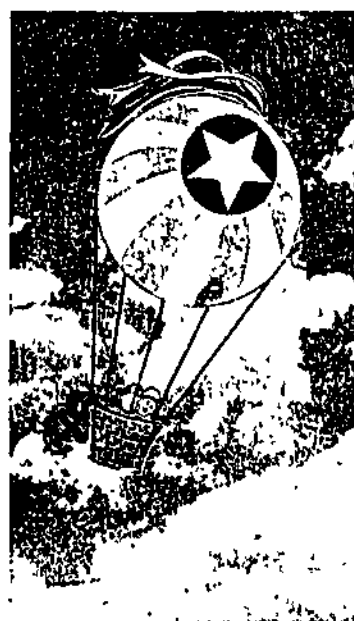

The Shaws just happen to like that "up, up and away" feeling. Ballooning, to them, is "an aesthetically appealing way of flying... it's almost like they're rolling the world around beneath you."

Wayne (you can call him Capt. Flagg) hasn't quite gotten over his first ballooning experience last summer. "Higher than a kite," he describes himself. "I didn't actually come down, mentally, until about a week later."

BUT BY the time his feet had reached the ground, he and his wife had decided to invest in a balloon of their own.

The cost: $11,000. "We got all the options," Shaw said "...bric brac, interior lighting, feathering equipment..." You can pick up a balloon for as little as $6,000.

Ballooning is a profit-making venture for the Shaws, at least until they've paid off their hefty investment by teaching ballooning skills or anchoring the Zeppelin in a parking lot with an advertisement on its side.

But they got into it more as a hobby, a sport, "an acceptable way of being a little kid again."

Most aeronauts, or balloonists, take a similar sporting view. The races aren't known for their competition as much as for their fun, and the purses are little more than tokens.

EVEN THE concept of a race is contrary to the usual image of ballooning as a leisurely-paced sport, an 80-day journey around the world. Ballooning is not so much a means of transportation as a way "to get away from it all."

"The initial reaction of a lot of people is, 'You're crazy,'" says Shaw. "Like 'you're sitting up there, a couple thousand feet, in a dinky little gondola.'"

But the gondola, or basket, and the cross-stitched nylon balloon are really "quite strong," and balloonists have a good safety record. There have been a couple of fatalities and many more instances of landing in treetops, but as the Shaws put it: "You're as safe as you make it."

To be sure, they do carry insurance for damage to the balloon — which they have dubbed "Engle II" for no apparent reason — as well as to other people's property. As added insurance, they keep a 250-foot rope in the gondola in case they stray off course and need to be pulled to a suitable landing spot. And if all else fails, there's always the traditional bottle of champagne to offer the chagrined farmer whose crops were smashed.

It's unlikely that the Shaws will ever land on your front lawn. They plan to do their ballooning around Long Grove and points west, or perhaps south of Chicago. The idea, of course, is to stay away from heavily populated areas and, not incidentally, to stay out of the O'Hare jet paths.

HOT-AIR balloons such as the Shaws don't figure to get too close to airplanes. The balloons generally drift at an altitude of 500 feet, at whatever speed the wind happens to be blowing. Balloonists don't go up unless the wind is less than 12 mph.

When they do venture above the treetops, it's no simple matter. Flames and hot air — about 250 degrees — are blown into the balloon by devices similar to Bunsen burners. The balloon itself measures 70 feet tall, and 50 feet across.

When it comes time to land, usually after two to three hours, some of the hot air is gradually let out of the balloon. The landing is "pretty hard," Shaw says, "but not really any harder than a parachutist would land."

He's had his share of ups and downs. Shaw was a marine helicopter pilot for four years, including a stint in Vietnam.

LATEIT, as an architect, "I missed flying." A late night talk show interview with one of the country's foremost balloonists convinced the Shaws to take up the sport.

Next year, after "Capt. Flagg" obtains his Federal Aviation Administration license, the Shaws plan to enter national and world ballooning championships.

What's next? "Well," mused Carole Shaw, "I've always wanted to take up parachuting."

Zoning OKd for 4-story office building

The Des Plaines Zoning Board of Appeals recently approved rezoning to allow construction of a four-story office building at 1665-1701 Touhy Ave.

The city council will consider the request Feb. 5.

Leo Zarl of Golf, Ill., will develop the proposed $600,000 project. Zarl, Larry Neesen of 1665 Touhy and E. D. Rechel requested rezoning from R-2 single family to C-2 commercial district.

A recent change in city zoning ordinances, which now allows construction of a four-story building within a 35-foot height limitation, prompted a change in the petition from C-1 neighborhood shopping district.

The project will include 126 parking spaces and 28,800 square feet of floor space.

THE ZONING board ruled that "this land is unsuitable for single-family residences" and said the site has been vacant for 20 years.

The petitioners "agreed" to avoid parking lot entrances and exits on Dale Avenue. Area residents objected to use of the street July 22 at a public hearing.

The zoning board also denied a request to switch property at 1540 S. Wolf Rd. from single-family to neighborhood shopping.

The petitioner, Raymond Huntzicker, of 712 Florence Dr., proposed construction of a 6,200-square-foot building, costing $80,000, on the property.

Fifteen residents, who signed a petition protesting the change, appeared at the Jan. 5 meeting.

The objectors said rezoning could be "an intrusion of commercial usage into a residential neighborhood," causing a decline in real estate values.

Niles Catholic school conducts science fair

Our Lady of Ransom School, 8300 Greenwood Ave., Niles, recently held its annual science fair featuring student projects in 11 categories, ranging from behavioral science through zoology.

The outstanding project winners were: Joe Poklop and Bob Patzke for their entry, "The Different Effects of Household Liquids on Plants;" Cathy Biel and Arlene Weiss for "The Effect of Various Shampoos on the Hair Shaft;" George Boudreau for "Cereals: Are They Good or Bad;" Andrew Borden for "Testing the Acid Resistance of Metals;" and Dorlan Dembski for "The Effect of Mouthwash on Bacterial Growth."

Chris Krajci won an outstanding award for his technical paper entitled "The Future of the World's Energy: What Do We Do After We Run Out?"

The winning students will represent Our Lady of Ransom at the 1973 Chicago Area Non-Public School Science Exposition Feb. 17 and 18 at the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago. The science fair is sponsored by the Northwestern Illinois Science Association and the Illinois Junior Academy of Science.

Faculty members Mike Steffens, Nancy Russell, Rosemary Ward and Vern Kunzman sponsored the science fair. Sister Lucinda, principal, highly commended the students for their participation in the fair.

The local scene

Office machines worth $1,800 stolen

Two dictating machines and an electric typewriter valued at $1,800 were stolen Tuesday morning when burglars broke into an office of the Rex Chainbelt Co., 2200 S. Wolf Rd., according to Des Plaines police.

A company employee said he noticed a gray Pontiac in the parking lot when he opened the building yesterday and heard footsteps when he entered the front office.

The man then walked to the rear of the office and saw the car going northbound on Wolf Road with two men in it, police added.

The typewriter, an IBM electric worth $600, and the dictating machines, valued at $300 each, were discovered missing later.

French cooking nights slated at Maine East

The fun of cooking great food is the common ingredient in three different culinary demonstration classes next month to be taught by Elaine Sherman and sponsored by Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult and Continuing Education Program (MONACEP).

The one-evening sessions, open to both women and men, will reveal the secrets of making omelettes, souffles and crepes a la creme.

Elaine Sherman is a graduate of L'Ecole de la Cuisine Francaise, and an advocate of the theory that great cooks are taught not born. She will demonstrate how to prepare crepes for special occasions Feb. 6 and again Feb. 8, at Maine East High School, 2601 Dempster St., Park Ridge.

The souffle session will be held Mon., Feb. 12 at Niles North High School, 9800 Lawler, Skokie. The omelette demonstration will be given at Maine East Tues. Feb. 13 and will be repeated Tues., Feb. 20.

Charge for the classes in omelette and in crepes a la creme is $4.00 each; charge for the souffle class is $5.00. Classes are held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. For further information, call MONACEP office, 696-3600.

Debate tournament winners announced

Maine East High School debaters Tom Leman and Mike Ginsburg, both of Morton Grove, were quarter finalists at Eastern Illinois University's recent debate tournament.

Ginsburg was also named third best speaker at the tournament.

At the recent Deerfield Novice Tournament, Maine East debaters Jay Gershon and Sue Boudreau were defeated in the "A" division.

Jeff Ginsburg, Jeff Adler, Steve Arvey, and Tony Markiewicz took third place in the "B" division. Maine East seniors Jan Brouil and Corey Carbonara placed fourth out of 60 entries in duet acting at Thornwood High School competition Jan. 20.

Defensive driving course open to 30

The National Safety Council "Defensive Driving Course" will be offered to the first 30 persons who call the police department and register for classes.

Classes will be held at 7:30 p.m. beginning Feb. 15 at the police classroom on the second floor of the city public works building, 1111 Campground Rd. for four consecutive Thursday nights. The course consists of lecture, discussion, visual aids, color movies and slides.

Participants will receive a certificate at the end of the course. There is a $5 fee. Instructions will be from the Des Plaines Police Department. For information, call 297-2131.

From the library

The dolls now on display at the Des Plaines Public Library, are part of the collection owned by Mrs. Rose Marie Techmer, 2111 David Dr.

The star of the show is a 75-year-old doll with china head with fine brush strokes at the hairline. It has china hands and feet with stuffed cloth body.

The collection includes pin-cushion dolls, rag doll, wax doll, chalkware, bisque, foreign dolls and even a doll made from a wooden spoon.

Mrs. Techmer also collects sea shells, which she fashions into delightful animals and dolls; salt and pepper shakers, and has several old scrapbooks of movie stars.

2 Catholic hospitals ban abortions

No abortions will be performed at the two Northwest suburban Catholic hospitals in Elk Grove Village and Des Plaines, but officials at other area hospitals say the matter still is an open question.

The statements from hospital officials came in the wake of a ruling last week striking down two states' anti-abortion laws.

"As a member of the Catholic Hospital Association, which has taken a strong stand against abortion, we will not be performing abortions in this hospital," a spokesman at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village said.

AT HOLY FAMILY Hospital in Des Plaines, Sister M. Amata, executive vice president of the hospital, said, "We are following the directive of the Roman Catholic Church and are solidly behind (John) Cardinal Cody."

Both positions were in keeping with a statement earlier last week by Cardinal Cody blasting the U.S. Supreme Court decision permitting women to obtain abortions through their 12th week of pregnancy. Cody called on Catholics in the medical field to oppose and resist performing abortions.

Two other suburban hospitals, Northwest Community and Lutheran General, said they would wait for a clarification of the Illinois abortion law before taking any position.

Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights has taken no stand on the issue because abortion for non-therapeutic reasons is illegal in the state, Jack Ryon, hospital spokesman, said.

RYON SAID there will be a decision made when the Illinois courts give an interpretation of the abortion laws.

"At that time the medical staff and the hospital administration will sit down and determine a policy that will certainly be within the rules set down by the state," he said.

"The hospital policy will be set by the hospital and staff, but no matter what the hospital says, the doctors would still have the right to refuse to perform the operation for his own personal reasons," Ryon said. "The ultimate decision depends on two people — the mother and the doctor."

Northwest Community Hospital is a non-denominational institution.

AT LUTHERAN General Hospital in Park Ridge, a spokesman said the American Protestant Hospital Association of Chicago, of which the hospital is a member, has not been opposed to abortion in the past. However, he said the hospital would be autonomous in making a decision on the issue.

The Supreme Court decision was made last Monday on appeals from Texas and Georgia, and an Illinois abortion prohibition has been waiting for a high court ruling for two years. However, abortion will not be legal in Illinois until a decision is made on the constitutionality of the state's abortion statute.

Maine North High graduation held

Maine North High School, 9511 Harrison St., Des Plaines held its mid-year commencement exercise Jan. 22 in the school's learning resource center.

Senior class Pres. Paul Mazur welcomed relatives and friends to the commencement and Richard R. Short, superintendent of schools, presented the graduates. Roy Makela, a member of the board of education, and A.K.H. Cochran, assistant principal of Maine North, presented the diplomas.

Candidates for graduation from Glenview included Cynthia Anne Brown, Ellen Norene Brubach, Lisa Kathryn Chambers, Katherine Ann Danby, Deborah Ann Dalezie, Linda Susan Glick, Susan Jean Halvorsen, Bonnie Lynn Klobnak, Mary Patricia Kortum, Carolyn Mary Nielsen, Julie Ann Olson, Pamela Sue Parrott, David Theodore Premo, Deborah Lee Schildgen and Susan Ann Witt.

Candidates for graduation from Des Plaines were Nancy Gale Glasser, Mary Lynn Killoran and Susan Lee Schreiber. Debra Lynn Ury of Niles is also graduated.

Scouting news

Cub Scout Pack 14 held its annual Pinewood Derby at Jan. 26 pack meeting at Forest School. Den 4, under the leadership of Pat Grzebielniak, Den Mother, and David Geist, Den Chief, presented the opening ceremony.

Cubmaster Jim Morley presented the following awards:

Den 2 - Tom Preibisch - Denner, J. V. Libretti, two Silver arrows, assistant denner; Kerry Karpel, Silver arrow.

Den 4 - Ronald Schupp, Bear badge; Scott Triphahn, denner; Jeff Smith, assistant denner.

Webelos Den 1 - John Peterson - traveler, outdoorsman; Chris Grzebielniak, outdoorsman; Rich Geist, outdoorsman; Steve Anderson, outdoorsman; Randy Trost, outdoorsman.

Webelos Den 2 - John Luttgens, traveler, artist; Mike Miller, artist; Mike

Brennan, artist; Ron Feldman, citizen, engineer.

RON SCHUPP and his mother were called forward and Ron was taken into Webelos by Dick Grzebielniak, Webelos leader. He received a Webelos neckerchief and handbook.

The winners of the Pinewood Derby were: First place, Rich Geist; second place, Randy Trost; and third place, Bryan Chamberlain. The first place winner will compete in the Pinewood Derby races held at Scout-a-Rama in April. The winners in each den were as follows: Den 1, Steven Sobczak; Den 2, Tom Preibisch; Den 4, Jon Morley; Den 5, David Galt; Webelos Den 1, Steve Anderson; Webelos Den 2, Mike Miller; and den chiefs - David Geist.

Mrs. Joyce Trost discussed the sustaining membership enrollment and stated that each family in the pack will be contacted to see how it can help support the Scouting program.

'Immortal Poland' featured travelogue

"Immortal Poland" will be the next featured travelogue lecture at Maine East High School, 2601 W. Dempster St. Park Ridge, on Wednesday evening Feb. 7.

The film and narration will be presented by Kenneth Richter, world traveler and photographer. "Immortal Poland" is a picturelogue in four parts: Poland's (Beginnings to the Present; Economics; The Agriculture of the Country; and Poland's People.

Poland's Beginnings to the Present includes sequences of Biscopin, Poznan, Gdansk, Krakow and Warsaw. The Economics of Poland are explored by visits to a Silesian coal mine, a Christmas tree ornament-making shop, a steel manufacturing plant, a fishing village on the Hel Peninsula, the seaport of Gdynia, a logging farm, and a private jewelry-making shop. Agriculture includes both cooperative and private, farming.

Poland's people are seen through Kenneth Richter's camera and narrative in their daily work and play activities. Included are a steel worker and his family living at Nova Huta, a girl who works all day among the antiques of a museum in Krakow and at night visits her jazz club. A farm family living in the spectacular mountains near Zakopane is also visited.

Single admission tickets may be purchased at the door at $1.00 each. Senior citizens of Maine and Niles townships may purchase season tickets or single admission tickets for half price at the door. For further information, call 696-3600 or 666-3830.

Despite recommendation to suspend

Committee to continue unit school district study

The Citizens' Reorganization Study Committee for Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 voted overwhelmingly last night to continue its unit district (grades kindergarten through 12) feasibility study.

The vote came despite a recommendation by the citizen's group's states and legal aspects subcommittee to suspend the study. The subcommittee proposed that the citizens' group join with High School Dist. 214 in its study of the feasibility of forming a unit district in the Northwest suburbs.

The subcommittee also recommended that the Dist. 59 study be suspended until two court cases that could change the financing of unit and dual districts are decided.

One case, in the federal district court in Chicago challenges the constitutionality of the state's providing more state aid to unit than to dual districts. The other, now before the supreme court claims that the disparity in financing is discriminatory and violates the 14th Amendment.

THE CITIZEN'S group also voted for an extension of the March 1 deadline for its final recommendation to the Dist. 59 school board. The unit district steering committee, composed of the chairmen of the group's five subcommittees will decide on a new deadline.

After the vote, the committee discussed four alternate boundaries for a unit district. At Herald press time, however, no decision on which boundary would be the most suitable for a unit district was made.

The four alternatives that were considered for a unit district are:

- Elk Grove Village unit, formed by splitting the present Dist. 59 along the Northwest Tollway.
- A unit of the present boundaries of Dist. 59. This would probably take in Elk Grove and Forest View high schools.
- A unit of the attendance boundaries of the four southern high schools in Dist. 214: Elk Grove, Forest View, Rolling Meadows and Prospect high schools.
- Making Dist. 214 a unit district.

Devon-53 developers bid for annex

The developers of a proposed 267-acre multi-family and single-family housing development formally petitioned Elk Grove Village this week for annexation of their property near Devon Avenue and Ill. Rte. 53.

Village Mgr. Charles Willis said yesterday the next step will be for a public hearing before the plan commission to decide whether or not the land should be annexed and, if so, what the zoning should be. The plan commission's recommendations would be sent to the village board of trustees, who would then hold a hearing on the preannexation agreement.

Willis said the earliest possible date for a plan commission hearing was March 22.

The group of developers planning the project has met with village trustees and officials on several occasions to discuss the development of the area. The developers are Ted Szywala of Parkway Development Co., Schiller Park; Joseph and Jack Buttila, 4-B Industrial Park, Streamwood; Joseph Arvidson, Arvidson Construction Co., Chicago, and Joseph Zizzo, Long Grove.

ACCORDING TO plans presented last year, there would be some 6,400 multiple-family dwellings on 223 acres and 91 single-family houses on 15 acres. Another 17 acres would be used for commercial and office space with the remainder for schools and parks.

As earlier proposed the project would include four 12-story buildings with 198 units each, 26 six-story buildings with 72 units each, 16 five-plus-one-story buildings with 60 units each, 22 five-plus-one-story buildings with 99 units each, 20 three-story buildings each with 12 flats, 90 two-story quadminiums and 91 single-family houses.

One of the problems concerning the project has been the disposal of sanitary sewage, and the developers have been working with the Metropolitan Sanitary District to devise a plan for handling sewage that would not overload the village system.

The developers have estimated it will take 8 to 12 years to complete the project.

The landowners have been planning the large commercial and housing development for more than five years, and plans previously submitted to the village have been rejected. In 1971 the group hired Rolf Campbell, who has served as planning consultant for the village, to design a project that would combine the four parcels into a single unified plan.

Village needs more doctors now, later

(Today the Herald presents the second of a four-part series on the "Comprehensive Health Survey" for Elk Grove Village. Later this year, village trustees will decide whether to launch the health care plan called for in the survey.)

by FRED GACA

Elk Grove Village needs more doctors now and will probably need still more in the future.

According to statistics in the "Comprehensive Health Survey, for Elk Grove Village, only 28 physicians have offices in the village which has a population of about 25,000.

In the United States, there are 153 physicians for every 100,000 persons, a ratio of 38 physicians per 25,000 population. Illinois has 141 physicians for every 100,000 persons, a ratio of about 35 physicians per 25,000 population.

Interpreting statistics at the village level is difficult. The direct ratio comparison can be misleading since there is no accurate way to determine how many residents go to physicians outside the village or the number of non-residents treated by village physicians. However, other statistics indicate the village needs more medical personnel.

A "primary care" physician (general practitioner, internist or pediatrician) is usually the first physician a person contacts.

THE NATIONAL average of primary care physicians is 73 for every 100,000 persons, a ratio of about 18 per 25,000 population. Only nine primary care physicians have offices in Elk Grove Village.

The national average of dentists is 58 for every 100,000 persons, a ratio of about 18 per 25,000 persons. Elk Grove Village has 10 dentists.

The school districts serving Elk Grove Village are also short of medical personnel according to the survey. An optimum ratio for good health care and education in a school system is one nurse for every 200 pupils.

At Elk Grove High School, there is one nurse for 2,600 students.

Elk Grove township School Dist. 59 has five full-time nurses to serve some 12,000 students at 20 schools throughout the district. This is a ratio of one nurse serving 2,400 students at four or five scattered schools.

Queen of the Rosary School relies on the Cook County Department of Public Health to provide health care services to the students.

THE SHORTAGE OF medical personnel in the village is part of the "chronic ### swim meet set

this weekend

The second annual Elk Grove Park District Open Invitational Swim Meet will be held this weekend at Disney Pool, behind Lively Junior High School, 999 Leicester Rd.

Saturday's races will start at 9 a.m. and will go to 8:30 p.m. Sunday's races will be from 10:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Last year's meet drew about 1,000 boys and girls from throughout the Midwest. Bill Hlavin, park director of aquatics, has said he expects the same turnout for this year's meet.

Some 90 events will be run during the two-day meet. Contestants will compete in one of five age groups; eight and under, nine and 10; 11 and 12; 13 and 14; 15 through 17. Trophies will be presented to individual winners, high-point scorers in each age group, team trophies for boys and girls teams and an overall team winner.

Incident at plant

results in an arrest

Carl Houston, 23, of Chicago, was charged with aggravated assault Wednesday after he allegedly struck Robert Smith, a foreman at Leon Bush Manufacturing, Inc., 825 Pratt Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Police said Smith told them he was instructing Houston on the use of a machine in the plant at the time of the incident. Smith told Houston that his work was unsatisfactory and asked him to leave, and then Houston allegedly struck Smith twice in the mouth, authorities said.

Police said Smith told Houston to leave again, and Houston allegedly pulled a knife from his pocket.

Bond was set at $1,000, and Houston was scheduled to appear in Elk Grove Village branch of circuit court Feb. 7.

Arrested on battery,

intimidation charges

James Hickey, 18, of 876 Marshall Dr., Des Plaines, was arrested Wednesday on charges of battery and intimidation in connection with an incident involving a juvenile on Jan. 27.

Police said Hickey allegedly threatened the juvenile with bodily harm if the juvenile did not change his testimony in a burglary case in which the two are codefendants.

Bond was set at $5,000, and Hickey was scheduled to appear in Elk Grove Village Circuit Court Feb. 14.

The pair has been charged in connection with a series of burglaries in the Northwest suburbs.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., has proposed legislation to require registration and licensing of all handguns.

The United States has received a Communist list of seven American POWs held in Laos. (Turn to page 10.)

Survivors of a United Air Lines jet which crashed in Chicago on Dec. 3, killing 43 persons, said the plane began to "shake and shudder" before it struck the ground, Washington safety experts said.

Amtrak officials reported an increasing number of passengers riding the trains . . . but said deteriorating track conditions threaten high-speed rail service.

Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi was improving but still in critical condition following a holdup outside his Washington home.

The state

The widow of Illinois Harness Racing Commissioner James Hayes has testified that her husband told her former Gov. Otto Kerner asked him in 1965 to change racing dates. (For other testimony see Page 2.)

Rep. Robert Mann, D-Chicago, will ask Gov. Daniel Walker to release $10 million in U.S. funds to help bail out the financially troubled CTA.

Gov. Daniel Walker contends he can hold the line on taxes in the state for the next four years despite predictions that education costs will push taxes higher.

The president of the 1,600-member Illinois Police Federation has strongly criticized David Fogel, and Jerome Miller as Governor Walker's nominations for top positions in the state penal system.

The world

A Catholic worker was killed and nine wounded in a grenade attack against a bus in Northern Ireland. Extremists warned the religious war may escalate.

The West has offered the Russians a compromise plan to end a dispute delaying preparations for an East-West conference on troop cuts in Central Europe.

President Anwar Sadat's criticism of Marxist students in Egypt could cast a new chill on Moscow-Cairo relations, Arab diplomatic sources said.

The war

In major battles yesterday, North Viet troops annihilated 100 South Vietnamese marines at a former U.S. Navy base near the DMZ. They also overran 200 Saigon paratroopers two miles south of Quang Tri City . . . In Paris, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, exiled Cambodian leader, states his readiness to reconcile himself with the United States.

The local scene

Adult book group forming at library

An adult book discussion group is being formed at the Elk Grove Village Public Library. The group will meet monthly. The first meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 19, in the lower level of the library, 101 Kennedy Blvd.

The group is intended to be a forum for ideas and opinions, not a literature lecture series.

Pam Nicolai, adult services librarian, said the first book to be discussed will be James Dickey's novel, "Deliverance."

All books discussed will be available through the library in paperback and can be purchased at cost.

Registration or information about the club can be obtained by calling the library or 439-0447.

'The Littlest Apostle' film slated Feb. 11

The film, "The Littlest Apostle" will be shown at 6 p.m. Feb. 11 at the Elk Grove Baptist Church, 19W225 Devon Ave., Elk Grove Village. It is the story of an American family that retraces the steps of the apostle Paul on the family's vacation. The public is invited to the showing.

Hopkins PTS book fair next week

The Mark Hopkins PTS will hold a book fair Tuesday and Wednesday at the school, 231 Shadywood Ln.

On Tuesday, the fair will be held during school hours in the gym. Wednesday, the fair will be from 1 to 8 p.m. in the music room. Most of the books will be paperbacks.

Byrd PTO to offer forum on drugs

The Admiral Byrd PTO will present "Communications on Drugs Between You and Your Child" at 7:15 p.m., Thursday, at the school, 263 Wellington Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Dr. Erwin Patlack, a psychiatrist at Lutheran General Hospital, will give a talk followed by a discussion period. Admission is free.

Palatine balloonists seek new thrills

'Up, up and away' with the Shaws

by MARCIA KRAMER

The neighbors are going to have a tough time keeping up with Wayne and Carole Shaw. The Palatine couple became the first family on the block — and possibly the first in the Northwest suburbs — to go out and get themselves a balloon.

Not the birthday party variety, mind you, but a full-fledged three seater (stander, actually) that whisks them above the treetops, away from the noise and congestion below, in whichever direction the wind happens to take them.

The Shaws just happen to like that "up, up and away" feeling. Ballooning, to them, is "an aesthetically appealing way of flying. It's almost like they're rolling the world around beneath you."

Wayne (you can call him Capt. Flagg) hasn't quite gotten over his first ballooning experience last summer. "Higher than a kite," he describes himself. "I didn't actually come down, mentally, until about a week later."

BUT BY the time his feet had reached the ground, he and his wife had decided to invest in a balloon of their own.

The cost: $11,000. "We got all the options," Shaw said. "...bric brac, interior lighting, leathering equipment..." You can pick up a balloon for as little as $6,000.

Ballooning is a profit-making venture for the Shaws, at least until they've paid off their hefty investment by teaching ballooning skills or anchoring the Zeppelin in a parking lot with an advertisement on its side.

But they got into it more as a hobby, a sport, "an acceptable way of being a little kid again."

Most aeronauts, or balloonists, take a similar sporting view. The races aren't known for their competition as much as for their fun, and the purses are little more than tokens.

EVEN THE concept of a race is contrary to the usual image of ballooning as a leisurely-paced sport, an 80-day journey around the world. Ballooning is not so much a means of transportation as a way "to get away from it all."

"The initial reaction of a lot of people is, 'You're crazy,'" says Shaw. "Like 'you're sitting up there, a couple thousand feet, in a dinky little gondola.'"

But the gondola, or basket, and the cross-stitched nylon balloon are really "quite strong," and balloonists have a good safety record. There have been a couple of fatalities and many more instances of landing in treetops, but as the Shaws put it: "You're as safe as you make it."

To be sure, they do carry insurance for damage to the balloon — which they have dubbed "Eagle II" for no apparent reason — as well as to other people's property. As added insurance, they keep a 250-foot rope in the gondola in case they stray off course and need to be pulled to a suitable landing spot. And if all else fails, there's always the traditional bottle of champagne to offer the chagrined farmer whose crops were smashed.

It's unlikely that the Shaws will ever land on your front lawn. They plan to do their ballooning around Long Grove and points west, or perhaps south of Chicago. The idea, of course, is to stay away from heavily populated areas and, not incidentally, to stay out of the O'Hare jet paths.

HOT-AIR balloons such as the Shaws don't figure to get too close to airplanes. The balloons generally drift at an altitude of 500 feet, at whatever speed the wind happens to be blowing. Balloonists don't go up unless the wind is less than 12 mph.

When they do venture above the treetops, it's no simple matter. Flames and hot air — about 250 degrees — are blown into the balloon by devices similar to Bunsen burners. The balloon itself measures 70 feet tall, and 50 feet across.

When it comes time to land, usually after two to three hours, some of the hot air is gradually let out of the balloon. The landing is "pretty hard," Shaw says, "but not really any harder than a parachutist would land."

He's had his share of ups and downs. Shaw was a marine helicopter pilot for four years, including a stint in Vietnam.

LATER, as an architect, "I missed flying." A late night talk show interview with one of the country's foremost balloonists convinced the Shaws to take up the sport.

Next year, after "Capt. Flagg" obtains his Federal Aviation Administration license, the Shaws plan to enter national and world ballooning championships.

What's next? "Well," mused Carole Shaw, "I've always wanted to take up parachuting."

Environmental warning about airports

The controversy surrounding Schaumburg's airport was the subject of remarks by an expert in the noise pollution field recently — with a warning that although many communities have small airports nearby, some of them suffer from the increase in the use of private — and often noisy — private jets.

James C. Reid, manager of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency noise pollution control, traced the history of his knowledge of the local proposal and commented on planned expansion of two other Chicago-area general aviation airports.

His remarks were in reply to a question posed during a joint session of Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates environmental committees Tuesday.

He said the EPA has had no complaints on small aircraft at Schaumburg Airport, including twin-piston planes, but other air fields have experienced problems with business jets. A runway slightly longer than the 3,000-foot strip at Schaumburg could accommodate small jets of the type Reid mentioned.

WITH THE IDA (Illinois Department of Aviation) now involved in the project, Reid said some state officials remain dubious about expansion approval due to air traffic patterns in the area. IDA association with the proposal has arisen from preliminary preparation of an application for the federal planning grant. However, Schaumburg officials have made it clear that they will not confine their investigation to the existing airport but will also survey sites in or annexable to the village.

But Reid urged environmental committee members to "stay on top" of the situation and referred to citizen opposition to proposed expansion at DuPage County Airport.

"You have to go and shoot your mouth off. Speak up and encourage others to do the same because it is your voices we (EPA) are reflecting," he said.

An environmental impact study, part of the feasibility investigation, will be submitted to the EPA and other agencies for review prior to fund approval.

"THIS IS AN AREA where we do have some power to prevent bushfires from starting," Reid commented. In the review EPA members try to remain unbiased "call the shots as we see them and state what we find," he said.

After EPA review and comment adverse remarks must be satisfied before the release of federal funds, he said.

Reid said his agency objected to expansion proposals at Waukegan and DuPage County airports "because we feel people in these areas will be subjected to intolerable noise levels."

While computerized analyses of noise profiles used in most airport expansion plans are "the best material available now," Reid considers the structure of these reports too lenient.

THOUGH THE report lays guidelines, it was originally designed at military air installations and later modified to include civilian areas, said Reid. He indicates however, that the modifications have never been satisfactorily explained to him.

"We judge our thinking on people like you in writing environmental impact statement reviews," Reid emphasized.

He commented generally on efforts to reduce noise pollution through improved technology, mentioned a NASA program for funding such research, and took note of recent fiscal tightening at the national level.

"In dealing with the aircraft industry, the history of legal action points up that the airlines have done as they pleased and the federal government has let this happen," Reid said.

He suggested that the Federal Aviation Administration has been historically directed by top executives of airlines and "has become a slave of the industry it tries to regulate."

From the library

by MARY CLARK

The latest information for preparing your 1972 federal income tax return is available at the Elk Grove Village Public Library, and it won't cost you a cent.

There are guides to explain in simple language the complexities of individual, corporate, partnership and fiduciary returns.

J. K. Lasser's "Your Income Tax" is a popular guide widely sold in bookstores, and the 1973 "U.S. Master Tax Guide" by Commerce Clearing House is a similar book.

Bulkier, but more detailed, is the "Federal Tax Guide," published by Commerce Clearing House. It explains the basics about your tax return, but also goes into the details of tax planning, corporate changes, accounting, exempt organizations, sales and exchanges, income-averaging, and if you need it, the organization, rules and procedures of tax court.

Also from Commerce Clearing House are the "Individuals' Filled-In Tax Return Forms" and the "Corporation-Partnership-Fiduciary Filled-In Tax Return Forms," to give you a picture of what your forms should look like.

For the complete text of the Internal Revenue Code, see "Income Tax Regulations," which break the code down section by section for detailed explanations. This is a three-volume set by Commerce Clearing House.

"Tax Angles and Tax Savings" by the same publisher is a collection of reports on a variety of topics, the sale and purchase of a residence, for example, and how to handle hobby losses.

These tax materials are reference-only books, and are available in the business section of the library.

Hamilton Mint told to stop making inaugural plates

A circuit court order has been issued forbidding the Hamilton Mint of Arlington Heights from producing presidential inaugural picture plates.

U. D. District Court Judge Frank J. McGarr issued the temporary restraining order after a suit filed by the Inaugural Committee 1973 of Washington D.C. and the Franklin Mint Co. of Pennsylvania.

A spokesman for Hamilton Mint's attorney said the federal suit charges the Arlington Heights firm with misrepresentation in advertising. The Hamilton Mint allegedly boasts its plates are "the biggest ever made."

The plates contain portraits of President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and the official presidential seal.

The restraining order has been continued until Feb. 7.

Bob Rayunas, vice president of Hamilton Mint, said yesterday the firm has temporarily stopped producing the presidential commemorative but other production continues at the plant, 40 E. University Dr.

"We are fighting this with our legal people," Rayunas said. "We're not claiming to have anything official."

The Franklin Mint is the nation's largest privately owned mint and according to Rayunas is in competition with the Hamilton Mint.

The Hamilton Mint opened in Arlington Heights less than a year ago. The plant produces medallions, ingots, plates and other art forms in limited numbers, usually in gold and silver.

They were left NOT holding the bag

Out-of-town guests at a wedding last weekend in Elk Grove Village went away one suitcase short after they lost a green totebag in the vicinity of Elk Grove Wesleyan Church, 545 Landmeier Rd.

The suitcase contained a man's suit, shirts, neckties and a woman's long dress. Anyone finding the bag is asked to contact village Police Lt. Richard Losch at 439-3900, extension 255.

Des Plaines grocery store robbed of $155 by youth

A Des Plaines grocery store was robbed early yesterday by a youth who threatened a store employee with a butcher knife and then escaped with $155, police said.

Clifford Whitcomb of Palatine, an employee at the 7-Eleven store, 810 S. Elm-hurst Rd., was alone in the store when the bandit entered and displayed the knife. He was handed a paper bag and told to fill it with money, police said.

The robber, described by Whitcomb as 17 or 18 years old, about five feet 10 inches, with a high-pitched voice and wearing a green Army jacket with a hood, then ran north on Elmhurst Road.

Mount Prospect police later picked up a man who fit the robber's description but Whitcomb failed to identify him and the suspect was released.

Village needs more doctors now, later

shortage" throughout the nation. Simply stated, not enough people are graduating from medical schools to keep up with the demands of the population. The only recommendation the survey can make to the village is to keep a close record on the number of medical personnel and encourage more to establish practice in the village.

Four hospitals, with a total staff of more than 800 doctors, serve Elk Grove Village: Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Lutheran General, Holy Family and Northwest Community.

Each hospital provides the same general services. Each also offers certain specialized treatment, but there is no duplication of expensive, seldom-used treatment facilities.

At the time of the survey, each hospital could be considered "at capacity" in terms of bed use. All are involved in expansion programs.

OVERUSE of emergency rooms has been a problem in area hospitals. During the period 1960-1970 emergency room use tripled. People were coming to the emergency room to get nonemergency treatment.

The survey recommends that the village begin a program encouraging people to establish regular contact with a physician for treatment rather than overburden the emergency room.

A community the size of Elk Grove Village should not attempt to supply all the possible health-care treatment residents could possibly need. Instead the survey recommends that the village make contact and coordinate services with the various private and government agencies capable of providing health care to village residents.

In 1970, only two per cent of the village population was over the age of 65. By 1980, the percentage will be much higher. Older people require more medical treatment, often needing some type of extended care facility. Currently, the 14 extended care facilities serving the Elk Grove Village area are now "just barely" meeting the demand. According to the survey, the sheltered care facilities have a waiting list of patients.

The survey recommends that the village take steps to insure that the future elderly population has access to extended care facilities, but does not give specific recommendations for action.

Dads take active part in Girl Scouting

by JOANN VAN WYE
The Girl Scout ranks are being invaded by fathers who want to be active participants in their daughters' scouting activities.

This month several fathers will be representing their daughters' troops and knocking on the doors of other Girl Scout families.

The fathers are participants in the Girl Scout sustaining membership enrollment drive, which will be started Feb. 16 by the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County. While not all of the SME representatives will be men, the Girl Scouts have encouraged male participation as a means by which the fathers can get involved.

Two fathers are serving as SME co-chairmen in Palatine this year. It will be the second year as co-chairman for Larry Anderson of 961 Arrowhead, Palatine, who has two daughters in scouting. He was recruited by 1973 SME Council Chairman Warren Coughlin, who is in his car pool, while on the way to work one morning.

PHIL McDONALD, 939 N. Stark, Palatine, is serving with Anderson as co-chairman. McDonald, who has one daughter in scouting, was a troop leader for his daughter's troop during last year's drive.

Before, I used to see my daughter in her uniform at breakfast and that was it

Phil McDonald

Larry Anderson

Taking part in the drive has been a pleasant experience and it has helped me in communicating with my daughter.

"When you are sold on something, it is fun to see if you can sell it to someone else," McDonald said.

The SME drive is one of four major fund-raising activities conducted by the Girl Scouts. The drive was started about five years ago when the amount of money the Girl Scouts received from the United Fund started becoming a fixed figure.

This year the Northwest Cook County Girl Scout Council hopes to raise approximately $30,000 from the SME drive. The goal for Palatine is 3,100 but since $3,900 was raised last year in Palatine, the co-chairman are shooting for a larger goal of more than $4,000.

THERE ARE 2,059 girls in 79 Girl Scout troops in Palatine. Most families in Palatine with Girl Scouts will be contacted personally between Feb. 16 and March 2 and asked to contribute. The council has a goal of $10 from each family.

Anderson explained the SME drive is preferred to a hike in membership dues because the council does not want to discourage any girls from scouting by raising the membership fee.

The SME funds are not earmarked for a particular phase of scouting but will be used to help support NORWESCO and Happy Hollow Girl Scout camps.

Man indicted in drug smuggling case

A man who allegedly sold heroin to an undercover agent in the Holiday Inn at Mannheim Road and Touhy Avenue in Des Plaines is one of the 16 persons who was indicted in a smuggling conspiracy this week.

The man, Richard J. Kuney, 32, Boden, Pa., allegedly sold a quantity of heroin to an agent of the U.S. Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement on Oct. 19 at the Holiday Inn.

Kuney is one of the nine indicted persons whose names were released yesterday. He is in custody.

Des Plaines is named in the indictments as one of the distribution points for the smuggling ring whose members are charged with conspiring to smuggle $2 million in heroin from South Vietnam to Chicago and three other American cities.

THE HING reportedly included employees of a Texas company which has a defense contract for maintaining military aircraft in South Vietnam. U.S. military aircraft were allegedly used in transporting the heroin.

Others indicted were natives of India and one was a native of South Vietnam. U.S. officials were seeking custody of the non-Americans who were believed to be in South Vietnam.

The 7.65 pounds of heroin involved in the case was said to be 90 per cent pure.

It was smuggled into the country inside television picture tubes aboard Military Assistance Command flights to California from South Vietnam.

The smuggling operation was first discovered by Chicago police who called federal agents into the case after learning of the international operation of the ring.

Other U.S. cities where the heroin was distributed included Los Angeles, Indianapolis, Ind., and Phoenix, Ariz.

The Cellar— special spot for young people

The Cellar is a lot of things and it could be a lot more. Whether it grows or dies depends on people.

The Cellar is a special place in the new wing of the Schaumburg Township Public Library, the name of a theater group a newspaper and a club.

Bonita Ballingall, children's librarian, explained that the library set aside the special junior high room users have christened The Cellar. The library is at 32 Library Ln., Schaumburg.

"All kinds of activities go on in the room or it can just be a quiet retreat to meet friends, read, listen to music or interact," she explained.

"There is not much furniture in the room at present just a few inflatable chairs and stuffed mushrooms. "Somehow mushrooms seemed right for The Cellar," she added.

MISS BALINGALL said a group of young people have been meeting with her every Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. in The Cellar and in the adjoining theatre.

"Right now we are doing improvisations, pantomime and just generally creative drama," she said.

"We have talked about writing our own plays and perhaps doing it for the younger children at one of our Saturday morning programs," she added.

'Spring Into Nature' series starts Sunday

"Spring Into Nature," a series of three lectures co-sponsored by Schaumburg Park District and the Clean Environment Committee, will begin Sunday.

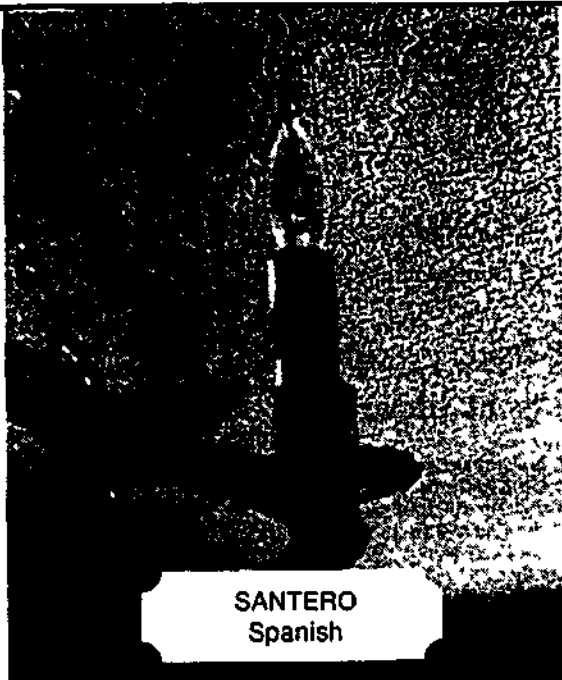

The first presentation will be a discussion of Crabtree Nature Center, Barrington, presented by Charles A. Westcott, an interpretative naturalist and director of the center.

The program will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. at Meineke Community Center, 220 E. Weathersfield Way.

A second presentation is scheduled for April 1, when Ellsworth Meineke, a local conservationist, will outline plans for Sprung Valley Nature Center being developed in Schaumburg.

The series will conclude June 10, with Floyd Swink, of Morton Arboretum, as speaker.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or obtained in advance by contacting Mrs. Glynn at 529-8668.

Wendell Jones lists platform priorities

'Answerable public officials' called most needed change

Wendell E. Jones, Republican candidate for Palatine village president, said yesterday he rates "answerable public officials" at the top of his list of changes most needed in Palatine village government.

Jones made the assessment after the last of three "Listen-In" sessions sponsored by the Republican candidates to hear residents' concerns.

The need for responsive officials was among the top five concerns expressed at all three meetings.

Jones said he considers it important because "if you have interested, answerable, concerned, responsive officials, most of these other concerns can be cleared up."

"You will still have traffic problems, but people will know why and what is being done about it," he said.

THE OFFICIAL Republican platform, to be known as an "action program," is to be devised this month, based on resident input from the "Listen-In" and the ideas of the candidates.

Jones suggested several areas of concern that he indicated would be included in the platform: flooding, including creek overflow, inadequate sewers, overland drainage; zoning and both long-range and short-range planning; budget planning, including taxes and licenses; traffic congestion; street maintenance, and intergovernmental cooperation.

He remarked that "we're not just going to talk about these problems: everybody knows what the problems are. We hope to find solutions."

THE REPUBLICAN platform is to include both the GOP candidates' concept of what the major local problems are and their recommended solutions to the problems.

Jones, 35, is the only Republican candidate currently serving on the village board. He has been a village trustee since 1967.

Other GOP candidates are Bryan P. Coughlin Jr., Richard W. Fonte, Robert J. Guss and Jim Shaw, for village trustees, and Diane Greenlees for village clerk.

Dads take active part in Girl Scouting

by JOANN VAN WYE

The Girl Scout ranks are being invaded by fathers who want to be active participants in their daughters' scouting activities.

This month several fathers will be representing their daughters' troops and knocking on the doors of other Girl Scout families.

The fathers are participants in the Girl Scout sustaining membership enrollment drive, which will be started Feb. 16 by the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County.

While not all of the SME representatives will be men, the Girl Scouts have encouraged male participation as a means by which the fathers can get involved.

Two fathers are serving as SME co-chairman in Palatine this year. It will be the second year as co-chairman for Larry Anderson of 961 Arrowhead, Palatine, who has two daughters in scouting. He was recruited by 1973 SME Council Chairman Warren Coughlin, who is in his car pool, while on the way to work one morning.

PHIL McDONALD, 939 N. Stark, Palatine, is serving with Anderson as co-chairman. McDonald, who has one daughter in scouting, was a troop leader for his daughter's troop during last year's drive.

Before, I used to see my daughter in her uniform at breakfast and that was it. Taking part in the drive has been a pleasant experience and it has helped me in communicating with my daughter.

"When you are sold on something, it is fun to see if you can sell it to someone else," McDonald said.

The SME drive is one of four major fund-raising activities conducted by the Girl Scouts. The drive was started about five years ago when the amount of money the Girl Scouts received from the United Fund started becoming a fixed figure.

This year the Northwest Cook County Girl Scout Council hopes to raise approximately $30,000 from the SME drive. The goal for Palatine is 3,100 but since $3,000 was raised last year in Palatine, the co-chairman are shooting for a larger goal of more than $4,000.

THERE ARE 2,059 girls in 79 Girl Scout troops in Palatine.

Skating competition postponed again

Palatine's speed skating competition has been postponed for the second time due to unseasonably warm weather.

Now scheduled for Feb. 10, the event was previously set for tomorrow. Outdoor ice rinks have virtually no ice, causing the delays. When the competition is held, it will be at Community Park, 262 E. Palatine Rd., on the park district rink.

The event is being sponsored by the Palatine Jaycees and the park district.

It's 'Up, up and away' for Palatine balloonists

by MARCIA KRAMER

The neighbors are going to have a tough time keeping up with Wayne and Carole Shaw. The Palatine couple became the first family on the block — and possibly the first in the Northwest suburbs — to go out and get themselves a balloon.

Not the birthday party variety, mind you, but a full-fledged three seater (stander, actually) that whisks them above the treetops, away from the noise and congestion below, in whichever direction the wind happens to take them.

The Shaws just happen to like that "up, up and away" feeling. Ballooning, to them, is "an aesthetically appealing way of flying. It's almost like they're rolling the world around beneath you."

Wayne (you can call him Capt. Flagg) hasn't quite gotten over his first ballooning experience last summer. "Higher than a kite," he describes himself. "I didn't actually come down, mentally, until about a week later."

BUT BY the time his feet had reached the ground, he and his wife had decided to invest in a balloon of their own.

The cost: $11,000. "We got all the options," Shaw said. "...bric brac, interior lighting, teething equipment. . . . You can pick up a balloon for as little as $8,000."

Ballooning is a profit-making venture for the Shaws, at least until they've paid off their hefty investment by teaching ballooning skills or anchoring the Zeppelin in a parking lot with an advertisement on its side.

But they got into it more as a hobby, a sport, "an acceptable way of being a little kid again."

Most aeronauts, or balloonists, take a similar sporting view. The races aren't known for their competition as much as for their fun, and the purses are little more than tokens.

EVEN THE concept of a race is con-

THE COMBUSTION CHAMBER of a rotary auto engine is much different than anything to be found in the standard internal combustion engine as Dan McGee from Palatine High School found out this week. Students in the auto mechanics classes at the school had a Mazda loaned by the Midwest distributor of the Japanese-made car all day Wednesday. Under the direction of teacher Roger Basrak, they got a look at the new-style engine that experts think may some day replace the standard piston engine.

trary to the usual image of ballooning as a leisurely-paced sport, an 80-day journey around the world. Ballooning is not so much a means of transportation as a way "to get away from it all."

"The initial reaction of a lot of people is, 'You're crazy,'" says Shaw. "Like 'you're sitting up there, a couple thousand feet, in a dinky little gondola.'"

But the gondola, or basket, and the cross-stitched nylon balloons are really "quite strong," and balloonists have a good safety record. There have been a couple of fatalities and many more instances of landing in treetops, but as the Shaws put it: "You're as safe as you make it."

To be sure, they do carry insurance for damage to the balloon — which they have dubbed "Eagle II" for no apparent reason — as well as to other people's property. As added insurance, they keep a 250-foot rope in the gondola in case they stray off course and need to be pulled to a suitable landing spot. And if all else fails, there's always the traditional bottle of champagne to offer the chagrined farmer whose crops were smashed.

It's unlikely that the Shaws will ever land on your front lawn. They plan to do their ballooning around Long Grove and points west, or perhaps south of Chicago. The idea, of course, is to stay away from heavily populated areas and, not incidentally, to stay out of the O'Hare jet paths.

HOT-AIR balloons such as the Shaws don't figure to get too close to airplanes. The balloons generally drift at an altitude of 500 feet, at whatever speed the wind happens to be blowing. Balloonists don't go up unless the wind is less than 12 mph.

When they do venture above the treetops, it's no simple matter. Flames and hot air — about 250 degrees — are blown into the balloon by devices similar to Bunsen burners. The balloon itself measures 70 feet tall, and 50 feet across.

When it comes time to land, usually after two to three hours, some of the hot air is gradually let out of the balloon. The landing is "pretty hard," Shaw says, "but not really any harder than a parachutist would land."

He's had his share of ups and downs. Shaw was a marine helicopter pilot for four years, including a stint in Vietnam.

LATER, as an architect, "I missed flying." A late night talk show interview with one of the country's foremost balloonists convinced the Shaws to take up the sport.

Next year, after "Capt. Flagg" obtains his Federal Aviation Administration license, the Shaws plan to enter national and world ballooning championships.

What's next? "Well," mused Carole Shaw, "I've always wanted to take up parachuting."

This Morning In Brief

The nation

Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., has proposed legislation to require registration and licensing of all handguns.

The United States has received a Communist list of seven American POWs held in Laos. (Turn to page 10.)

Survivors of a United Air Lines jet which crashed in Chicago on Dec. 3, killing 43 persons, said the plane began to "shake and shudder" before it struck the ground, Washington safety experts said.

Amtrak officials reported an increasing number of passengers riding the trains . . . but said deteriorating track conditions threaten high-speed rail service.

Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi was improving but still in critical condition following a holdup outside his Washington home.

The state

The widow of Illinois Harness Racing Commissioner James Hayes has testified that her husband told her former Gov. Otto Kerner asked him in 1965 to change racing dates. (For other testimony see Page 2.)

Rep. Robert Mann, D-Chicago, will ask Gov. Daniel Walker to release $10 million in U.S. funds to help bail out the financially troubled CTA.

Gov. Daniel Walker contends he can hold the line on taxes in the state for the next four years despite predictions that education costs will push taxes higher.

The president of the 1,600-member Illinois Police Federation has strongly criticized David Fogel, and Jerome Miller as Governor Walker's nominations for top positions in the state penal system.

The world

A Catholic worker was killed and nine wounded in a grenade attack against a bus in Northern Ireland. Extremists warned the religious war may escalate.

The West has offered the Russians a compromise plan to end a dispute delaying preparations for an East-West conference on troop cuts in Central Europe.

Township to open budget talks Monday

The first budget talks for Palatine Township will be started Monday at 8 p.m. at the township hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd.

In addition to regular resources from taxes and tax anticipation warrants, the township board of auditors also has $48,500 in the bank for its share of the 1972 revenue sharing program.

Last year's total budget was $149,415, including $125,400 for the town fund and $24,015 in general assistance. Various programs vying for the revenue sharing money include The Bridge youth services bureau, a day care facility, and senior citizen activities.

Neither the day care center nor an organized senior citizen program are realities. The Bridge, which is two years old, is searching for increasing funding from area governments. A $24,000 grant from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission for the Bridge expires at the end of March.

Auditors have reserved the following Monday, Feb. 12, for further budget talks if necessary. The regular township meeting is scheduled for Feb. 26.

Parole, probation topic of meetings

The Palatine League of Women Voters will consider "Corrections — Parole and Probation" at unit meetings Wednesday and Thursday.

The Wednesday meeting is scheduled for 7:45 p.m. at the home of Sherry Wetzel, 73 Country Club Ct., Palatine Township. The Thursday meeting will be at 9:15 a.m. at the Presbyterian Church of Palatine 600 E. Palatine Rd. Babysitting will be provided during the morning meeting.

The discussion is to involve what the state corrections system is designed to do and how well it is doing its job.

The unit was to have been considered last month, but was postponed when the corrections committee chairman became ill.

Pair attend luncheon opening heart drive

Two Palatine Township residents helped officially open the 1973 Heart Fund Campaign.

Hoger Ericson, 157 Briarwood Ln., and Lambert W. Bredehoft, 2360 Longacres Ln., participated in the recent campaign luncheon. The Heart Fund's goal for 1973 is $1,250,000 for Cook, Lake and DuPage counties.

Bredehoft is also a member of the Chicago Heart Association Board of Governors.

Fremd variety show set Friday, Saturday

The Fremd High School variety show, "The Magical Mystery Tour," will be presented today and Saturday in the school cafeteria.

Acts ranging from the school's jazz band to modern dance, dramatic readings and mime will be presented at 8 p.m. each evening.

Tickets will be available at the door. The show is directed by Carl Chiddister, Bob Klassy and Carol Peterson.

Scout troops in Palatine. Most families in Palatine with Girl Scouts will be contacted personally between Feb. 16 and March 2 and asked to contribute. The council has a goal of $10 from each family.

Anderson explained the SME drive is preferred to a hike in membership dues because the council does not want to discourage any girls from scouting by raising the membership fee.

The SME funds are not earmarked for a particular phase of scouting but will be used to help support NORWESCO and Happy Hollow Girl Scout camps.

Treatment plant model on exhibit here

A model of the $43 million Salt Creek Water Reclamation Plant, under construction in unincorporated Schaumburg Township, will be on exhibit in the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center beginning Monday through Feb. 16.

The shopping center is located on Kirchoff Road on Meadow Drive.

According to John Egan, president of the Metropolitan Sanitary District, "When completed in late 1974, (the plant) will be the world's largest tertiary treatment plant."

"It will have a design capacity of 30 million gallons per day, providing full water treatment for 160,000 persons in unincorporated areas, parts of Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Elk Grove Village, Roselle, Inverness, and all of Palatine."

"The plant will meet the most stringent standards set by federal and state agencies," Egan said.

Construction will include control, maintenance, pretreatment, laboratory, filter, digester and thickener buildings, three sludge pumping stations, two aeration tanks, 12 settling tanks, and chemical storage tanks.

Wingard part of team visiting in India

M. Rex Wingard, 177 Brentwood Dr., Palatine Township, is part of an advisory team from the Cooperative League of the USA visiting India.

Wingard, executive vice president of Global Ventures, Des Plaines, and other members of the group are reviewing Indian cooperative development plans and suggesting ways Indian and U.S. cooperatives can work together.

Global Ventures is a consulting firm specializing in oil seeds and foods processing.

Correction

The Palatine Junior Women's Club antique show and sale will be held March 2 and 3, not this weekend as indicated in yesterday's Herald.

The fifth annual show will be held at the Plum Grove Club, in unincorporated Palatine Township.

Heroin smuggling ring smashed; many indicted

A man who allegedly sold heroin to an undercover agent in the Holiday Inn at Mannheim Road and Touhy Avenue in Des Plaines is one of the 16 persons who was indicted in a smuggling conspiracy this week.

The man, Richard J. Kuney, 32, Boden, Pa., allegedly sold a quantity of heroin to an agent of the U.S. Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement on Oct. 19 at the Holiday Inn.

Kuney is one of the nine indicted persons whose names were released yesterday. He is in custody.

Des Plaines is named in the indictments as one of the distribution points for the smuggling ring whose members are charged with conspiring to smuggle $2 million in heroin from South Vietnam to Chicago and three other American cities.

THE RING reportedly included employees of a Texas company which has a defense contract for maintaining military aircraft in South Vietnam. U.S. military aircraft were allegedly used in transporting the heroin.

Others indicted were natives of India and one was a native of South Vietnam. U.S. officials were seeking custody of the non-Americans who were believed to be in South Vietnam.

The 7.65 pounds of heroin involved in the case was said to be 90 per cent pure. It was smuggled into the country inside television picture tubes aboard Military Assistance Command flights to California from South Vietnam.

The smuggling operation was first discovered by Chicago police who called federal agents into the case after learning of the international operation of the ring.

Other U.S. cities where the heroin was distributed included Los Angeles, Indianapolis, Ind., and Phoenix, Ariz.

Hamilton Mint told to stop making inaugural plates

A circuit court order has been issued forbidding the Hamilton Mint of Arlington Heights from producing presidential inaugural picture plates.

U. S. District Court Judge Frank J. McGarr issued the temporary restraining order after a suit filed by the Inaugural Committee 1973 of Washington D.C. and the Franklin Mint Co. of Pennsylvania.

A spokesman for Hamilton Mint's attorney said the federal suit charges the Arlington Heights firm with misrepresentation in advertising. The Hamilton Mint allegedly boasts its plates are "the biggest ever made."

The plates contain portraits of President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and the official presidential seal.

The restraining order has been continued until Feb. 7.

Bob Rayunas, vice president of Hamilton Mint, said yesterday the firm has temporarily stopped producing the presdential commemoratives but other production continues at the plant, 40 E. University Dr.

"We are fighting this with our legal people," Rayunas said. "We're not claiming to have anything official."

The Franklin Mint is the nation's largest privately owned mint and according to Rayunas is in competition with the Hamilton Mint.

The Hamilton Mint opened in Arlington Heights less than a year ago. The plant produces medallions, ingots, plates and other art forms in limited numbers, usually in gold and silver.

He entered the Army last December and completed basic training at Fort Campbell, Ky.

Bank's power shut off slightly early

A mechanical failure caused electrical power to be shut off yesterday at the Suburban National Bank building, 800 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine.

Jack Stephens, district superintendent for Commonwealth Edison Co., said the power was to have been deliberately halted at 3:15 p.m. while repairs were being made to a cable leading from the building to a transformer.

However, a failure in the cable caused the power to go off 15 minutes earlier than scheduled.

Stephens said repairs were being made originally because of a faulty cable that was discovered Wednesday night. He said only the Suburban National Bank was affected by the power failure.

Referral group amazed so many get center aid

Members of the Rolling Meadows Youth Referral Committee expressed surprise yesterday at figures showing 129 families in the city have received aid this year from the Northwest Opportunity Center.

"If (the figures) are true, then that is a very serious reflection in a number of ways," the Rev. Thomas Fielding of St. Colette's Church told the committee meeting. "If the figures are right, we should find out."

He did not elaborate but apparently was referring to the referral commission established two years ago to help troubled families in the city.

The city also has a welfare officer who oversees assistance to families in temporary financial need. But the city considers it as an emergency temporary family assistance fund rather than on-going welfare aid.

Bruce Newton, director of the opportunity center, said yesterday the figures also show 17 Rolling Meadows families involved in the Operation Nutrition program which provides food for needy families. "These are the families that are the real poverty cases," he added.

THE COUNT also may include families that were not in the low income bracket but required financial assistance because they have temporarily "fallen on hard times" due to job layoffs, medical bills or other unexpected circumstances.

Specific information on the kinds of service provided families in Rolling Meadows as well as names of the families will be requested from the center by the city, City Mgr. James Watson said yesterday.

The city is interested in learning this information, he said, because "if funding is stopped to the center, then we are going to have to take over."

Federal funding for the center is expected to end July 1 since President Nixon has announced plans to eliminate the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), of which the center is a branch.

THE CENTER has announced plans to seek federal revenue sharing funding assistance from area municipalities on the basis of the number of families per community which have received assistance from the center. Mayor Roland Meyer has said, however, that he does not favor providing funds to the center.

The center is expected to ask the city for $2,458.74.

While the six members of the committee present agreed with Father Fielding's concern, most felt the figure did not reflect badly on the youth referral program. They pointed out the center does not provide the kind of services the youth program provides. They said the youth program is oriented toward specialized assistance to deal with youth and family problems.

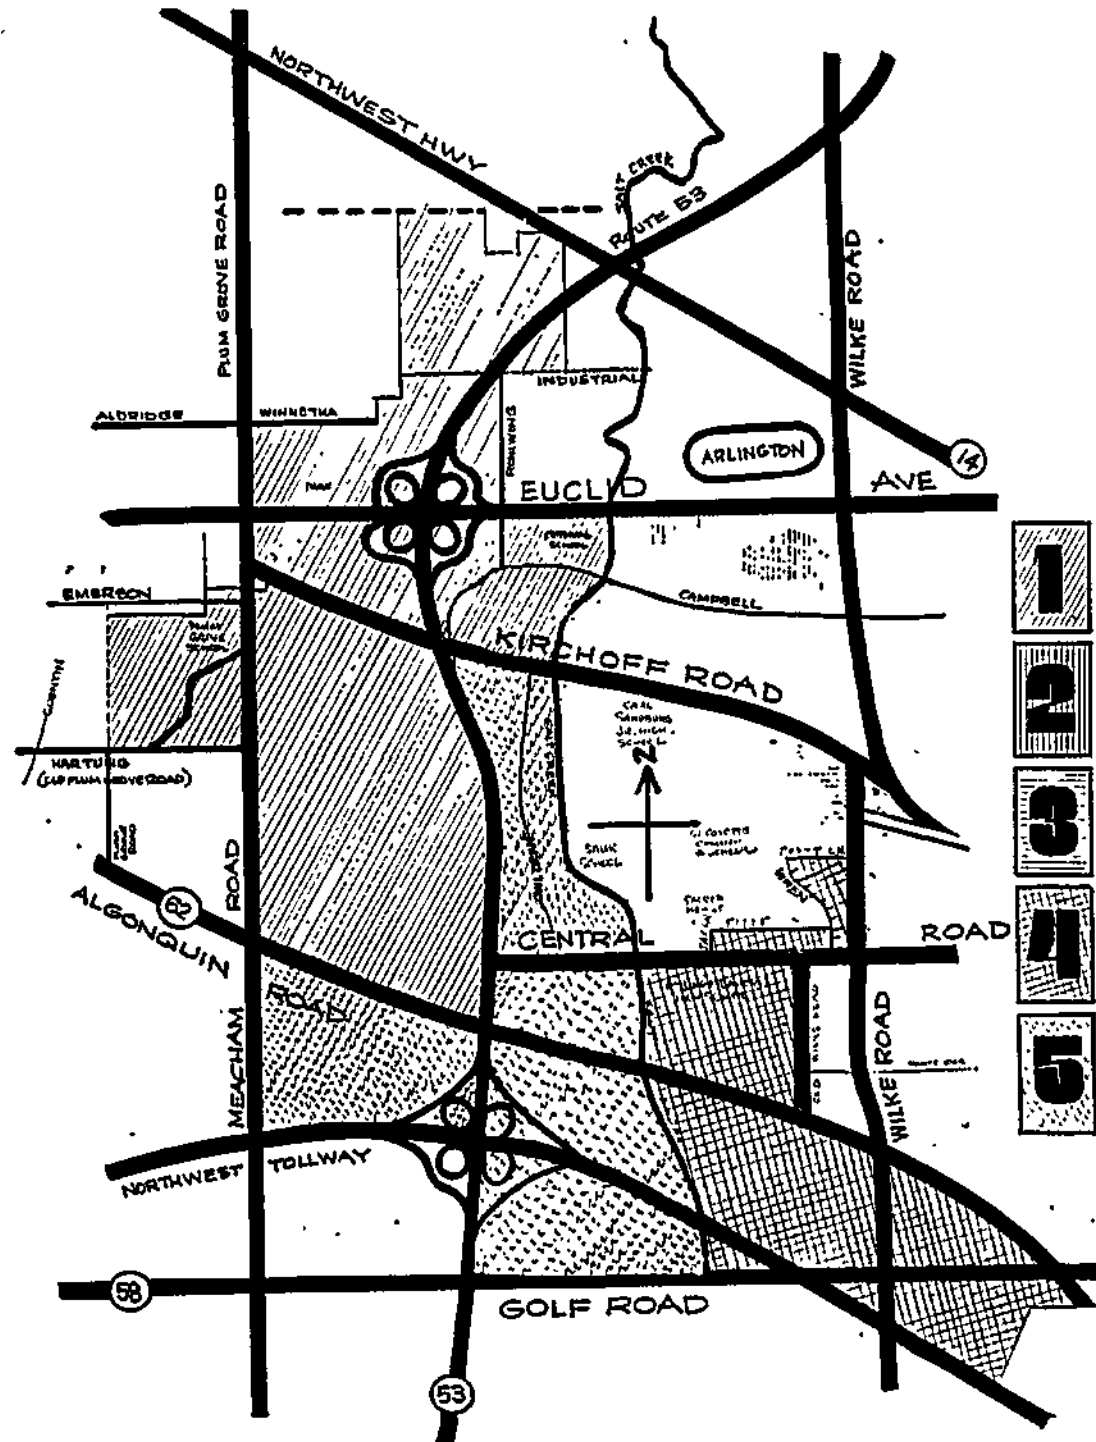

Bob Greco, a psychiatric social worker at the Northwest Human Resources Development Center, said the youth program provides 24 hour counseling service, emergency referral service, as well as intensive psychological therapy if needed.

"We have to accentuate the positive," the Rev. Carl Thrun, of Trinity Lutheran Church, told the members. "If the 129 families is true, we can quote 1,000 that we have served."

COMMITTEE chairman Rev. William Herman, from the Community Church of Rolling Meadows, said Father Fielding's concern was justifiable, but added that part of the reason assistance may be sought from the center is because residents are not familiar with the youth referral program.

"When the committee started we did not want publicity," Rev. Herman said. "But I think the time has come for us to start seeking more publicity and letting the community know what services we provide and in that way perhaps get more referrals."

The Youth Referral Program works with the Northwest Human Resources Development Center to provide counseling and referral assistance for troubled youth.

NEW WARD BOUNDARIES for Rolling Meadows were changed Tuesday when the city council approved a map drawn on the basis of population rather than on eligible voters. The map shows only slight changes in most wards. The extension of the 4th Ward north along Wren

Lane to Grouse Lane was included partly to insure keeping Ald. James Huddleston (4th) in his ward. The boundary changes were required to be made by Feb. 16 in order to prepare for the April 17 municipal election.

Showers

TODAY: Cloudy, showers changing to light snow. Colder, with a high in upper 40s. Chances for precipitation: 60 per cent.

SATURDAY: Partly cloudy. High 40-45.

3 arrested for $8,000 Sears theft

Schaumburg police arrested three persons in connection with the reported theft of more than $8,000 in merchandise from the Sears Roebuck and Company store in Woodfield.

The thefts were allegedly committed by the trio while employed at the Sears store.

Those charged in the incident are Nancy Somsel, 29, of 4720 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows; Mary Legg, 29, of 1531 Arlington Dr., Schaumburg; Kinball Abbott, 18, of 4633 Kirchoff Rd., Rolling Meadows. All three were charged with grand theft. They are scheduled to appear in court in Schaumburg on Feb. 14. Bond was set at $2,500 each.

Adding machines, stereo equipment, photography equipment, office machines, clothing, and other home appliances were reportedly taken from the store. Sears officials estimated the total loss at about $8,300.

The thefts took place between November of last year and January, 1973, Sears officials told police. The thefts were discovered by Sears security agents and police credit store officials with investigating the incident.

Schaumburg police were called in to make the arrests Wednesday evening and yesterday.

Miss Somsel and Mrs. Legg have been released on bond. Abbott had not paid the bond as of yesterday afternoon and remained in Schaumburg Police Department custody.

Ald. Weber seeks to retain seat

Ald. Daniel Weber (4th) will seek reelection to the Rolling Meadows City Council. Weber has been urged to run by neighbors in the 4th Ward.

Because residents in the ward circulated a nominating petition for Weber to encourage his candidacy, the 4th Ward incumbent needs only to file the petition at city hall by Feb. 12 to qualify for the April 17 election.

Before filing, however, Weber says he would like to get several more names on the document.

"There are about 36 names on but about 7 of those will not qualify because of redistricting," Weber said. Although the remaining names still provide the 26 needed for the petition, Weber said he would like to get several more names to insure the petition's validity in case of challenges.

Weber was appointed to the council by Mayor Roland Meyer in 1968 to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of former Ald. Edward Earley. Weber was elected to his own four-year term in 1969.

He currently serves as chairman of the council's streets, alleys, and utilities committee.

Weber's filing will make him the fifth incumbent to certify his reelection attempt. The four other aldermen seeking reelection are Merrill Wuerch (1st), Thomas Waldron (2nd), Stephen Eberhard (3rd), and Frederick Jacobson (5th).

No other petitions have been filed, however police and fire commission member Rudolf Balek has said he plans to oppose Jacobson for the 5th Ward seat. Balek is a former alderman who was defeated by Jacobson in 1969.

$1.1 million for current year

Public works budget expected to increase

The proposed 1973-74 budget for the Rolling Meadows public works department is expected to surpass the present $1.1 million department budget, Supt. of Public Works John Hennessy said yesterday.

The increase will be needed to offset the higher costs of providing services, he said.

During a 5 1/2-hour meeting of the city council streets, alleys, and utilities budget subcommittee Wednesday, most budget preparations were completed, committee chairman Ald. Daniel Weber (4th) said.

Weber termed the package "90 per cent complete." He said one more meeting should provide enough time to finalize details of the budget. The budget will probably be submitted to the full SAU committee at its next meeting Feb. 17 before its review by the finance committee, Weber said.

ALTHOUGH a total department figure has not been determined, Hennessy said a higher budget is likely because of rising costs for goods and services.

"Everything costs more," Hennessy said. "For example, garbage pickup costs have gone up 60 per cent. The reason for that goes into a number of things, including the way we live now."

"It seems that everything today is disposable, cartons, bags, bottles and many more. We don't fix things anymore, we throw them away," he said.

DESPITE THE expected budget increase, however, Weber contends there is no waste in the planned budget. "It's a very tight budget. There's no fat in it at all. We've attempted to have better cost figures and allocations of costs so that we can get a better picture of the budget and of future planning needs," he said.

"We took the approach that we would look at (the cost of) our projected programs for 1973-74 and went from there," he said. The budget can be altered, however, should the need arise for additional funds," Weber added.

"If, for example, in flood control we find areas that need additional work, we will go back to the city council to ask for additional funds either from the general corporate fund or from the federal revenue sharing funds," Weber said.

The public works department has already asked the council for $65,850 of the city's $177,000 revenue sharing purse for flood control. The money would be used to purchase television monitoring equipment for the city sewer system as well as an automatic sealer to repair underground sewer cracks and a vacuum to remove debris from the system.

Judging in the Miss Illinois Teenager contest is based on scholastic achievements, civic contributions, poise, personality and appearance.

Parish council gives people voice in policy

by JOANN VAN WYE

The church's position as an authoritarian institution has diminished in recent years as a shared responsibility between the clergy and laity for the total operation of the church has developed.

At St. Colette Church in Rolling Meadows the laity is represented by an elected 21-member Parish Council. The council acts as a liaison between the laity and the clergy and openly expresses the needs and desires of the laity.

"Before (the establishment of the council) I was aware of my need to be accountable to God and (John) Cardinal Cody, in that order. The council has made me aware of my need to be accountable to the people," said the Rev. Thomas Fielding of St. Colette Church.

"People were involved in the church before but it was more at the good feeling of the pastor. The Council serves as a symbol to the people that the doors are open and they can and are encouraged to become involved."

THE NUMBER OF families involved in church activities has increased since the formation of the council, according to Father Fielding. There are currently 350 families involved in church activities from the total parish of 1,600 families.

The parish council is the outgrowth of the Second Vatican Council's 1964 Constitution on the Church.

The proclamation stated, "Let pastors recognize and promote the dignity, as well as the responsibility of the laity in the church. Let them willingly employ their prudent advice. Let them confidently assign duties to them in the service of the church, allowing them freedom and room for action. Further, let pastors encourage lay people so that they may undertake tasks on their own initiative."

Using this as a directive, the Rev. James Halpin, former pastor of St. Colette Church, set up a five-member steering committee in 1967 and charged them with laying the foundation for a parish council.

The concept of lay participation in the parish was new at the time and it wasn't until 1969 that a plan of action was formulated and the first parish council organized at St. Colette Church. It was also the first parish council in this area.

THE PURPOSES of the parish council as outlined in its constitution and bylaws are:

- "To promote the best interest of the parish and to make recommendations for its good management and proper development;

- "To be a channel through which the affairs, concerns and desires of the total parish can be brought before clergy and laity;

- "To be responsible with the pastor to the assembly for the liturgical, financial, educational and social affairs of the parish, and to establish standing committees to implement these purposes."

Today, the council is fulfilling its purpose and affording an outlet for the laity to assist in the operation of the parish.

THE COUNCIL IS a wonderful and very significant development. It has helped develop greater communications and unity within the church, said Father Fielding.

"I have developed a greater admiration for the generosity of people once they have a feeling of responsibility. But, I have also become aware of the limits on their time and energy."

Book review slated for 'Legacy of Love'

Dr. William Bauer will review his book, "Legacy of Love: The Right to Mental Health" at 8 p.m. Feb. 15 at the Northwest Human Resources Development Center, 3000 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows.

This will be the third in a series of six one-night workshops sponsored by the Rolling Meadows Youth Referral Committee.

Dr. Bauer is resident psychiatrist and medical director of the resources center in Rolling Meadows. Dr. Bauer treats mental health as a basic right of man. He maintains that it is in sharing his problems with others, under professional guidance, that man often finds the road to emotional growth.

Persons may register for the workshop by calling 392-8773 or 392-8274. The registration fee is $2.50.

New state public health director may aid Schaumburg hospital plan

by STEVE BROWN

Proponents of the proposed Schaumburg branch of Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center may have gained an important ally with the replacement announced for Dr. Franklin Yoder, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health.

Dr. Joyce C. Lashof, 46, chairman of RPSL's department of preventive medicine, has been named to head the public health department.

The operating permit for the Schaumburg facility on the north side of Schaumburg Road, west of Roselle Road, has caused some controversy and is currently being studied by the Illinois Hospital Licensing Board. The board is an advisory body to the director, who has the final decision on all licensing requests. Some action of the Schaumburg application is expected when the board meets again in April.

Dr. Lashof yesterday said she was not familiar with all details of the Schaumburg facility or pending action before the state board.

"I feel that I need to become better informed on the situation before I make any comment," she explained.

DR. LASHOF IS the first woman named to head the state's top medical post. She has been with RPSL for 13 years.

Edward F. Blettner, chairman of the RPSL executive board said Dr. Lashof will retain her professorship with Rush Medical College.

Dr. Lashof intends to meet with Dr. Yoder next week in Springfield to discuss the changeover in the department, she said.

Her appointment is the second major state health position to be filled by RPSL personnel in the past week.

IT WAS ANNOUNCED earlier that Dr. Mark Lepper, dean of the Rush Medical College and executive vice president of the medical center, had been appointed director of the state's comprehensive health planning agency and coordinator of the state's health services.

Lepper's new post may also affect this area since state grants for health planning are made through that agency.

A $12,000 grant last year to the Northwest Cook County Health Needs Study Committee was used to fund a comprehensive study of the health needs of this area.

The results of the study, which recommended another hospital site, different from the RPSL site on Schaumburg Road, has sparked some controversy. The state hospital licensing board decided last month to wait until the report was concluded before taking action on the RPSL request for permits to build the Schaumburg facility.

The Northwest Cook County Health Needs Study Committee has indicated that it intends to plan further health studies for this area.

3 injured in auto accident Wednesday

Three Schaumburg residents were injured Wednesday in a traffic accident which occurred about 10 p.m. at Schaumburg Road and Salem Lane.

Police reported that cars driven by Joseph Ryan, 41, of 1512 Revere Ct., Schaumburg, and Mary Hill, 47, of 1301 Forestdale Ct., Schaumburg, collided. A passenger in Ryan's car, Rose Callahan, 43, was also injured.

A spokesman at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village said Ryan was being treated in the intensive care unit. He suffered scalp lacerations, and fractures of both shoulders and his right arm. Miss Callahan suffered multiple injuries. Both are listed in fair condition. Miss Hill was treated and released.

Police have not determined the cause of the accident. They are still investigating.

STORYTIME FOR youngsters in preschool program usually means a test of their imaginations. Here Marilyn Krug displays pictures to the class. Several youngsters are then asked to create their own story to go along with the illustrations.

Area parents rap boundary changes

Parents from the Sheffield Park area of Schaumburg and from Hanover Park spoke out last night against boundary changes for schools in Schaumburg Twp. Dist. 54.

Hanover Park sixth graders from Anne Fox School are to be bused to Jane Addams Junior High School next fall, according to a proposal, presented last night, but not yet approved by the board. Children from the Sheffield Park area who would ordinarily go to Jane Addams are being bused to Helen Keller Junior High School under the proposal. Some other Sheffield Park children are being bused back to schools in Hanover Park.

The parents objected to what they called "double busing," saying the district could operate more economically by keeping the Sheffield children at Addams.

The Sheffield parents said their youngsters had been split into four geographic areas and some said they wished to be considered one area and not Sheffield East or Sheffield West. Others suggested that only the Sheffield East students be sent to Keller School leaving those from Sheffield West at Addams.

OTHER QUESTIONS related to the busing of kindergarten students from Twinbrook School to Hillcrest School and to district plans to add to library facilities at Hillcrest. Some parents of Hillcrest children said they had waited four years for a learning center and still were being told to be patient.

Board Pres. Dianne Marks and Ronald Ruble, supervisor of personnel and transportation told the parents busing decisions were based on available classrooms and the number of children in a given grade level at any school. They agreed to try to incorporate some suggestions from the parents in revision of the plan, but Ruble said, "there is just not too much hope. There is not too far we can go."

Concerning the Hillcrest learning center Miss Marks told the parents funds for the library renovation would be included in a referendum anticipated in 1974 but that the rooms at the school are all now needed for classes. The expansion cannot be accomplished any sooner, she said.

Parents also questioned the district's 1½-mile minimum for providing busing. The board told parents of the sixth graders being sent to Keller School it would try to help them arrange a parent-paid bus to deliver children home following after school activities.

In some specific areas Ruble said the district is trying to secure easements or is hoping for the completion of sidewalks to eliminate the need for busing. But he said, if these are not available buses will be provided for children who must walk on dangerous roads even if they are within the 1½-mile radius included might be children walking to Keller along Bode Road or going to Eisenhower Junior High School if they walk along Hillcrest Boulevard.

Preschool teacher a Jill-of-all-trades

by STEVE BROWN

Teacher, decorator, supervisor, part-time witch and general jill-of-all-trades, all of these titles, plus a few more can be used to describe Marilyn Krug, the enthusiastic director of the Schaumburg Park District's preschool program.

While the preschool program is her chief concern, Marilyn said she is involved in many other programs.

"Usually they just yell my name when something needs to be done," she said, trying to explain the variety of programs she also works.

The preschool program is her first love, however, and she admits it takes more than just regular working hours to prepare the program.

"WE HAVE TO DO a lot of reading and planning just to keep up with all the new ideas that are being made available for preschool youngsters," she said.

She describes herself as an "effervescent person" who enjoys working with youngsters. A native of Sylacauga, Ala., "one of the greatest places on earth," Marilyn has been involved in the park district program for more than four years.

"I started helping just a few days a week, and when the former supervisor left, I was asked to take over the program," she explains.

DESPITE HOURS spent in planning and preparation, she says that the job has its rewards.

"When parents come back and say their child is doing well in kindergarten because of our program, you get a real feeling of satisfaction," she said.

"We are proud of the preschool, but much of the credit goes to the parents who have given us wonderful cooperation," Marilyn said, adding that without the help of the parents and park district officials the program might not be more than a babysitting service.

"They are all interested and involved and this makes the job much easier," she said.

IN ADDITION TO the preschool program, the mother of four is also responsible for supervising many of the district's evening activities. She also planned the holiday decorations for the Melneko Community Center and on Halloween played the role of a witch for the district's Haunted House.

Both the size and concept of the preschool program has expanded over the past few years.

"We are trying to bring more educational activities," she said.

"We stress the social development of the youngsters, because it is very important to get them to adjust to playing with others their own age and listening to direction," she said.

"These areas are most important in preparing a youngster for elementary school," she said.

3 nabbed in $8,000 Sears theft

Schaumburg police arrested three persons in connection with the reported theft of more than $8,000 in merchandise from the Sears Roebuck and Company store in Woodfield.

The thefts were allegedly committed by the trio while employed at the Sears store.

Those charged in the incident are Nancy Somers, 29, of 4720 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows; Mary Legg, 29, of 1531 Arlington Dr., Schaumburg; Kimball Abbott, 18, of 4833 Kirchhoff Rd., Rolling Meadows. All three were charged with grand theft. They are scheduled to appear in court in Schaumburg on Feb. 14. Bond was set at $2,500 each.

Adding machines, stereo equipment, photography equipment, office machines, clothing, and other home appliances were reportedly taken from the store. Sears officials estimated the total loss at about $8,000.

The thefts took place between November of last year and January, 1973 Sears officials told police. The thefts were discovered by Sears security agents and police credit store officials with investigating the incident.

Schaumburg police were called in to make the arrests Wednesday evening and yesterday.

Miss Somers and Mrs. Legg have been released on bond. Abbott had not paid the bond as of yesterday afternoon and remained in Schaumburg Police Department custody.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., has proposed legislation to require registration and licensing of all handguns.

The United States has received a Communist list of seven American POWs held in Laos. (Turn to page 10.)

Survivors of a United Air Lines jet which crashed in Chicago on Dec. 3, killing 43 persons, said the plane began to "shake and shudder" before it struck the ground, Washington safety experts said.

Amtrak officials reported an increasing number of passengers riding the trains... but said deteriorating track conditions threaten high-speed rail service.

Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi was improving but still in critical condition following a holdup outside his Washington home.

The state

The widow of Illinois Harness Racing Commissioner James Hayes has testified that her husband told her former Gov. Otto Kerner asked him in 1965 to change racing dates. (For other testimony see Page 2.)

Rep. Robert Mann, D-Chicago, will ask Gov. Daniel Walker to release $10 million in U.S. funds to help bail out the financially troubled CTA.

Gov. Daniel Walker contends he can hold the line on taxes in the state for the next four years despite predictions that education costs will push taxes higher.

The president of the 1,600-member Illinois Police Federation has strongly criticized David Fogel, and Jerome Miller as Governor Walker's nominations for top positions in the state penal system.

The world

A Catholic worker was killed and nine wounded in a grenade attack against a bus in Northern Ireland. Extremists warned the religious war may escalate.

Man indicted in drug smuggling case

A man who allegedly sold heroin to an undercover agent in the Holiday Inn at Mannheim Road and Touhy Avenue in Des Plaines is one of the 16 persons who was indicted in a smuggling conspiracy this week.

The man, Richard J. Kuney, 32, Boden, Pa., allegedly sold a quantity of heroin to an agent of the U.S. Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement on Oct. 19 at the Holiday Inn.

Kuney is one of the nine indicted persons whose names were released yesterday. He is in custody.

Des Plaines is named in the indictments as one of the distribution points for the smuggling ring whose members are charged with conspiring to smuggle $2 million in heroin from South Vietnam to Chicago and three other American cities.

THE RING reportedly included employees of a Texas company which has a defense contract for maintaining military aircraft in South Vietnam. U.S. military aircraft were allegedly used in transporting the heroin.

Others indicted were natives of India and one was a native of South Vietnam. U.S. officials were seeking custody of the non-Americans who were believed to be in South Vietnam.

The 7.85 pounds of heroin involved in the case was said to be 90 per cent pure. It was smuggled into the country inside television picture tubes aboard Military Assistance Command flights to California from South Vietnam.

The smuggling operation was first discovered by Chicago police who called federal agents into the case after learning of the international operation of the ring.

Other U.S. cities where the heroin was distributed included Los Angeles, Indianapolis, Ind., and Phoenix, Ariz.

Y offers wider camp program

Bicycling, canoeing and traveling will be incorporated into this summer's Twinbrook YMCA camping program, Dick Barnett, program director announced.

Since bicycling has become so popular, a seven-day bike trip into Wisconsin is scheduled. Junior high school boys and girls are welcome to participate.

A caravan excursion will also be offered to junior high boys and girls. One will be an all-male trip, the other co-ed. Barnett said a caravan is a traveling camp which uses a bus to transport the campers and equipment.

Nights are spent in state parks with interesting stops during the day, he added.

"In addition to our regular day camp, this summer we will offer a travel day camp," he said. "Instead of staying at the day camp site the kids will be bused to interesting places in the Chicago area," Barnett added.

The number of high school wilderness canoe trips has been increased to two this summer. Six days are spent canoeing in lakes in Minnesota, Barnett said.

Two weeks of residence camp will again be offered. "Since we don't own a camp of our own we rent other camps. All our own staff is taken and it works out great," he added. This summer a YMCA camp in Michigan and one in Iowa will be used.

School boundary foe not soothed by meeting

A High School Dist. 211 resident who led a protest last month against new attendance boundaries in Schaumburg Township was still protesting yesterday after a meeting with the district's director of research.

Arlene Czajkowski, a member of the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 School Board and a president of the Pleasant Hills subdivision in unincorporated Schaumburg Township, said she ended her meeting with Director of Research Marvin Plate after an hour.

The meeting was arranged after Mrs. Czajkowski and other residents of her area attended the last board meeting to protest a boundary change that would transfer their area from Schaumburg to Conant high schools.

Plate was scheduled to meet last night with representatives of Hanover Park, who have also protested boundary changes affecting their area.

MRS. CZAJKOWSKI, emphasizing that she is acting as a private citizen and not as a member of the Dist. 54 board, said she cut off the meeting with Plate because "his mind was completely closed. They are not about to listen to anybody."

Residents of Pleasant Hills, in appearing before the board last month, asked that their area be allowed to remain in the Schaumburg High School area because otherwise students attending the same elementary school will be separated and sent to different high schools.

After hearing the objections of residents of Pleasant Hills and of Hanover Park, the board suggested the groups meet with Plate and indicated they would listen to any alternative recommendations for boundaries coming from the meetings.

The residents of Hanover Park are protesting the fact their children will be moved from Schaumburg High School to the more distant Hoffman Estates and Conant high schools.

YESTERDAY Plate said of his meeting with Mrs. Czajkowski, "Arlene and I had a long talk and we couldn't agree. I felt very bad about that. She couldn't see my point of view and I couldn't see hers."

Mrs. Czajkowski also charged that Plate told her that her status of a member of Dist. 54 affected his attitude toward the requested boundary change.

"He told me that if they made any changes it would look like a Dist. 54 Board Member has clout with the Dist. 211 Board."

Plate refused to comment on that charge.

Rights for women discussion topic

State Rep. Robert Juckett (R-4th) and Henry Hyde (R-16th) will be featured tonight in a discussion of the proposed equal rights amendment for women.

The discussion will be held at the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township meeting, 8:30 p.m. at Campanelli School, 310 S. Springinguth Rd., Schaumburg.

The meeting will follow the close of the Hoffman Estates Republican convention, where the party's platform for the April village election is to be adopted. That session, continues from the group's December convention and is to start at 7:30 p.m.

Juckett and Hyde will speak against the amendment. Those favoring the amendment on the discussion panel have not been announced.

8-plank platform for Civic Party

The Civic Party of Hoffman Estates has pledged a "program of progress" in an eight-plank platform dealing with such current issues as unit school districts, equality of fire service and supervision of development and maintenance of multiple unit housing projects.

A number of the planks were anticipated. The party has previously raised issues of patronage, community cooperation and presidential appointments in meetings and platform hearings.

But not previously discussed in specific terms was the party's commitment to oppose plans for unit school district formation by splitting a portion of existing districts from their service areas.

Such action has been proposed by Schaumburg's Mayor Robert O. Atcher, who has urged formation of a citizen committee to finance a feasibility study of a unit school district for the Village of Schaumburg.

The CP platform deals pointedly with Atcher's proposal, although platform committee chairman Michael Redmond said yesterday the party did not intend to single out Atcher. The plank does relate to Atcher's plan, but "in an overall concern for that type of thing," said Redmond. "It is the same concern that was expressed four years ago" when Schaumburg officials first discussed forming a unit district, said Redmond. But the Schaumburg proposal "has taken a different, more aggressive posture," he said.

THE PLANK "is very definitely attributed to our concern for educational quality for our area," Redmond concluded. According to the platform, CP pledges to "actively resist any and all efforts to lower the quality of education through the formation of new or separate school districts at the elementary and high school level."

Another plank sets a party goal of bringing all areas of the village to a level of fire protection to provide "the same quality of service in regards to manpower, equipment and facilities."

Redmond said the plank does not commit CP to any stand on the question of whether the village should have a municipal fire department, or continue with the present system of several fire districts servicing different sections of Hoffman Estates.

"All residents of the village should share in sameness as far as quality. It is not good municipal government to have one area of the village serviced well and another serviced at less than the best level. There should be equal services for the residents," said Redmond. But he noted equality does not necessarily require one unified fire department. "It could be one, or it could be a couple of districts, if there would be a sameness in quality," he said.

OPPOSITION TO multiple housing developments "which have an adverse effect on traffic control and water supply" also is pledged in the platform. This plank did not relate to any particular development existing or pending in the village, said Redmond. "It is a general statement of concern that this be looked at and thought of at all times. We feel there are problems with roads, a lack of roads," he said.

The platform also promises protection to multiple unit residents "from inadequate building maintenance practices by landlords," said Redmond. The plank stems from experiences William Stukas, an attorney and candidate for trustee, has had in legal dealings with apartment tenants and landlords, Redmond added.

CP pledges hiring practices based on "individual merits only" and calls for the village to "vigorously resist any attempt of political parties to influence its action." Patronage is "against the interest of the residents," said the platform. Appointments to advisory boards and commissions are to be based on qualifications and will be representative of other taxing bodies in the village, according to the platform.

Other planks promise "quality services without increasing taxes during the next four years," efforts to build a rapport with other villages and governmental units and increased communication with residents. The heightened dialogue with taxpayers would be accomplished by greater accessibility of village officials, more frequent newsletters and periodic informal area meetings, states the platform.

Palatine balloonists seek new thrills

'Up, up and away' with the Shaws

by MARCIA KRAMER

The neighbors are going to have a tough time keeping up with Wayne and Carole Shaw. The Palatine couple became the first family on the block — and possibly the first in the Northwest suburbs — to go out and get themselves a balloon.

Not the birthday party variety, mind you, but a full-fledged three seater (stander, actually) that whisks them above the treetops, away from the noise and congestion below, in whichever direction the wind happens to take them.

The Shaws just happen to like that "up, up and away" feeling. Ballooning, to them, is "an aesthetically appealing way of flying. It's almost like they're rolling the world around beneath you."

Wayne (you can call him Capt. Flagg) hasn't quite gotten over his first ballooning experience last summer. "Higher than a kite," he describes himself. "I didn't actually come down, mentally, until about a week later."

BUT BY the time his feet had reached the ground, he and his wife had decided to invest in a balloon of their own.

The cost: $11,000. "We got all the options," Shaw said "... brie brace, interior lighting, feathering equipment ... You can pick up a balloon for as little as $6,000.

Ballooning is a profit-making venture for the Shaws, at least until they've paid off their hefty investment by teaching ballooning skills or anchoring the Zeppelin in a parking lot with an advertisement on its side.

But they got into it more as a hobby, a sport, "an acceptable way of being a little kid again."

Most aeronauts, or balloonists, take a similar sporting view. The races aren't known for their competition as much as for their fun, and the purses are little more than token.

EVEN THE concept of a race is contrary to the usual image of ballooning as a leisurely-paced sport, an 80-day journey around the world. Ballooning is not so much a means of transportation as a way "to get away from it all."

"The initial reaction of a lot of people is, 'You're crazy,'" says Shaw. "Like 'you're sitting up there, a couple thousand feet, in a dinky little gondola.'"

But the gondola, or basket, and the cross-stitched nylon balloon are really "quite strong," and balloonists have a good safety record. There have been a couple of fatalities and many more instances of landing in treetops, but as the Shaws put it: "You're as safe as you make it."

To be sure, they do carry insurance for damage to the balloon — which they have dubbed "Eagle II" for no apparent reason — as well as to other people's property. As added insurance, they keep a 250-foot rope in the gondola in case they stray off course and need to be pulled to a suitable landing spot. And if all else fails, there's always the traditional bottle of champagne to offer the chagrined farmer whose crops were smashed.

It's unlikely that the Shaws will ever land on your front lawn. They plan to do their ballooning around Long Grove and points west, or perhaps south of Chicago. The idea, of course, is to stay away from heavily populated areas and, not incidentally, to stay out of the O'Hare jet paths.

NOT-AIR balloons such as the Shaws don't figure to get too close to airplanes.

The balloons generally drift at an altitude of 500 feet, at whatever speed the wind happens to be blowing. Balloonists don't go up unless the wind is less than 12 mph.

When they do venture above the treetops, it's no simple matter. Flames and hot air — about 250 degrees — are blown into the balloon by devices similar to Bunsen burners. The balloon itself measures 70 feet tall, and 50 feet across.

When it comes time to land, usually after two to three hours, some of the hot air is gradually let out of the balloon. The landing is "pretty hard," Shaw says, "but not really any harder than a parachutist would land."

He's had his share of ups and downs. Shaw was a marine helicopter pilot for four years, including a stint in Vietnam.

LATER, as an architect, "I missed flying." A late night talk show interview with one of the country's foremost balloonists convinced the Shaws to take up the sport.

Next year, after "Capt. Flagg" obtains his Federal Aviation Administration license, the Shaws plan to enter national and world ballooning championships.

What's next? "Well," mused Carole Shaw, "I've always wanted to take up parachuting."

Village board meets change for holidays

Holidays will disrupt the schedule of Hoffman Estates Village Board meetings in February.

Because Feb. 12, Abraham Lincoln's Birthday, falls on a Monday, the regularly scheduled meeting for that night will be held Feb. 13. Also, with Feb. 19, George Washington's Birthday, coming on the following Monday, the regularly scheduled meeting for that night will be held Feb. 20.

Normal meeting schedules will resume with Monday night meetings starting Feb. 26.

Collins students join birthday book club

Children at Michael Collins School, 417 S. Summit Dr., Schaumburg, are joining the Birthday Book Club, formed by the Parent Teacher Association.

To join the club, a student donates a new or used book in good condition to the Michael Collins library on their birthday. The PTA will inscribe each book with the donor's name and birthdate.

The PTA hopes the club will help increase the volume of books in the Library Learning Center as well as create a greater interest in reading.

The following children have joined the club: Susan Reinbold, John Barone, Bettina Hoold, Margaret Bassitt, Bonnie Leaf, Kristine Kittle, Angellique Vidra, Michael Doherty, Scott Keegan, Chris Reisser.

Others are Ray Reisser, Julia Freeman, Steve Antoskiak, Scott Antoskiak, Robert Hanlon, Daniel Hanlon, Leah Tripp, Thomas Garbacz and Michael Cimino.

Fire district to study its financial situation

After considering eliminating everything including the kitchen sink from the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District's third fire station, the district's board of trustees decided to restudy its financial situation before awarding contracts next week.

Elimination of the kitchen sink, along with cabinets and a host of other items was suggested by the district's architects Wednesday as a means of reducing the cost of the station which has been delayed almost two years. Initial bids for the project were $80,000 to $100,000 more than the district had estimated.

While the board did not officially accept or reject any of the architect's proposals. It appears as though the sink and several major items will remain.

Among the other items suggested for elimination were emergency generator, air-conditioning, concrete drive ways and asphalt parking areas and carpeting, and numerous construction changes.

THE BOARD will apparently not delete the generator, which would supply power for radios in case of a blackout, air-conditioning permanent driveways and several other items.

The acceptable deductions would bring the price of the station down to about $302,853, about $50,000 above original estimates.

Board members stated that while that figure is not the best it appears to be livable for the district.

"We want to reexamine the financial condition of the district before we make any final decisions," said board member William Brillant.

A FINAL decision will be made by the board Monday at 8 p.m. at fire station number one, 160 Flagstaff Ln., Hoffman Estates.

The apparent low bidders are Aspen Construction, general contractor; Stompanato Plumbing, plumbing contractor; Wagner Heating, mechanical contractor; and Vern Smith Electric, electrical contractor.

Funds for the station, which will be located on the south side of Higgins Road and Governor's Lane, were approved in a referendum on March 27, 1971. Continual revisions of construction plans by the Robins Construction Co., which donated the site for the facility, and bad weather have been cited as the major reasons behind the delays.

New CAP board names Bachhuber as president

Richard Bachhuber, High School Dist. 214 Board member, was chosen president of the Mount Prospect Community Action Plan Wednesday night by the plan's new board of directors.

CAP, a nonprofit corporation, was officially reorganized with a 24-member board of directors and a seven-member executive committee. Members of the two boards represent local civic, religious and charitable organizations invited by Mayor Robert Teichert to become part of CAP's governing board.

Unit school study will continue

The Citizens' Reorganization Study Committee for Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 voted overwhelmingly last night to continue its unit district (grades kindergarten through 12) feasibility study.

The vote came despite a recommendation by the citizen's group's states and legal aspects subcommittee to suspend the study. The subcommittee proposed that the citizens' group join with High School Dist. 214 in its study of the feasibility of forming a unit district in the Northwest suburbs.

The subcommittee also recommended that the Dist. 59 study be suspended until two court cases that could change the financing of unit and dual districts are decided.

One case, in the federal district court in Chicago challenges the constitutionality of the state's providing more state aid to unit than to dual districts. The other, now before the supreme court claims that the disparity in financing is discriminatory and violates the 14th Amendment.

THE CITIZEN'S group also voted for an extension of the March 1 deadline for its final recommendation to the Dist. 59 school board. The unit district steering committee, composed of the chairmen of the group's five subcommittees will decide on a new deadline.

After the vote, the committee discussed four alternate boundaries for a unit district. At Herald press time, however, no decision on which boundary would be the most suitable for a unit district was made.

The four alternatives that were considered for a unit district are:

•Elk Grove Village unit, formed by splitting the present Dist. 59 along the Northwest Tollway.

•A unit of the present boundaries of Dist. 59. This would probably take in Elk Grove and Forest View high schools.

•Making Dist. 214 a unit district.

The board of directors will meet semi-annually; the executive committee is scheduled to meet once a month. Other members of the executive committee are Chuck Bennett, Mount Prospect Jaycees, vice president; Pat Piper, former CAP board member; secretary; Anne Franklin, Mount Prospect Nurses Club, treasurer; George Matzke, Lions Club; Gil Liebenow, Northwest Suburban YMCA, and Cheryl Osowski, Mount Prospect Newcomers Club.

FORMER CAP director Bob Day and CAP Board member the Rev. Robert Mathews said they would serve on the board of directors but not on the executive committee.

"I think we did a lot of work and now it's time for others," Day said. "Of course, I will make myself available at any time." Rev. Mathews agreed it was time "for others to get involved."

Bachhuber, 57, has been involved in CAP since it started two years ago as a program to combat Mount Prospect's social ills, primarily drug abuse. A resident of Mount Prospect since 1959, he has served on the high school board for eight years and is currently its secretary. A semi-retired electrical engineer, he has four children and lives at 625 S. Edward St.

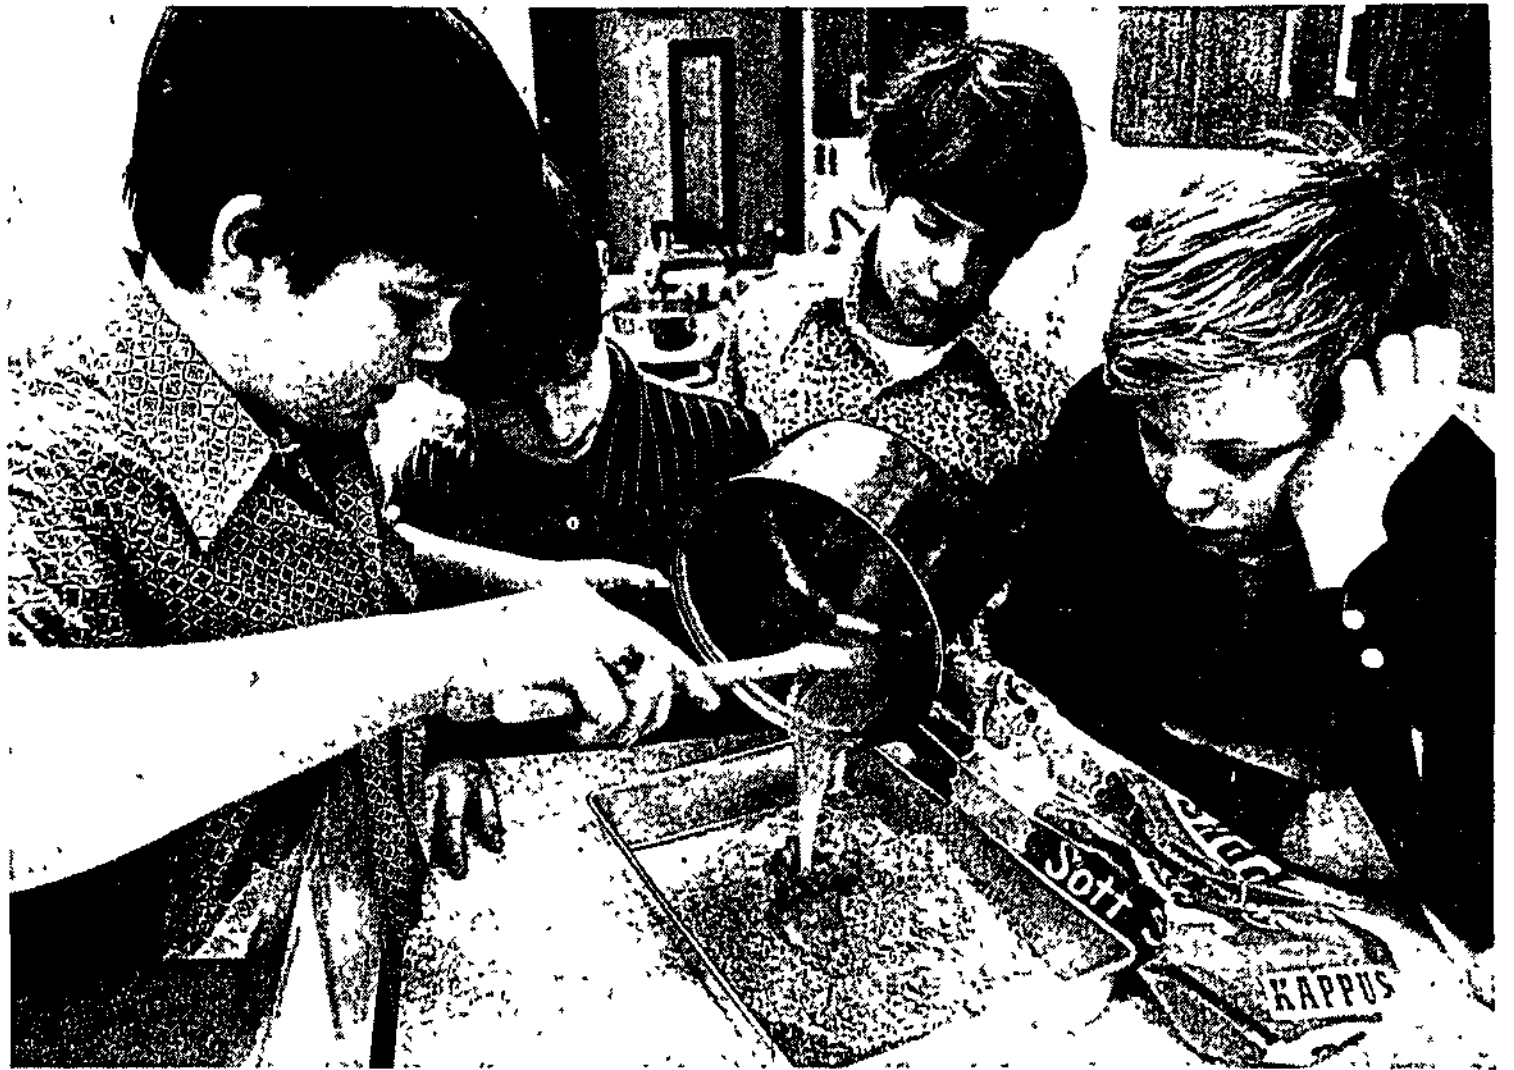

According to CAP's bylaws, the board of directors will meet on the last day of March and the last day of September. The executive committee will hold its first meeting Feb. 21.

"We hope to get organized and let those involved get a feeling for what's going on with CAP and what has been going on in the past," Bachhuber said. "We should set our goals. We won't be limited to past ideas for programs if we can find ones better than that. And we will take ideas from wherever we can get them."

CAP ALREADY has started the Pump House Hotline, a telephone crisis intervention center; ICE House, a counseling and information center; and a youth in government program. Ideas for other programs that have not been implemented include a youth association, community education program, police-youth program, youth newspaper, school drug education program, a high school drug corps and an extensive drug survey in Mount Prospect.

The village has taken financial and administrative control of the ICE House and Pump House, but Bachhuber stressed that the CAP board should still

Junior chefs whip up delicacies

by KAREN BLECHIA

If you peek in the foods lab at MacArthur Junior High School in Prospect Heights and find boys whipping up a cheesecake, don't be surprised. They're learning how to survive — in the kitchen.

Spaghetti, garlic bread, baked beans, hot dog specials, tuna-noodle casserole, muffins and fudge are also on the young chefs' menus. The food has to be good; the boys must eat whatever they make.

"Some of the boys — and most of them are 'all boy' — knew how to cook. But with the others I really had to teach the basics; they didn't know a paring knife from a teaspoon," said Joan Goins, teacher of the class entitled survival cooking.

SURVIVAL COOKING, which meets twice a week, is only one of many non-graded, extracurricular courses students at MacArthur can choose from. Under a program called Mini Unit Experience (MUE for short), students are also learning how to play bridge, make candles and build model homes.

For 40 minutes each day, MacArthur students get away from the usual academic routine. They can choose from up to 70 mini-unit courses, designed by teachers and Principal Gerald McGovern. John Muir School, another Dist. 23 school, has a similar elective program where students get a change once a week.

"MUE is not just to give us a break during the day, but to broaden our horizons and get new experiences," said

McGovern. "It gets us away from the books."

One of the most popular mini-units is "Night Gallery," where students read and write mystery stories and tales of the supernatural. Other popular units are "What's So Funny?" where students study humorous writing, including cartoons; "Sports Trivia," modern dance, and interior decorating. Students can test their strategy at war games and try out their chemistry skills in "Mad Scientists."

"WE'RE ALLOWING students and teachers to be mutually happy, and it's not costing the district an extra ticket," McGovern said. According to McGovern, teachers decide what courses they want to teach. Often they choose their hobbies. Time for the mini-units has been made by taking part of the school day and combining it with a part of the lunch hour.

Some of the teachers are learning new hobbies along with their students. Dan Hansen, who teaches the photography unit, is one of them.

"I always wanted to learn so I figured this was a great time to do it," Hansen said. "It's not my favorite hobby, but I am interested in it."

In Hansen's mini-unit, which often resumes after-school, students learn how to shoot, develop, print and enlarge pictures with the school's equipment. Once qualified, students can take pictures for the yearbook or newspaper. They also make prints for other students who can have a photo for 25 cents.

AT MUIR SCHOOL, the custodian and secretary also get into the act. Mr. John, the custodian, teaches a course on how to use basic tools. Rosemary Roth, secretary, teaches "Bozo's Circus," a creative dramatics unit including pantomime.

Fourth and fifth graders have had an elective program at Muir for 24 years; kindergarten through third graders began taking part in the program last month.

"The primary grades enjoyed it. After the first session, they were asking, 'When will we do it again?'" said James Finke, principal. "It's not all fun and games, the kids are actually learning from the activities."

Moody Glee Club to sing at church

The Moody Men's Glee Club from Moody Bible Institute will perform at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Mount Prospect Bible Church, 505 W. Golf Rd., Mount Prospect.

The public is invited to the concert. Admission is free. An offering will be collected.

The touring glee club is made up of 38 students from the Bible Institute. Their winter and spring tours taken them all over the United States and Canada. They have made numerous radio appearances.

Primary electives, which are held once a week like the fourth and fifth grades, included basic French, Spanish, learning how to play games, working with creative drama.

Fourth and fifth graders can select from courses including cartooning, palmistry, chemistry, sewing, paper tolle and hor d'oeuvres preparation.

"We decided to try electives when futurists said people would have a lot more free time in the future," Finke said. "We wanted to show kids how to use their time well."

Police will get new locker room

Mount Prospect policemen may soon get a new locker room.

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley said yesterday plans are under way to convert a recently purchased garage to a new locker room for policemen. The garage is behind the recently purchased building at 108-110 E. Northwest Hwy., next to the current village hall and police station.

Six policemen do not now have lockers, Eppley said. With heat and insulation installed, he said he believes the three-bay garage would prove an adequate, temporary location. The garage would be used until the village expands its municipal facilities.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., has proposed legislation to require registration and licensing of all handguns.

The United States has received a Communist list of seven American POWs held in Laos. (Turn to page 10.)

Survivors of a United Air Lines jet which crashed in Chicago on Dec. 3, killing 43 persons, said the plane began to "shake and shudder" before it struck the ground, Washington safety experts said.

Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi was improving but still in critical condition following a holdup outside his Washington home.

The state

The widow of Illinois Harness Racing Commissioner James Hayes has testified that her husband told her former Gov. Otto Kerner asked him in 1965 to change racing dates. (For other testimony see Page 2.)

Rep. Robert Mann, D-Chicago, will ask Gov. Daniel Walker to release $10 million in U.S. funds to help bail out the financially troubled CTA.

Gov. Daniel Walker contends he can hold the line on taxes in the state for the next four years despite predictions that education costs will push taxes higher.

The president of the 1,600-member Illinois Police Federation has strongly criticized David Fogel, and Jerome Miller as Governor Walker's nominations for top positions in the state penal system.

Citizens attending Monday's Dist. 57 school board meeting will find something livelier than the usual talk-filled agenda. "Coo's Blues," "Goin' Out of My Head," "Totem Pole," and other swinging numbers will be played by the Lincoln Junior High School Jazz Band. This 40-member group is led by Dave Metzler.

This is the way the band, sponsored by the Mount Prospect Music Boosters, has chosen to report its progress to the school board. Some fifth grade beginning band students enrolled in the extracurricular program will also take part.

Many of the numbers are ones the youngsters will play in tomorrow's Oak Lawn Jazz Festival. Their band is one of 10 junior high school bands entered in the annual competition. The Prospect High School Jazz Band, led by Douglas Wilder, will also compete in the contest's high school division.

Monday night's concert-meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Fairview School multipurpose room, 300 N. Fairview Ave.

AT FIRST the creature bounding around the backyard at 21 S. Edward St. looked like a big gray rat. After an hour's chase by Mike, Laura, and Tommy LaTurno, Rob Pelican, and Phil Higley, it turned out to be a big possum.

Mr. Possum spent the night in the LaTurno basement — safely housed in a garbage can. When his unpleasant disposition became apparent, however, the children freed him.

"We would have taken him to the forest preserve," explained Mrs. L. C. LaTurno, "but I was afraid he'd get loose in the car. He was the ugliest looking thing."

PEGGY SEICK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gloss of 1803 Lincoln Ave., has completed her training as an airline stewardess. She is now based in Miami, Fla., working for Air Florida, a division of Pan American. Peggy is a 1971 graduate of Forest View High School.

HERALD readers are something special! One kind lady, after reading last Friday's column about my nontyping new typewriter, called to offer to lend me hers.

A number of other readers called to ask the name of the office machine and equipment dealer in Arlington Heights which sold this unsatisfactory machine. I'll be happy to pass along this information to anyone who calls. Right now we're waiting to hear the result of our complaint to the Chicago Better Business Bureau. I'll let you know the outcome.

"LIFE," the musical about Christ's life, will be given at 8:45 and 11 a.m. Sunday at South Church, 501 S. Emerson St. Local teenagers from many different churches make up the 75-member group. They will give the program again Monday Feb. 12, at 8 p.m. at St. Raymond Catholic Church, 300 S. Elmhurst.

THE REV. Kenneth Granquist, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights, recently attended a two-week clinic on the Bethel Series Bible study program in Madison, Wis.

In the 13-year history of the clinics, more than 2,000 congregations representing 18 church denominations, have participated. Following the sessions, pastors and Christian education directors return home to train people in their churches to lead Bethel Bible study groups. The 40-week study program emphasizes Biblical understanding and relevance to everyday life.

'Light bugs' exterminated

Those new traffic lights at the intersection of Northwest Highway and Central Road in Mount Prospect have had a few bugs in them, but Village Engineer Leonard H. Dicke said they are being removed.

One major problem has already been corrected. When the new lights were first turned on they did not give priority to east-west Central Road traffic after a train crossed the intersection. After a train passed, traffic on Northwest Highway continued to get a green light for several minutes.

The other major flaw still has to be corrected. Dicke said that traffic traveling northwest on Prospect Avenue could wait at the intersection and never get a green light. It seems the traffic detector on Prospect has been placed under the spot where the train gate comes down. Most cars do not get that close to the intersection, Dicke said, because their drivers do not want to risk the car getting hit by the gate.

Dicke said the detector will be set back further on Prospect Avenue. Work orders for the change are already before the Illinois Highway Department.

For awhile there were traffic backups toward the southeast along Northwest Highway from the intersection during the evening rush hour. This has apparently lessened.

The new lights were put in to cut the number of accidents and reduce the chance of serious injuries at the intersection. A cross-walk signal was also installed.

Hamilton Mint told to stop making inaugural plates

A circuit court order has been issued forbidding the Hamilton Mint of Arlington Heights from producing presidential inaugural picture plates.

U. D. District Court Judge Frank J. McGarr issued the temporary restraining order after a suit filed by the Inaugural Committee 1973 of Washington D.C. and the Franklin Mint Co. of Pennsylvania.

The plates contain portraits of President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and the official presidential seal. The restraining order has been continued until Feb. 7.

Bob Rayunas, vice president of Hamilton Mint, said yesterday the firm has temporarily stopped producing the presidential commemoratives but other production continues at the plant, 40 E. University Dr.

"We are fighting this with our legal people," Rayunas said. "We're not claiming to have anything official."

The Franklin Mint is the nation's largest privately owned mint and according to Rayunas is in competition with the Hamilton Mint.

Hugh Magill receives Eagle Scout award

H. Hugh Magill of Mount Prospect will become an Eagle Scout during a court of honor set for 7:30 tonight at St. Mark Lutheran Church, 200 S. Wille, Mount Prospect.

Magill, 16, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Magill of 507 S. Main St., Mount Prospect. He is a sophomore at Prospect High School.

One of the requirements for promotion to Eagle Scout is a community project. For his project, Magill worked on landscaping at the Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights. Magill is a member of Boy Scout Troop 51, sponsored by St. Mark church.

Palatine balloonists seek new thrills

'Up, up and away' with the Shaws

by MARCIA KRAMER

The neighbors are going to have a tough time keeping up with Wayne and Carole Shaw. The Palatine couple became the first family on the block — and possibly the first in the Northwest suburbs — to go out and get themselves a balloon.

Not the birthday party variety, mind you, but a full-fledged three seater (stander, actually) that whisks them above the treetops, away from the noise and congestion below, in whichever direction the wind happens to take them.

The Shaws just happen to like that "up, up and away" feeling. Ballooning, to them, is "an aesthetically appealing way of flying. . . it's almost like they're rolling the world around beneath you."

Wayne (you can call him Capt. Flagg) hasn't quite gotten over his first ballooning experience last summer. "Higher than a kite," he describes himself. "I didn't actually come down, mentally, until about a week later."

BUT BY the time his feet had reached the ground, he and his wife had decided to invest in a balloon of their own.

The cost: $11,000. "We got all the options," Shaw said. . . . bric brac, inter-floor lighting, teathering equipment. . . . You can pick up a balloon for as little as $8,000.

Ballooning is a profit-making venture for the Shaws, at least until they've paid off their hefty investment by teaching ballooning skills or anchoring the Zeppelin in a parking lot with an advertisement on its side.

But they got into it more as a hobby, a sport, "an acceptable way of being a little kid again."

Most aeronauts, or balloonists, take a similar sporting view. The races aren't known for their competition as much as for their fun, and the purses are little more than tokens.

EVEN THE concept of a race is contrary to the usual image of ballooning as a leisurely-paced sport, an 80-day journey around the world. Ballooning is not so much a means of transportation as a way "to get away from it all."

"The initial reaction of a lot of people is, 'You're crazy,'" says Shaw. "Like you're sitting up there, a couple thousand feet, in a dinky little gondola."

But the gondola, or basket, and the cross-stitched nylon balloon are really "quite strong," and balloonists have a good safety record. There have been a couple of fatalities and many more instances of landing in treetops, but as the Shaws put it: "You're as safe as you make it."

To be sure, they do carry insurance for damage to the balloon — which they have dubbed "Eagle II" for no apparent reason — as well as to other people's property. As added insurance, they keep a 250-foot rope in the gondola in case they stray off course and need to be pulled to a suitable landing spot. And if all else fails, there's always the traditional bottle of champagne to offer the chagrined farmer whose crops were smashed.

It's unlikely that the Shaws will ever land on your front lawn. They plan to do their ballooning around Long Grove and points west, or perhaps south of Chicago. The idea, of course, is to stay away from heavily populated areas and, not incidentally, to stay out of the O'Hare jet paths.

NOT-AIR balloons such as the Shaws don't figure to get too close to airplanes. The balloons generally drift at an altitude of 500 feet, at whatever speed the wind happens to be blowing. Balloonists don't go up unless the wind is less than 12 mph.

When they do venture above the treetops, it's no simple matter. Flames and hot air — about 250 degrees — are blown into the balloon by devices similar to Bunsen burners. The balloon itself measures 70 feet tall, and 50 feet across.

When it comes time to land, usually after two to three hours, some of the hot air is gradually let out of the balloon. The landing is "pretty hard," Shaw says, "but not really any harder than a parachutist would land."

He's had his share of ups and downs. Shaw was a marine helicopter pilot for four years, including a stint in Vietnam.

LATER, as an architect, "I missed flying." A late night talk show interview with one of the country's foremost balloonists convinced the Shaws to take up the sport.

Next year, after "Capt. Flagg" obtains his Federal Aviation Administration license, the Shaws plan to enter national and world ballooning championships.

What's next? "Well," mused Carole Shaw, "I've always wanted to take up parachuting."

Man indicted in drug smuggling case

A man who allegedly sold heroin to an undercover agent in the Holiday Inn at Mannheim Road and Touhy Avenue in Des Plaines is one of the 16 persons who was indicted in a smuggling conspiracy this week.

The man, Richard J. Kuney, 32, Bodden, Pa., allegedly sold a quantity of heroin to an agent of the U.S. Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement on Oct. 19 at the Holiday Inn.

Kuney is one of the nine indicted persons whose names were released yesterday. He is in custody.

Des Plaines is named in the indictments as one of the distribution points for the smuggling ring whose members are charged with conspiring to smuggle $2 million in heroin from South Vietnam to Chicago and three other American cities.

THE RING reportedly included employees of a Texas company which has a defense contract for maintaining military aircraft in South Vietnam. U.S. military aircraft were allegedly used in transporting the heroin.

Others indicted were natives of India and one was a native of South Vietnam. U.S. officials were seeking custody of the non-Americans who were believed to be in South Vietnam.

The 7.65 pounds of heroin involved in the case was said to be 90 per cent pure. It was smuggled into the country inside television picture tubes aboard Military Assistance Command flights to California from South Vietnam.

The smuggling operation was first discovered by Chicago police who called federal agents into the case after learning of the international operation of the ring.

Other U.S. cities where the heroin was distributed included Los Angeles, Indianapolis, Ind., and Phoenix, Ariz.

Dads take active part in Girl Scouting

by JOANN VAN WYE

The Girl Scout ranks are being invaded by fathers who want to be active participants in their daughters' scouting activities.

This month several fathers will be representing their daughters' troops and knocking on the doors of other Girl Scout families.

The fathers are participants in the Girl Scout sustaining membership enrollment drive, which will be started Feb. 16 by the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County. While not all of the SME representatives will be men, the Girl Scouts have encouraged male participation as a means by which the fathers can get involved.

Two fathers are serving as SME co-chairman in Palatine this year. It will be the second year as co-chairman for Larry Anderson of 961 Arrowhead, Palatine, who has two daughters in scouting. He was recruited by 1973 SME Council Chairman Warren Coughlin, who is in his car pool, while on the way to work one morning.

PHIL McDONALD, 939 N. Stark, Palatine, is serving with Anderson as co-chairman. McDonald, who has one daughter in scouting, was a troop leader for his daughter's troop during last year's drive.

Before, I used to see my daughter in her uniform at breakfast and that was it. Taking part in the drive has been a pleasant experience and it has helped me in communicating with my daughter.

"When you are sold on something, it is fun to see if you can sell it to someone else," McDonald said.

The SME drive is one of four major fund-raising activities conducted by the Girl Scouts. The drive was started about five years ago when the amount of money the Girl Scouts received from the United Fund started becoming a fixed figure.

This year the Northwest Cook County Girl Scout Council hopes to raise approximately $30,000 from the SME drive. The goal for Palatine is 3,100 but since $3,900 was raised last year in Palatine, the co-chairmen are shooting for a larger goal of more than $4,000.

THERE ARE 2,059 girls in 79 Girl Scout troops in Palatine. Most families in Palatine with Girl Scouts will be contacted personally between Feb. 16 and March 2 and asked to contribute. The council has a goal of $10 from each family.

Larry Anderson

Anderson explained the SME drive is preferred to a hike in membership dues because the council does not want to discourage any girls from scouting by raising the membership fee.

The SME funds are not earmarked for a particular phase of scouting but will be used to help support NORWESCO and Happy Hollow Girl Scout camps.

be interested in the two projects. "If you have any suggestions on how to make them better, please make them," he told the board of directors.

Bachhuber said the executive committee will not be concerned about funds since "our need for money will probably be quite minimal." Teichert said Wednesday that a $3,600 bill for hotline volunteer training and CAP organizational meetings at Forest Hospital in Des Plaines will not be passed on to the new CAP committee.

"I will work out a compromise with the hospital and I will solicit donations myself so the bill won't be passed on to CAP," Teichert said.

Teichert, who brought the idea for CAP to Mount Prospect, told board members that "CAP should be a viable plan — one that can grow. It is not necessarily geared for youth; it should also look to the senior citizens. It's your baby to mold or put together as you see fit."

THE IDEA OF establishing an advisory group like the board of directors came last July when Day and the CAP board were criticized for ineffective leadership and failure to raise funds for the program.

Organizations participating on the board include the Rotary Club, Mount Prospect State Bank, Mount Prospect Center of Infant Welfare, St. Raymond's Senior Citizens Club, Euclid-Lake Homeowners Association, Business and Professional Woman's Club, Garden Club, Castle Heights Homeowners, Elk Ridge Homeowners, Mount Shire Homeowners, the Multigraphics division of the Addressograph-Multigraph Corp., Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club and the Extensioneers.

Restaurant cuts prices for elderly

One Mount Prospect restaurant owner has already instituted daily, reduced price meals for senior citizens.

At The Starlite Coffee Cup, 10 N. Main St., senior citizens now get 25 per cent off meals purchased between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Officials of another restaurant, the Thunderbird on Rand Road, has announced it too will have meals for the elderly at a 10 per cent reduction soon. For some time Scandia House Smorgasbord, 1018 Mount Prospect Plaza, has had a Monday night special for seniors where a $2.26 meal costs $1.67.

Village health officer Majorie Boswell has been trying for several weeks to set up a village-wide program of daily, low-cost hot meals for the elderly. She has hoped to get as many as 25 restaurants to participate so that almost every senior citizen resident would have a restaurant to go to within walking distance.

Surprisingly, the Starlight program was started independently of Mrs. Boswell's efforts. Owner Matt Mores said that on a recent trip to Temple City, Calif. he saw such a program in operation and thought it was worth trying out.

"I THOUGHT it would be a good idea and then I came back and picked up a paper and saw that Mrs. Boswell wanted to start such a program," he said yesterday. He had intended to start his own program and that is why he is now the first to actually offer the elderly the low-cost daily meals.

Mores said that anyone with a Social Security card or other proof of age will be served at the Starlite Coffee Cup. He said age was the only limiting factor and people from communities other than Mount Prospect would be served. Scandia House likewise has no residency requirement.

The total of restaurants now that have indicated a willingness to join the meal program, or already are doing so, is nine. Mrs. Boswell will send out letters today to some 25 restaurants asking whether they wish to participate, their type of food and price range, and the hours and discounts they would be willing to offer the elderly.

If successful, the hot meal program could be the first step toward a comprehensive social program for senior citizen needs in the village, according to Mrs. Boswell.

Multi-family project angers area residents

Plans to build townhouses and apartment condominiums on 50 acres east of the Ivy Hill subdivision in Arlington Heights have raised the hackles of homeowners who say they want the property developed with single-family homes.

The Meister-Neiberg Co., the same builder who developed Ivy Hill, has proposed a mixture of single-family, townhouse and apartment condominiums for the property bounded by Windsor Drive on the west, the Commonwealth Edison right-of-way on the north, Ivy Hill on the east and Palatine Road on the south.

The developer says that the cost of improving the property, in unincorporated Cook County, makes the construction of only single-family homes an economic impossibility.

The homeowners, on the other hand, say they bought their homes in Ivy Hill, many of them investing $60,000 to $70,000, on faith that they were moving into a single-family area.

"THE ARLINGTON Heights Caucus bylaws state that the trustees are pledged to maintain the single-family character of Arlington Heights. If this area goes multi-family, we wonder what's to stop it from going all over," says Robert Renner, 1206 E. Crabtree Dr., one spokesman for the concerned homeowners.

In an effort to mollify some of the homeowners, Meister-Neiberg has made some changes in its development plans, which are now pending before the Arlington Heights Plan Commission.

Density of the development has been scaled down from a total of 450 to 330 units, 17 acres of flood plain land would be donated to the Arlington Heights Park District, 30 single-family homes have been proposed where the property adjoins Ivy Hill, and the four-and five-story apartment buildings have been clustered near the center of the property.

The developers also feel the homeowners have an advantage in the fact that Meister-Neiberg is a builder they know first-hand.

RENNER POINTS out, however, that there are over 300 acres of undeveloped land in the Village of Arlington Heights already zoned for multi-family building.

"Let them build there if they want to put up apartments. Why come into a primarily single-family area," he asks.

The dilemma, according to Village Planner Joe Kessler, is the same in suburban cities and villages across the country.

"My concern is really the need for housing," says Kessler. "People are living in small apartments, looking for a place to live. I hope something will be built."

The next hearing on the project is set for March 28.

Karen O'Brien seeks Illinois beauty title

Karen O'Brien

Karen O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien, 1014 W. Haven Dr., Arlington Heights, will compete in the Miss Illinois Teenager Contest in July at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago.

A student at Rolling Meadows High School, she is on the senior honor roll, sings and plays guitar, is a member of a drill team and is a student guide in the school counseling office. She plans a college major in accounting.

Judging in the Miss Illinois Teenager contest is based on scholastic achievements, civic contributions, poise, personality and appearance.

Student cited

Scott Stevens, 917 N. Hickory Ave., Arlington Heights, has been selected for inclusion in the upcoming edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities." It was announced recently.

Stevens is one of 36 students at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, selected for the honor. Some 200 NIU students were nominated for inclusion in the work.

Factors considered in deciding who is to be included are scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, community service, service to the university and promise of future success.

Peoria internship

Terry Haines of Arlington Heights, a student at Illinois State University, is spending a year as an intern at Methodist Hospital of Central Illinois in Peoria.

Just a peaceful stroll out on a limb—it's the getting down that's tough.

Program to begin Sunday

Local blood donor pledges top 300

More than 300 Arlington Heights residents have pledged a pint of blood each for the village guaranteed blood replacement program.

The blood donations will begin Sunday at Arlington High School, 502 W. Euclid, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Residents who wish to donate should call Dolores Bricker at the Arlington Heights Municipal Building, 233-2340, for an appointment.

Every person who contributes is guaranteed free blood replacement for a year, whether or not they live in Arlington Heights. If four per cent of the village residents contribute to the program every Arlington Heights resident will be guaranteed free blood for a year.

"So far we have had one small drive at St. John's United Church and out of 48 people who pledged to give, 41 people gave blood," said Frank Charleton, director of village health services. A mini-drive is under way today for village employees and Charleton said 62 employees have signed up to give.

So far 11 businesses and churches have signed up to contribute to the blood replacement program. Each of the groups have pledged a one-pint donation from 20 per cent of their employees or congregation.

Northwest Community Hospital is the largest institutional donor. The hospital has pledged one-pint donations from 20 per cent of its approximately 950 employees.

OTHERS PLEDGING 20 per cent donations include Arlington Heights School donors four hours prior to giving.

Residents who wish to donate blood but are unable to make an appointment for Sunday can call the village to sign up for the March 18 drive which will be held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Ann Sullivan School, Palatine and Schoenbeck Roads, Prospect Heights.

Residents may also donate blood at any of four area hospitals and request that the pint be credited to the Arlington Heights 4 per cent plan. Participating hospitals include Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights; Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines; Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge; and St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village.

School board election petitions available

Petitions for candidates to Arlington Heights School Dist. 25 Board of Education are now available in the business office of the administration building, 301 W. South St.

The nominating petitions, complete with about 50 signatures, will be accepted for filing from Feb. 28 through March 23.

Before presenting petitions, candidates must file statements of economic interest with the Cook County Clerk's office. Forms for the statement are also available at the Dist. 25 administration office.

Three three-year board seats will be at stake in the April 14 election.

Mint ordered to quit making plates

A circuit court order has been issued forbidding the Hamilton Mint of Arlington Heights from producing presidential inaugural picture plates.

U. D. District Court Judge Frank J. McGarr issued the temporary restraining order after a suit filed by the Inaugural Committee 1973 of Washington D.C. and the Franklin Mint Co. of Pennsylvania.

A spokesman for Hamilton Mint's attorney said the federal suit charges the Arlington Heights firm with misrepresentation in advertising. The Hamilton Mint allegedly boasts its plates are "the biggest ever made."

The plates contain portraits of President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and the official presidential seal.

The restraining order has been continued until Feb. 7.

Bob Rayunas, vice president of Hamilton Mint, said yesterday the firm has temporarily stopped producing the presidential commemoratives but other production continues at the plant, 40 E. University Dr.

"We are fighting this with our legal people," Rayunas said. "We're not claiming to have anything official."

The Franklin Mint is the nation's largest privately owned mint and according to Rayunas is in competition with the Hamilton Mint.

The Hamilton Mint opened in Arlington Heights less than a year ago. The plant produces medallions, ingots, plates and other art forms in limited numbers, usually in gold and silver.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., has proposed legislation to require registration and licensing of all handguns.

The United States has received a Communist list of seven American POWs held in Laos. (Turn to page 10.)

Survivors of a United Air Lines jet which crashed in Chicago on Dec. 3, killing 43 persons, said the plane began to "shake and shudder" before it struck the ground, Washington safety experts said.

Amtrak officials reported an increasing number of passengers riding the trains... but said deteriorating track conditions threaten high-speed rail service.

Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi was improving but still in critical condition following a holdup outside his Washington home.

The state

The widow of Illinois Harness Racing Commissioner James Hayes has testified that her husband told her former Gov. Otto Kerner asked him in 1965 to change racing dates. (For other testimony see Page 2.)

Rep. Robert Mann, D-Chicago, will ask Gov. Daniel Walker to release $10 million in U.S. funds to help bail out the financially troubled CTA.

Gov. Daniel Walker contends he can hold the line on taxes in the state for the next four years despite predictions that education costs will push taxes higher.

The president of the 1,600-member Illinois Police Federation has strongly criticized David Fogel, and Jerome Miller as Governor Walker's nominations for top positions in the state penal system.

Dads like Girl Scouting

by JOANN VAN WYE

The Girl Scout ranks are being invaded by fathers who want to be active participants in their daughters' scouting activities.

This month several fathers will be representing their daughters' troops and knocking on the doors of other Girl Scout families.

The fathers are participants in the Girl Scout sustaining membership enrollment drive, which will be started Feb. 16 by the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County. While not all of the SME representatives will be men, the Girl Scouts have encouraged male participation as a means by which the fathers can get involved.

Two fathers are serving as SME co-chairman in Palatine this year. It will be the second year as co-chairman for Larry Anderson of 961 Arrowhead, Palatine, who has two daughters in scouting. He was recruited by 1973 SME Council Chairman Warren Coughlin, who is in his car pool, while on the way to work one morning.

PHIL McDONALD, 939 N. Stark, Palatine, is serving with Anderson as co-chairman. McDonald, who has one daughter in scouting, was a troop leader for his daughter's troop during last year's drive.

Before, I used to see my daughter in her uniform at breakfast and that was it. Taking part in the drive has been a pleasant experience and it has helped me in communicating with my daughter.

"When you are sold on something, it is fun to see if you can sell it to someone else," McDonald said.

The SME drive is one of four major fund-raising activities conducted by the Girl Scouts. The drive was started about five years ago when the amount of money the Girl Scouts received from the United Fund started becoming a fixed figure.

A South American adventure

Peruvians 'hook' family

by CINDY TEW

Donald, Lois, Pam and Kim Hodges of Arlington Heights recently got hooked on papaya juice.

During a visit to Peru, which ended last week, the family also got hooked on friendly people and handmade ponchos.

"There was a rock slide on the Pan American Highway (between Lima and Arequipa) and we were stranded for three hours while bulldozers, and finally dynamite, were used to remove the boulders from the road," said Pam, a sophomore at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind.

"We were sunburned and a little scared and very thirsty," she said. "A man came by and heard of our plight and went to a nearby village to get us something to drink."

The man also took the family on a tour of Lima. He wouldn't accept any money for the favor and took a day off to work to give them the tour. "Friendship is more important than money or work," he told them.

The Hodges said the family was treated like "visiting royalty" during the 18-day stay.

THE TRIP WAS a family vacation, a research project and a visit to old friends all wrapped into one for the family.

Pam and Kim, who is a senior at DePauw, are both doing research projects on Peru. Both are majoring in elementary education and have the same adviser. They are also both members of Alpha Phi sorority.

"I'm reporting on modern Peru and Pam is reporting on ancient Peru," said Kim. "It's a very interesting contrast."

The Hodges also spent a great deal of time at the home of Carlos Perea of Arequipa. Lourdes, one of three daughters in the Perea family, spent the 1968-69 school year as an American Field Service student at Arlington High School and lived with the Hodges.

"Lourdes couldn't believe we were coming to visit," said Mrs. Hodges. "It was a very emotional visit."

Lourdes, along with Kim who speaks

Spanish, were the translators for the family.

WHILE STAYING with the Perea family, the Hodges family was treated to shrimp omelets, fresh figs and interesting appetizers.

"They serve delicious corn on the cob with great cheese as an appetizer. The corn has huge sweet kernels," said Mrs.

Hodges. "They also have two course desserts — like fruit then cake. They drink fresh papaya juice and white wine with their meals."

Mrs. Hodges also said Peruvians don't share a "throw-away society" with the United States. Instead of paper plates, for example, appetizers are served on small paper squares.

The Des Plaines connection

Heroin smuggling ring smashed; many indicted

A man who allegedly sold heroin to an undercover agent in the Holiday Inn at Mannheim Road and Touhy Avenue in Des Plaines is one of the 16 persons who was indicted in a smuggling conspiracy this week.

The man, Richard J. Kunev, 32, Boden, Pa., allegedly sold a quantity of heroin to an agent of the U.S. Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement on Oct. 19 at the Holiday Inn.

Kunev is one of the nine indicted persons whose names were released yesterday. He is in custody.

Des Plaines is named in the indictments as one of the distribution points for the smuggling ring whose members are charged with conspiring to smuggle $2 million in heroin from South Vietnam to Chicago and three other American cities.

THE RING reportedly included employees of a Texas company which has a defense contract for maintaining military aircraft in South Vietnam. U.S. military aircraft were allegedly used in transporting the heroin.

Others indicted were natives of India and one was a native of South Vietnam.

U.S. officials were seeking custody of the non-Americans who were believed to be in South Vietnam.

The 7.65 pounds of heroin involved in the case was said to be 90 per cent pure. It was smuggled into the country inside television picture tubes aboard Military Assistance Command flights to California from South Vietnam.

The smuggling operation was first discovered by Chicago police who called federal agents into the case after learning of the international operation of the ring.

Other U.S. cities where the heroin was distributed included Los Angeles, Indianapolis, Ind., and Phoenix, Ariz.

Des Plaines grocery store robbed of $155 by youth

A Des Plaines grocery store was robbed early yesterday by a youth who threatened a store employee with a butcher knife and then escaped with $155, police said.

Clifford Whitcomb of Palatine, an employee at the 7-Eleven store, 810 S. Elmhurst Rd., was alone in the store when the bandit entered and displayed the knife. He was handed a paper bag and told to fill it with money, police said.

The robber, described by Whitcomb as 17 or 18 years old, about five feet 10 inches, with a high-pitched voice and wearing a green Army jacket with a hood, then ran north on Elmhurst Road.

UP, UP AND AWAY!

This is our advice regarding where you should store your drugs and medicines if you have young children around the house — up, up and away! Up, up, out of reach — and away out of their sight. And preferably also under lock and key.

Children, as we all know but may sometimes forget temporarily, have an endless curiosity. They love to get into things. If they should get into your drugs and medicines, the results could be disastrous and tragic. So always keep in mind the necessity for being exceptionally careful and alert with your medications. Don't leave them around where the youngsters can get at them.

Family of balloonists

'Up, up and away' with the Shaws

by MARCIA KRAMER

The neighbors are going to have a tough time keeping up with Wayne and Carole Shaw. The Palatine couple became the first family on the block — and possibly the first in the Northwest suburbs — to go out and get themselves a balloon.

Not the birthday party variety, mind you, but a full-fledged three seater (stander, actually) that whisks them above the treetops, away from the noise and congestion below, in whichever direction the wind happens to take them.

The Shaws just happen to like that "up, up and away" feeling. Ballooning, to them, is "an aesthetically appealing way of flying...it's almost like they're rolling the world around beneath you."

Wayne (you can call him Capt. Flagg) hasn't quite gotten over his first ballooning experience last summer. "Higher than a kite," he describes himself. "I didn't actually come down, mentally, until about a week later."

BUT BY the time his feet had reached the ground, he and his wife had decided to invest in a balloon of their own.

The cost: $11,000. "We got all the options," Shaw said "...bric brac, interior lighting, feathering equipment..." You can pick up a balloon for as little as $6,000.

Ballooning is a profit-making venture for the Shaws, at least until they've paid off their hefty investment by teaching ballooning skills or anchoring the Zeppelin in a parking lot with an advertisement on its side.

But they got into it more as a hobby, a sport, "an acceptable way of being a little kid again."

Most aeronauts, or balloonists, take a similar sporting view. The races aren't known for their competition as much as for their fun, and the purses are little more than tokens.

EVEN THE concept of a race is contrary to the usual image of ballooning as a leisurely-paced sport, an 80-day journey around the world. Ballooning is not so much a means of transportation as a way "to get away from it all."

"The initial reaction of a lot of people is, 'You're crazy,'" says Shaw. "Like you're sitting up there, a couple thousand feet, in a dinky little gondola."

But the gondola, or basket, and the cross-stitched nylon balloon are really "quite strong," and balloonists have a good safety record. There have been a couple of fatalities and many more instances of landing in treetops, but as the Shaws put it: "You're as safe as you make it."

To be sure, they do carry insurance for damage to the balloon — which they have dubbed "Eagle II" for no apparent reason — as well as to other people's property. As added insurance, they keep a 250-foot rope in the gondola in case they stray off course and need to be pulled to a suitable landing spot. And if all else fails, there's always the traditional bottle of champagne to offer the chagrined farmer whose crops were smashed.

It's unlikely that the Shaws will ever land on your front lawn. They plan to do their ballooning around Long Grove and points west, or perhaps south of Chicago. The idea, of course, is to stay away from heavily populated areas and, not incidentally, to stay out of the O'Hare jet paths.

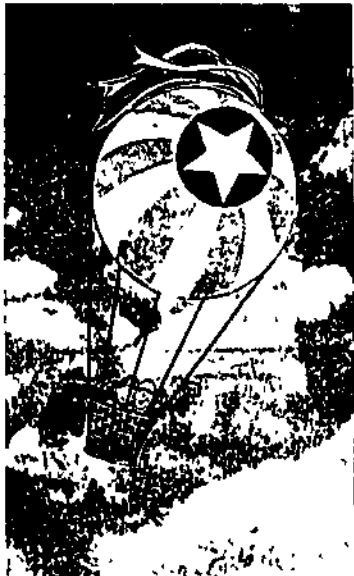

HOT-AIR balloons such as the Shaws don't figure to get too close to airplanes. The balloons generally drift at an altitude of 500 feet, at whatever speed the wind happens to be blowing. Balloonists don't go up unless the wind is less than 12 mph.

When they do venture above the treetops, it's no simple matter. Flames and hot air — about 250 degrees — are blown into the balloon by devices similar to Bunsen burners. The balloon itself measures 70 feet tall, and 50 feet across.

When it comes time to land, usually after two to three hours, some of the hot air is gradually let out of the balloon. The landing is "pretty hard," Shaw says, "but not really any harder than a parachute landing would be."

He's had his share of ups and downs. Shaw was a marine helicopter pilot for four years, including a stint in Vietnam.

LATER, as an architect, "I missed flying." A late night talk show interview with one of the country's foremost balloonists convinced the Shaws to take up the sport.

Next year, after "Capt. Flagg" obtains his Federal Aviation Administration license, the Shaws plan to enter national and world ballooning championships.

What's next? "Well," mused Carole Shaw, "I've always wanted to take up parachuting."

Unit school study will continue

The Citizens' Reorganization Study Committee for Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 voted overwhelmingly last night to continue its unit district (grades kindergarten through 12) feasibility study.

The vote came despite a recommendation by the citizen's group's states and legal aspects subcommittee to suspend the study. The subcommittee proposed that the citizens' group join with High School Dist. 214 in its study of the feasibility of forming a unit district in the Northwest suburbs.

The subcommittee also recommended that the Dist. 59 study be suspended until two court cases that could change the financing of unit and dual districts are decided.

One case, in the federal district court in Chicago challenges the constitutionality of the state's providing more state aid to unit than to dual districts. The other, now before the supreme court claims that the disparity in financing is discriminatory and violates the 14th Amendment.

THE CITIZEN'S group also voted for an extension of the March 1 deadline for its final recommendation to the Dist. 59 school board. The unit district steering committee, composed of the chairmen of the group's five subcommittees will decide on a new deadline.

After the vote, the committee discussed four alternate boundaries for a unit district. At Herald press time, however, no decision on which boundary would be the most suitable for a unit district was made.

The four alternatives that were considered for a unit district are:

•Elk Grove Village unit, formed by splitting the present Dist. 59 along the Northwest Tollway.

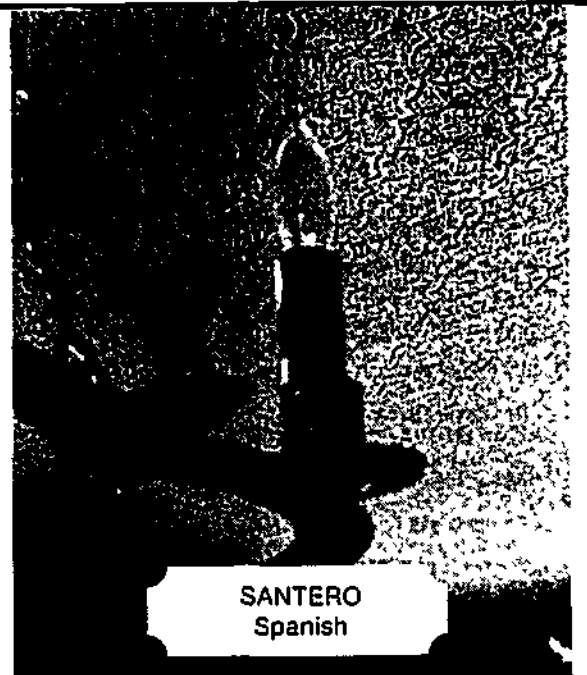

•A unit of the present boundaries of Dist. 59. This would probably take in Elk Grove and Forest View high schools.

•A unit of the attendance boundaries of the four southern high schools in Dist. 214: Elk Grove, Forest View, Rolling Meadows and Prospect high schools.

•Making Dist. 214 a unit district.

TV Mailbag

c/o Paddock Publications P.O. Box 280 Arlington Heights, Illinois 60006

My sister watches CAPTAIN KANGAROO. She wants to know what his name is, where he was born, and if he is married.

Loel Nesmith
Arlington Heights

Bob Keeshan

The Captain is played by his creator, Bob Keeshan. The show premiered in 1955 and has been one of the most popular children's programs on TV. Keeshan, 45, and his staff have guided the program over the years with two simple precepts: That young children are intelligent human beings and of equal importance, that young people are of potentially good taste.

Keeshan and his wife Jeanne live in New York and have three children, Michael, 21; Laune, 19; and Maeve, 17. Bob was born in Lynbrook, N.Y. Someone in your family may remember the HOWDY DOODY SHOW. Perhaps they even remember Clarabelle the Clown. For five years Bob played the part. Throughout the years, Bob and his series have won numerous awards from the TV industry, as well as from organizations interested in better programs for children.

On the SUNDAY NIGHT MYSTERY MOVIE, Peter Falk, who plays Columbo, never seems to say his first name. Our family listens, but never hears it. Could you please help?

K.F.

Arlington Heights

The reason your family never hears a first name is because the lieutenant does not have one given to him—he's either called Lt. or Columbo. Give your ears a break, they no longer have to imagine that they missed the name!

...

I think I'm the biggest fan for Lucille Ball. I always watch her shows and read about her. I even made a scrapbook of only her. Why don't they put her in movies or as guest stars on shows? Please tell me where I could write to be sure that she reads my letter? How old was Lucy when she started on TV? Please print the biggest and prettiest picture you have of Lucy that would fit in the Mailbag.

D.P.
Hoffman Estates

Lucille Ball

Lucy is such a busy gal that she doesn't have a lot of free time. She does, however, do appearances on some special shows such as the Emmy Award Show. Several movies have starred her, but no recent ones.

The career of Lucille actually started when she left home at age 15 and enrolled in a dramatic school where she was told she had no future in show business. However, she landed a chorus job in the road company of Ziegfeld's show and was fired after five weeks. She then, to sustain herself, took modeling jobs until Eddie Cantor gave her her first Hollywood role. At the time of her first series, I LOVE LUCY, Miss Ball was already 41 years old (now she is 61.)

The folks at CBS-TV, 51 W. 52nd St., New York, N.Y. 10019 will forward the fan mail to her.

Can you send me an autographed picture of Robert Wagner? How old is he?

Brad Purcell
DesPlaines

Robert Wagner

Although we can't send you an autographed picture of Robert, we can print one for you. It was while still in high school that Robert aspired to a career in the theatre and decided to become an actor. At 17, he bluffed his way into a casting office for an audition. Stage fright overtook him, he flubbed his lines and bolted in panic. By 19, he had regained some confidence and a motion picture contract with Fox, but before making his film debut in "The Halls of Montezuma", he did over 50 screen tests. Since then the forty-two-year-old Robert has starred in over 30 films and on TV several times. He recently re-married actress Natalie Wood.

Could you please tell me who the creature before and after commercials on CREATURE

FEATURES is? How long has the program EMERGENCY been on the air? Does it have good ratings?

M.C.

Arlington Heights

At the present time, EMERGENCY has substantial ratings. The show has been televised since the fall season of 1972.

Carl Grayson is the man made up as the creature shown between the movie and commercials.

Please tell me a little about Richard Dawson who plays Newkirk on HOGAN'S HEROES. Is he married and does he have any children? How old is he?

L.B.

Arlington Heights

After rising to featured billing in some of England's top theaters, Dawson came to this country in 1962, where he has played nightclubs, made three movies and numerous TV appearances.

A role was created for him on THE DICK VAN DYKE SHOW, he became a fixture of THE MIKE STOKEY SHOW, an occasional visitor to ROWAN AND MARTIN'S LAUGH IN, and then spent the better part of five years on HOGAN'S HEROES as Newkirk, the sticky-fingered safecracker.

A native of Gosport, England, the thirty-eight year-old Dickie is now divorced.

There is a reasonably new character called Teddy, in the story GENERAL HOSPITAL on channel 7 Monday through Friday, who is a look-alike for Lee Majors who appears in the story COUNSELLOR AT LAW on the same channel. Are these two actors brothers?

H.B.

Elk Grove Village

James Westmoreland plays the part of Teddy Holmes on the soap, GENERAL HOSPITAL. As far as we could discern, he is not related in any way to Lee Majors—definitely not brothers!

'The Search for the Nile'

"The Search for the Nile," a six-part dramatized documentary of the epic search for the source of the Nile River by explorers in the mid-19th century, will be colorcast on WFLD-TV, Channel 32, Saturday evenings from 6 to 7 p.m. beginning February 3.

The series, the greatest real-life adventure story of the Victorian era, was filmed as a dramatized documentary. The actors played their roles as explorers in the actual locations in Africa and England, where all the action took place.

The BBC produced series won two Emmy awards and received unanimous acclaim.

Producer Christopher Ralling headed a BBC team which traveled thousands of miles throughout Africa to reconstruct the object of the explorers' journeys: to answer the centuries-old mystery concerning the source of the Nile River, which flows for over a thousand miles through parched desert without a tributary or a drop of rain. To adventurers of the Victorian period, the search became an obsession, much as the conquest of Mount Everest and later the moon were to become in the Twentieth century.

The six strong-willed explorers who participated in this epic quest were jealous of each other, contemptuous of each other's theories, and quick to discredit each other whenever the chance arose. They were a disparate group, united only by a common drive to solve one of the great riddles of geography and exploration—and to carve a place for themselves in the history books of the future. Their individual sagas are skillfully woven together in the six episodes of "The Search for the Nile."

The first chapter, to be colorcast February 3, 'The Dream of the Wanderer,' introduces the extraordinary writer-explorer-rebel Sir Richard Burton (played by Kenneth Haigh).

MODEL AVIATION WITH YOUR SON

Dads,

Now that the bowl games are over and it's too cold to pursue your golf game, how about taking on a "Father & Son" project of building a model plane? Can you remember struggling with a 10c comet "paper & stick" model years ago while listening to "The Shadow" or "The Lone Ranger?" I do. I can still smell the "banana oil." The 10c "comet" kit is now 50c but what hasn't gone up.

We still stock "comet" as well as others from 29c to $12.00. We even have some old "solid models" (wood, not plastic).

Stop by with this ad & we'll give you one "on the house."

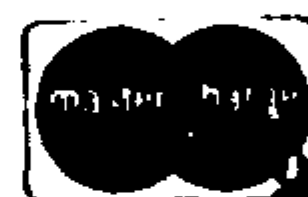

Send this ad in and we'll send one out if you can't make it in.

The Dr. on easy livin'

Written by Managing Editor Karen Johnson following an interview with Dr. Joyce Brothers whose newest television offering "Trevira Presents: Living Easy With Dr. Joyce Brothers" aired Jan. 22 on WGN-TV Channel 9 Chicago. The Monday thru Friday program time slot is 10-10:30 a.m.

The story line is simple. The subject matter deals with role-playing in terms of masculine and feminine genders. It is indicative of the method that the soft spoken psychologist Dr. Joyce Brothers uses when she mixes education, understanding and common sense as she serves up thought-provoking material in a world where so many look for water-tight answers to living:

"Aunt Suzie pays a visit. Mommy sends little Johnny outside to play while she and Aunt Suzie chat. Little Janie is invited to pass cookies and learn social graces. Janie grows up free to identify/respond to people. Johnny is divorced from this learning by our culture."

THE PSYCHOLOGIST pauses as if projecting this situation into the future...which is just what she does. "Later in life it's Janie that calls that couple that bore she and her husband to death to say, "'We'd love to accept your invitation, but...' The adult Janie continues to learn. Taking factors about human behavior from TV soap operas and books. Her husband picks up a science fiction novel and escapes."

Dr. Brothers shakes her blonde bob in disagreement. "The more you know about life...the easier it is," says she. Easier living is the sum total of the Doctor's newest TV show "Trevira Presents: Living Easy With Dr. Joyce Brothers." People, their awareness of the roles they play in life, and the effect of that "acting" upon their lives.

Talk about psychology, psychologists and psychiatrists is the current favorite that hostesses pass along with the mushroom dip. Television has had its own "dip" into the people/problems thing on many levels, but the Brothers' show has some distinctive curves that can't be denied.

ALL ASPECTS OF the complete spectrum of life such as fashion, medicine, entertainment and information will find their time slot. Guest stars like Johnny Cash will entertain and then talk. Celebrities won't be the only category in the people department. Dr. Brothers mentioned a female balloonist who recently taped a segment. "It's a good deal of fun," she told me, "enjoyment is part of life."

The learning won't be limited to the TV room either. "Our guests have gone away saying things like, 'I've learned something about myself that I didn't know,' the psychologist said. She told of taping a program with Richard Roundtree, star of "Shaft." "I commented that he always seemed so calm, cool and collected. He looked up and said, 'I'm terrified.'" Case in point.

So as the female/male emotional world begins to breathe a little freer and the word "people" enjoys a heyday..."Living Easy" seems a natural.

Will it be a woman's lib type show? "Pro 'human' liberation," the hostess said. While men have been forced into what is falsely called a "masculine" role, women too may be brewing problems along with the morning coffee.

"For the first time women are having an identity problem," is the way the Doctor put it. "They received their identity from their father. Then, as a sister or mother. Now, women are trying to identify as people." This identity," says Dr. Brothers," should be viewed in terms of individual needs and desires. It's not a matter of closing doors...but opening them."

But isn't life sometimes too much? "Oh, some people run off to a South Sea Island to escape the problems and pollution," she answered. "But, they are back in six months leaving the idealic life behind them. Human beings aren't meant to run away. It's the balance of security and stimulation that keeps them healthy and moving forward. If that weren't true we'd still be living in caves."

And so, Dr. Brothers and her "something different from anything I've ever done" show will view celebrities and "just folks" alike in search of those common grounds where the hassle and hoorays of life meet.

William Shatner guest stars tonight on 'Barnaby Jones'

William Shatner guest stars as Phil Carlyle, a man who embezzles his wife's fortune and then kills a man to make it look like his own death in order to establish a new life for himself with a beautiful woman, played by Janice Rule, in the second episode of "Barnaby Jones," starring Buddy Ebsen, Sunday, Feb. 4 on the CBS Television Network.

Hired to find the missing dead man, Barnaby Jones traces Carlyle to a mountain cabin where he has assumed a new identity. Jones' suspicions are aroused when he questions Carlyle about an exotic fishing lure he's using.

Animated version

'Johnny Appleseed' story aired tonight on WGN-TV

An animated version of the beloved story of "Johnny Appleseed" will be the "Family Theatre" special Sunday, February 4, 6-7 p.m. on Channel 9.

Kind, loving, and eccentric are the words for Johnny Appleseed, the quixotic folk hero whose mission it is to roam the land planting the apple seeds that eventually grow into fruit that, eaten once a day, keeps the doctor away.

Johnny's appearance is as strange as his profession. Barefoot winter and summer, he wears an upside-down steel cooking pot on his head with the handle protruding in front of his jaw like a chin guard. Two love birds perch on the handle and a raccoon squats on top of the pot with his tail hanging down Johnny's back.

For all of his bizarre get-up and mission, Johnny has a heart of gold. Out of the goodness of his heart, he frees the townsfolk from their dependence on Dr. Staywell's quack medicine, then recruits the now-penitent "Dr." to take over as the appleseed planter for his Western Territory.

Hawkeye's correspondence with his father relates more madcap adventures

Hawkeye continues his correspondence with his father, dispatching a letter home which relates more of the madcap incidents that make life in a M*A*S*H unit like a three-ring circus, on "M*A*S*H" Sunday, Feb. 4 on the CBS Television Network.

Among the tales Hawkeye tells are the time a blackout occurred during surgery, the strange story of Corporal Klinger and his unique campaign to get out of the Army, and an explanation of a M*A*S*H-style track event, which includes the "100-meter slow."

A shopkeeper becomes key to death plot

Jack Lord

Nehemiah Persoff plays an obscure shopkeeper who calls himself Peter Winkler and becomes the catalyst in a plot to assassinate a high-level Iron Curtain defector, on "Hawaii Five-O" Tuesday, Feb. 6 on the CBS Television Network.

McGarrett becomes interested in Winkler when the shopkeeper is involved in a minor incident and no proof can be found that a "Peter Winkler" does, indeed, exist.

Interesting data from Disney

In researching material for "50 Happy Years," the golden anniversary celebration of Disney Studios on NBC Television Network's "The Wonderful World of Disney," earlier this year, the following data came to light.

Walt Disney's first animated series of films was "Alice's Wonderland." They were comedies and 56 of them were made. At various times, Virginia Davis, Dawn O'Day and Margie Gay were the voice of Alice.

Mickey Mouse made his debut in April, 1928, in "Plane Crazy," but with the advent of sound, it couldn't be sold. Therefore, on Nov. 18, 1928, Mickey was seen and heard by the public for the first time in what was actually the third of the Mickey series, "Steamboat Willie." It was the first fully synchronized sound cartoon and opened at the Colony Theater in New York.

The first "Silly Symphony," titled "The Skeleton Dance," was released in July, 1929. Disney's first color cartoon and first Academy Award was in 1932, for "Flowers and Trees."

Donald Duck made his first appearance June 9, 1934, in "The Wise Little Hen." Disney's first true-life adventure, "Seal Island," was released May 4, 1949. The first Disney TV show was "One Hour in Wonderland," in 1950.

The first Disney TV series was telecast Oct. 27, 1954. The "Mickey Mouse Club" was first shown on TV Oct. 3, 1955. The 100,000,000th guest at Disneyland was welcomed June 17, 1971.

JAY ALLEN

Bumming around just like Oscar

If you think that Oscar Madison, that messy, free-wheeling sportswriter half of TV's "Odd Couple," is a bum...well, perhaps it's due in part to one of actor Jack Klugman's ambitions.

"Yeah, if I weren't doing what I'm doing now," the co-star of ABC's comedy series told me, "I'd like to be a bum. Based a little on my lifestyle — past and present — I think I'd be rather good at it."

THE REAL-LIFE Klugman and Oscar are very much alike, and the major reason behind the similarity lies in the fact that Klugman has portrayed Oscar more than any other actor. Besides the TV part (now in its third season), Klugman portrayed the devil-may-care Oscar in playwright Neil Simon's hit comedy on both the Broadway and London stages.

And Klugman, who won an Emmy for the television role in 1971, readily admits that "Madison has become an extension of my own person. He loves to gamble...loves the chicks...loves sports...and is as messy as I really am. You ought to see my closet at home!"

Jack Klugman

While the 50-year-old actor may aspire to bum around a bit, his popularity has resulted in a schedule that allows little time for it. Klugman claims "The Odd Couple" shooting demands as much work as ever, and with offers for motion pictures and other appearances directed his way, he's been busy. Recently, he moved his wife (actress Brett Somers) and their two sons (ages 13 and 10) to southern California from the former family residence in Connecticut.

EXPLAINING THAT ACTING has proven "an exciting life," Klugman nevertheless looks forward to a less hectic schedule, "perhaps in a couple years or so." The Philadelphia-born actor — who labored through many skimpy years of odd jobs before breaking in on the New York stage — candidly admits that "The Odd Couple" probably has a rather limited time remaining as a television series.

"Everything on TV relates to the numbers," Klugman says, referring to the importance of ratings. "There is so much left undone that television could do, but because of the numbers game, probably won't get done." As far as "The Odd Couple" goes, it faces the same fate that the majority of TV situation comedies do: it simply runs out of situations that can be consistently funny enough to sustain a large audience year after year.

On his own future in the industry, Klugman isn't sure what will beckon him. While he revealed that he has numerous offers for motion pictures (including many made-for-TV quickies), Klugman will undoubtedly be very selective.

"MAKING MOVIES IS really rather boring," says the man who has made many a movie. Klugman wouldn't pinpoint any of his specific film efforts that fit the "boring" label, but did say that only two — "Twelve Angry Men" and "Goodbye, Columbus" — really satisfied him.

It is Oscar Madison's character, however, that most people associate with Jack Klugman. Most of the fan mail that he gets, the actor told me, "has to do with Oscar and me. So many people really write and want to know what I think of Oscar's habits...how my life parallels his. It's crazy, man, but you know...there's so little difference between us two."

There would be little surprise, I'm sure, if the messy, sportswriting half of "The Odd Couple" were to walk into that bachelor apartment some night after work and tell his roomie Felix Ungar that he felt "like just bumming it for awhile."

Knowing Oscar, there's really nothing that would convince me that Klugman wouldn't do the same. That is, if the public and those Hollywood producers would let him do it.
